H. WARREN, A.M.I.C.E., Whitworth Scholar, Society of Arts Technological Scholar, Royal Exhibitioner, Past Student of Owen's College and the Royal College of Science, Dublin. ADMISSION FREE. Being the introductory Lecture to a course of fifty lectures to be delivered on Applied Mechanics, illustrated by models.
SYLLABUS:
Principle of statics—representation of forces by lines. Parallel forces. Moments. Centre of gravity.
The principle of work and its application to the simple machines. Horse power.
Strength and properties of materials—tensile. Compressive. Shearing and testing strains. The calculation of the strains on framed and braced structures treated graphically.
The elements of mechanism—teeth of wheels. Transmission of power by wheel work and belting. Speed cones. Screws and screw cutting. Link and parallel motions. Machine tools. Lathes, planing and slotting machines.
The principles of hydrostatics, hydraulics, and pneumatics, with their applications to pumps, presses, hydraulic cranes, hoists, water wheels, diving bell.
Heat and steam engine—expansion of bodies by heat. Specific and latent heat. Mechanical equivalent of heat. Conduction, radiation, and absorption.
Expansion of steam in the cylinder of a steam engine. Construction of steam engines and boilers.
The large collection of mechanical models and apparatus lately purchased by the committee will be used to illustrate the lecture, which will be made as practical as possible. Complex formulæ will be avoided as much as possible, and graphic representations will be fully used. Tuesdays and Fridays at 8. Fee, £1 1s for the course; 12s 6d for half the course; or 1s single admission. Intending Students should join at once.
JOHN ROGERS, Secretary.

FREETHOUGHT PLATFORM.
THEATRE ROYAL.
SUNDAY EVENING, JULY 17, 1881.
MR. CHARLES BRIGHT
will deliver a LECTURE, entitled
CARLYLE AND "THE WEEKLY ADVOCATE."
THE WESLEYAN SCHEME OF MAGICAL SALVATION CONSIDERED.
"For true Christianity Carlyle has no sneer, no word of dispraise, but only reverent and hearty praise. * * * He knows right well what a Church ought to be. * * * If Mr. Bright had taken the trouble to find out what Carlyle's opinions about Christianity really were; or if to find that out had really been his desire, he need not have placed himself before the readers of the Herald in such a ridiculous position. Carlyle was far too grand a man to afford any countenance to Mr. Bright's anti-Christian ravings."—Weekly Advocate, July 2.
As showing that "Carlyle's opinions about Christianity" agree rather with Mr. Bright's than with those of the W. A., this is what he says about METHODISM:—"Fit only for a gross and vulgar-minded people, a religion so-called; and the essence of it principally COWARDICE and HUNGER, terror of pain and appetite for pleasure both carried to the infinite."—REMINISCENCES, Vol. 1, page 296.

PARLIAMENT OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY, JULY 15.

The SPEAKER took the chair at 29 minutes past 4.

QUESTIONS.

Mr. WATSON, in answer to Mr. Young, said: The Ballina, the property of the Clarence and Richmond Rivers Steam Navigation Company, was some time since wrecked at the entrance of Port Macquarie. Several applications were made to the company by the Marine Board calling upon them to remove the wreck from the entrance to the harbour, and in reply to these they disputed their liability. On the 22nd April the papers were sent to the Crown Solicitor, with a view to compel them under the 111th clause of the Navigation Act; and he was informed that the Crown Solicitor had taken the necessary steps.

Sir HENRY PARKES, in reply to Mr. Davies, for Mr Abigail, said the names of the persons to whom was entrusted the distribution of the money received from the Austrian Band concerts, held in the Garden Palace, were Sir Alfred Stephen, Sir John Hay, Sir Wigram Allen, and Sir Patrick Jennings; that £302 17s. 5d. had been distributed to the Sydney Ragged Schools, the Night Refuge and Soup Kitchen, the Destitute Children's Asylum, the Deaf and Dumb and Blind Asylum, the Industrial Blind Institution, the Female Refuge, the House of the Good Samaritan, the Sydney Infirmary, the St. Vincent's Hospital, the Hospital for Sick Children, the Sydney Sailors' Home, and the National Shipwreck Relief Society, preference being given to those which appeared most in need of assistance; that a letter had been sent to Sir A. Stephen, asking why the Benevolent Society had been excluded from the distribution, and that gentleman had sent a letter in reply refusing to give the information, as he said he and the gentlemen acting with him were responsible for the trust confided in them only to the Government; that he (Sir Henry Parkes) had received a letter from the House Committee of the Benevolent Society upon the same subject, and had sent no answer; and that he had been assured by Sir Alfred Stephen that no unsectarian society had been overlooked.

Mr. WATSON, in reply to Mr. Tarrant, said that the Brisbane, on her last voyage to this port, had a Chinese passenger on board suffering from small-pox, and Dr. Spencer, the gentleman at present engaged by the Government to inspect persons reported to be suffering from small-pox, was the surgeon in charge of the ship during the voyage; that the Brisbane was released from quarantine after a detention of twenty-three clear days, on the report of the Health Officer that she might be allowed pratique without danger to public health; and that he had no objection to lay copies of the correspondence upon the table.

Mr. WATSON, in reply to Mr. Tarrant, said he would be prepared to give information in regard to the hospital ship Far-away on Tuesday next.

Mr. LACKEY, in answer to Mr. Young, said the contract time at which the dredge now building for the Manning River should have been completed and delivered was 25th May, 1881; that she was likely to be completed in about a month; and that a penalty of £5 per day for every day over contract time had been, and would be, enforced.

Mr. LACKEY, in answer to Mr. Young, said the punts for the Manning River were to be completed by the 1st August next, under a penalty of £5 per day for every day over contract time.

Mr. LACKEY, in reply to Mr. Lynch, for Mr. Combes, said it was the intention of the Government to call for tenders for the construction of the Murrumburrah and Blayney line of railway on the plans approved by Parliament without unnecessary delay; that surveyors had been taken from Blayney to make trial surveys from Murrumburrah to Forbes, but others had been sent to replace them.

Mr. LACKEY, in answer to Mr. Lynch for Mr. Combes, said he would give certain information with regard to expenditure on railway works as early as possible.

Mr. LACKEY, in answer to Mr. Lynch for Mr. Combes, said that the total amount of rolling stock on the New South Wales railways was as follows:—Locomotives—Northern lines, 51; Southern and Western lines, 170; total, 221. Passenger stock, number of carriages—Northern lines, 183; Southern and Western lines, 341; total, 524. Goods stock, number of waggons, trucks, &c.—Northern lines, 1007; Southern and Western lines, 3596; total, 4603. Totals—Northern lines, 1241; Southern and Western lines, 4107; total, 5348.

Mr. BAKER, in answer to Mr. J. P. Abbott, said the plan of the road from Quirindi to Yarraman was finished but the date of the opening of the road could not be fixed.

Mr. BAKER, in reply to Mr. J. P. Abbott, said no report upon the application for a road from the Great Northern Road to the Muswellbrook Recreation Ground had been received from the district surveyor, who had not recommended that the application should be complied with. No further step in the matter could be taken till his report was received.

Mr. HOSKINS, in answer to Mr. Burns, said it was the intention of the Government to introduce during the present session the Conditional Purchases Legalising Bill.

Mr. BAKER, in answer to Mr. Trickett, said the reason the new South Head Road varied so much in width was because it had been so fenced by the holders of the adjoining lands that the position and width of it had not until recently been fixed by survey and proclamation. It was believed that a greater width could not legally be obtained except propectively by alignment under the Act 2 Victoria No. 2; and as it was fenced at various widths, it had been aligned under that Act, with the object of widening and making it a more uniform breadth throughout. A letter had been received from Mr. Buckland, agent for the Cooper estate, in which he stated he was agreeable, without compensation, to the alignment being amended, so as to give regular lines and a uniform width of road, but no specific width was mentioned. It was doubtful whether the alignment, having been carried out, could be set aside and a new alignment made without a special Act of Parliament.

Mr. WATSON, in answer to Mr. Abigail for Mr. Garrard, said the papers connected with the inquiries at Goat Island would be laid upon the table as soon as revised.

Mr. HOSKINS, in answer to Mr. Abigail for Mr. Garrard, gave some information in reference to the number of hours the clerks in the "iron" room of the Lands Department had to work. The number of clerks employed was not insufficient to perform the duties required of them.

Mr. HOSKINS, in answer to Mr. Slattery for Mr. Forster, said that 9½ perches of land near Blue's Point, North Shore, had been granted or promised to be granted, in the way of reclamation, to Mr. John Stevens by the present Government. The Borough Council of Victoria protested, but a large petition was received in favour of the alienation. The land would be granted as stated.

Mr. WATSON, in reply to Mr. Slattery for Mr. Forster, said the disease known as the "small-pox" is of such a nature as to render it both difficult and dangerous to institute personal inquiries from the patients themselves. All practical inquiries have been made as the opportunities offered, but it is not possible at present to make complete inquiries and investigation. Judging, however, from a number of coincident circumstances, it is believed that the disease originated in Sydney amongst the Chinese, but whether new arrivals or not it is impossible to say.

Sir HENRY PARKES, in answer to Dr. Ross, said he was afraid the Government could not undertake to see that all Acts of Parliament were punctuated.

Mr. WATSON, in reply to Mr. Jacob, said that the certificates for packet licenses and the licenses themselves named the places between which the packets were described as trading. Two such licenses had been granted during the past twelve months, viz., to the harbour steamers Fairlight and Swan.

PAPER.

Mr. LACKEY laid upon the table Abstract of Lands Resumed for Public Purposes under the Lands for Public Purposes Acquisition Act.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. BYRNES said he had no desire to obstruct the public business by moving the adjournment of the House. He did so to call attention to a proceeding which took place in reference to Jeanneret's Tramway Bill. He found to his surprise that that bill last evening was received upon a petition presented by Mr. Burns, passed through all its stages, and sent to the Upper House. This bill had been fully discussed last session, and had lapsed, he supposed, in consequence of the prorogation of Parliament. He thought therefore that if this bill was to be again dealt with in this House, some notice should have been given to hon. members in order that they might know what business they had to deal with. On the contrary, they found that it had been passed through all its stages in one evening on a petition presented by the hon. member (Mr. Burns). They must have been well aware that he was entirely opposed to this bill, and yet he had been prevented from expressing his opinion by the action of the hon. member. He was surprised when he came down to the House yesterday evening, somewhat late—he had been prevented from coming earlier by public business—to find that this bill had gone through all its stages. He did not wish, in addressing the House upon this question, to impugn the position of Mr. Speaker, or to impute improper motives to him, in allowing this bill to pass. On the contrary, he believed Mr. Speaker was actuated by too high and honourable motives to allow anything of the kind. But when he saw that this question had been passed through the House under the 65th Standing Order, he spoke to a great many members of the House about it, and there really seemed to be a great difference of opinion in reference to this 65th Standing Order. And if there was such a difference of opinion among the older members, the sooner this Standing Order was altered the better. Hon. members knew how little they knew of the business which took place in the House until they read the business paper on the following day, or saw it in the morning papers. All they heard, as a rule, was Mr. Speaker saying, "The question is that this petition be received;" and they knew as much about the petition as it knew about them. The sooner this sort of thing was put a stop to the better it would be for the country, as it was quite possible that the House might pass a bill, and circumstances arise afterwards which might induce the House to reject it when it was again brought before them. This bill was not wanted for Parramatta: and he had to complain of the way in which the House had dealt with it altogether. The persons who knew most about it had not been present when it was brought on. He himself had been absent through illness. The hon. member for St. Leonards had said that his opposition to the bill arose only from personal motives. On the contrary, his opposition to it was based upon the fact that a number of gentlemen residing in George-street, through which the proposed tramway would pass, were very much opposed to the bill; and he quite believed that hon. members would give some sympathy to these people, when so many people in Sydney were declaiming against tramways as a nuisance and an obstruction. Why should the people of Parramatta have a tramway forced upon them, when a petition had been sent in against it? The committee who sat upon the bill had never had this petition under their consideration. The hon. member, instead of postponing the bill as the petitioners required, went on with it, and thanks to the Government it had been passed. If the Government had not given it their support it would not have been carried, as the majority was only 17. He therefore complained of the conduct of the Government. The tramway would ruin a good street in Parramatta, and additional taxation would require to be imposed to keep it in repair. The tramway would become, as it had become in Sydney, an intolerable nuisance, or else a very costly affair for the Corporation. The bill was a monstrous affair. There were in it no penalties or conditions to keep this roadway in order. Supposing he knew nothing of the pecuniary position of Mr. Jeanneret, it might be that he was in no position to keep that street in repair. The Corporation might then bring an action against him, and recover damages; but if he had nothing to pay, what good would result? He complained of the hurried manner in which the bill had been passed through last night. If it were a bill only to suit private interests, then he could understand that it should be smuggled through; but if it were supported by the Government in the interests of the public, then he was surprised that they had allowed this tramway to be controlled by a private individual after they had so decidedly expressed themselves against allowing the Sydney Tramway and Omnibus Company, or any other private individuals, to have control of those constructed in Sydney. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BURNS regretted that the hon. member for Parramatta had not been present when this bill was before the House; but he assured the hon. member that the bill was not pushed on in consequence of his absence. He explained that he had been requested by his hon. friend, Mr. Farnell, to take charge of the bill, and take it up at the same stage it was left in when the prorogation took place. He took the course prescribed by the Standing Orders in regard to the bill, and he had had no intention of acting with discourtesy, and he was sure no man in that House would be less likely to attempt to smuggle a bill through the House than his hon. friend, Mr. Farnell. He must say that the facts of the case did not correspond with what had been stated by Mr. Byrnes. A select committee had sat upon this bill, and he had been a member of that committee. That bill was petitioned for not only by the inhabitants in the main street, but also by the Mayor and Corporation of the borough—[Mr. BYRNES: Not true]—and the hon. member and a very small minority of ratepayers were the only opponents of the bill. If the hon. member would read the evidence given before the committee he would find these matters set forth. The bill met with the approval of the House last session, and all that had been done now was to put the bill in precisely the same state as it was on the prorogation of Parliament. The course taken was that prescribed by the Standing Orders, and the hon. member had no reason to complain of him for proceeding with the bill in the way he did.

Mr. SPEAKER said he thought the remarks of the hon. member for Parramatta necessitated some explanation from him. Although the hon. gentleman said he did not impute anything wrong to the Speaker, he certainly complained of the action of the House last night, and of the act of the Speaker in allowing the proceedings to take place. The course adopted last night was precisely that laid down in the 65th Standing Order; and there were five other bills which had been passed during the present session under exactly similar circumstances. Two of them had not gone up to the Legislative Council, but the three others had passed this House and gone up to the Legislative Council, where they had gone through some stages. One was Jeanneret's Tramway Bill, the other was the Hospital Bill, and the third Bates' Estate Bill. The course adopted in reference to these measures was not adopted without considerable consideration, and was not adopted by him until he had conferred with the President of the Legislative Council as to the proper mode in which these bills should be dealt with. This was not the first time a bill had been passed in that way. In 1867, during the presidency of his predecessor (Mr. Arnold), the Presbyterian College Bill having passed through all its stages in the Legislative Assembly, and through some of its stages in the Legislative Council in the previous session, was brought on again by petition, and that was precisely the course adopted last night in reference to the three bills he had named. In reference to Bates' Estate Bill and Jeanneret's Tramway Bill, the parties desired to have these bills taken up in the Legislative Council, but the President was of opinion that they could not be taken up until they had gone through the Legislative Assembly in a formal way in this session. He (Mr. Speaker) agreed with him in his opinion, because if they had been taken up in that stage they would have been passed by one House of Parliament in this session, this House never having seen them at all. He thought it would have been improper that the Upper House should be the sole House to pass a bill which would afterwards be presented for the Governor's assent, the Assembly having had nothing to do with it. He knew nothing about the merits of the bill, and he thought the House would agree with him that the course adopted was in accordance with the 65th Standing Order, and the practice of this House established in 1867. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. JACOB said he had been informed that an endeavour had been made to pass a bill similar in its conditions to Jeanneret's Tramway Bill, in the same way, but because it was not engrossed it could not be carried forward beyond the second reading. If it was objected to as a formal motion, and came on in the ordinary course, the second reading could be debated.

Mr. SPEAKER: No. The reason that that bill was not passed through all its stages last night was that the hon. member in charge of it had not given sufficient notice to the clerks of the House before the House met that he intended to proceed with the bill by petition. Every hon. member knew that it was not possible to get a bill engrossed and examined ten minutes before the meeting of the House. That was explained to Dr. Renwick, and the bill stood on the paper to-day for the third reading. It would be submitted to the House to-night to be passed without amendment or debate.

Mr. JACOB said that supposing this was a Government night, like last night, and any hon. member chose to object to the third reading being taken, then the hon. gentleman in charge of the bill could not possibly have gone on with it to-night, whereas the other two bills had gone through all their stages and been sent to the Upper House. That showed that the Standing Order was not perfect. He rose principally to object to the course taken by the hon. gentleman who moved the adjournment in condemning a hon. member who was absent through illness, when he himself complained of the unfairness because the bill was proceeded with in his absence. The House, in dealing with the bill, was guided by the evidence brought before the select committee, and it was going rather too far for the hon. member to condemn the action of the House simply because he unfortunately happened not to be present when the bill was passed.

Mr. O'CONNOR brought under the notice of the Government a paragraph appearing in the daily papers calling attention to the condition of the Central Police Court building, and the want of accommodation for witnesses and others who had to attend the Court. He had often called attention to this matter, but it was nothing compared with what took place this week at the Water Police Court, where people attending there were without any protection from the boisterous weather, and had to huddle together with larrikins, roughs, and other objectionable characters.

Mr. HENSON desired to call the attention of the Minister for Works to the very great inconvenience travellers were put to on the Southern Railway line, in not being able to obtain refreshments between Junee and Mittagong, a distance of over 200 miles, and a journey which occupied some eight or nine hours. The inconvenience was very great, particularly in wet and cold weather, and there was a necessity that there should be some place between these two stations where refreshments could be obtained.

Mr. BYRNES, in reply, disclaimed any intention of reflecting in any way upon the Speaker, but the fact that the Speaker had found it necessary to consult the President of the Upper House showed that he had some excuse for being surprised at the course taken on the previous evening. He thought the 65th Standing Order should be amended.

The motion was put and negatived.

SYDNEY HOSPITAL BILL.

Dr. RENWICK moved the third reading of the Sydney Hospital Bill.

The motion was agreed to. The bill was read the third time, passed, and forwarded to the Legislative Council.

SHEEP INSPECTORS.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT moved,—"That there be laid upon the table of this House a copy of all circulars issued from the Department of Mines to sheep inspectors or sheep directors during the past twelve months."

The motion was agreed to.

A. A. COMPANY.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT moved,—"That the return to order 'Grant of the Peel River Land and Mineral Company,' session 1878-9, and the return to order 'Grants of land to the Australian Agricultural Company,' session 1880-1, be referred to the select committee now sitting on 'Lands granted to the Australian Agricultural Company.'"

The motion was agreed to.

OSBORNE'S LEASING BILL.

Mr. G. H. REID moved the first reading of the Osborne Leasing Bill.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was referred to a select committee.

HOSPITAL ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT moved the second reading of the Hospital Act Amendment Bill. He explained that the principal object of the bill was to enable trustees of hospitals to invest funds. The original Act provided for the election of trustees, but these trustees had no power over the personal property of the hospital, and the treasurer had the entire control of the personal property. This bill proposed to give the committee power to direct the treasurer to hand over as much of the funds as they thought fit, to be invested. These were the same powers as were in the Sydney Hospital Bill, which they had just read the third time. The Prince Alfred Hospital Act also contained similar words, to enable the trustees to invest. The third clause of the bill enabled the treasurer to sue patients who were in a position to pay for the attendance they received. This provision also was in the Sydney Hospital Bill. These hospitals were often taken advantage of by people who were well able to pay, as he had often known from his own experience in connection with a hospital in the north. He had known of one patient who was found to have £900 in his possession, and who would not pay the hospital 15s. a week. This bill would give the courts power to award such sum as might seem reasonable and just under the circumstances, and it also provided that all unclaimed moneys found in the possession of patients who died in the hospital should become the property of the institution.

Dr. RENWICK thought this would be a very useful measure as far as it went, but he would call attention to the fact that we were now getting so many bills with reference to our public charities that it would soon be necessary to have a Consolidating Act. He would like to see one governing Board appointed for all the charities of the country. It was very desirable that fees should be recovered from patients who were able to pay, for these charities were often imposed upon by those who were well able to pay. He should have much pleasure in supporting this bill.

Mr. WEBB thought it would have been better if the hon. member had introduced a more comprehensive bill, as the present law was very unsatisfactory. He had no hesitation in saying that the third clause was absolutely necessary, for he knew of persons in good circumstances who had actually sent their children and connections to the public hospitals, because they received the same medicine and attendance they would get in their own home free of charge; but the 4th clause, he thought, was unnecessary, as it interfered with the functions of the Curator of Intestate Estates. It was right that the hospital authorities should be reimbursed for the expenses they had incurred, but to take all the money in the possession of the patient was going a step too far. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. R. B. SMITH also thought the 4th clause of the bill was fraught with some danger, and that it should be amended or struck out. He also agreed with Dr. Renwick that the laws in reference to these hospitals, and other charitable institutions, should be consolidated.

Mr. BURDEKIN supported the second reading of the bill, believing that it was absolutely necessary.

The bill was then read the second time; the Speaker left the chair, and the House went into committee for the consideration of the bill in detail.

Clauses 1 (short title) and 2 (trustees to invest funds of hospital) were agreed to.

Clause 3. "It shall be lawful for the treasurer of any of the said hospitals to institute and prosecute in his own name for and on behalf of the committee of such hospital, and by their direction proceedings in any court nearest to the hospital where such person shall have been a patient, against any person who may have received medical treatment in such hospital, or against the executors or administrators, or the curator of the estate of any such person for the recovery of fees and remuneration for such care and attention, and it shall be lawful for the Court to award such sum as shall seem reasonable and just under the circumstances."

Mr. JACOB moved to add the words "to be appropriated for the benefit of the said hospital," to the end of the clause; as if it were allowed to stand as at present, it might happen that an exorbitant demand might be made for fees by the medical men.

Dr. RENWICK thought there could be no objection to the introduction of the words, as they were simply carrying out the object of the bill.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT would accept the amendment. (Hear, hear.)

The amendment was carried, and the clause as amended agreed to.

Clause 4. "All unclaimed moneys of patients found in their possession who shall die in any such hospital shall be the property of the said trustees, and shall be invested by them for the benefit of the hospital in the manner hereinbefore mentioned."

This clause was struck out.

The preamble was agreed to.

The House resumed, and the CHAIRMAN reported the bill with amendments. The report was agreed to.

CHALLENGE IN MISDEMEANOURS BILL.

Mr. BUCHANAN in moving the second reading of this bill said he would not occupy the time of the House in reference to it, as he understood the Government would assent to the second reading with the view of introducing an amendment in committee. He briefly explained the object of the measure, as being to allow prisoners charged with misdemeanours the same right of challenge of jurors as was accorded to those charged with felonies.

Mr. WISDOM said that last session when a similar bill was before the House, he had opposed it because the Government at the time intended to include the principle in the Criminal Law Consolidation Bill which they intended to introduce, and not because he was opposed to the principle of the measure. If the hon. member were willing to make the bill similar to the provision which was in another bill now before the Upper House, he would have no objection to its being read the second time, and it seemed to him that that would be sufficient for the purpose. However, almost every word of the hon. member's bill would have to be altered, as there was so much superfluous matter in it, but he would undertake to have the amendments made in a form which he thought would be accepted by the House.

Mr. R. B. SMITH said that the law with regard to challenge had been long enough in an anomalous state, and it had been the cause of serious inconvenience. He gave Mr. Buchanan every credit for so persistently endeavouring to bring about this reform, which was one in the right direction, and he hoped that the bill would be placed on the statute book before long. The persistency of the hon. member had at length induced the Attorney-General to yield, and he had no doubt that the power to challenge eight jurors would be sufficient to meet all requirements.

Mr. COPELAND said it seemed to him very strange that the Government were prepared to accept this bill, when they had a measure having the very same object in view now before the Upper House. In his opinion a measure of this kind should emanate from the Government. So far as the bill was concerned, he did not know much about it; but from what he had heard it seemed to be desirable, though the Government were acting in a rather peculiar manner towards it.

Mr. W. J. FOSTER felt some difficulty with regard to the course he ought to take with regard to the second reading of the bill; and the only reason that would induce him to vote for it would be that the Criminal Law Amendment Bill was not likely to pass into law for a considerable time. He had a great objection to continually tinkering and patching up the criminal law. The present law with regard to challenge had existed for centuries, and had not been productive of material wrong, and he saw no reason for the extraordinary course proposed, viz., to pass a bill which was identical with another bill which had to be brought into the House after going through another Chamber. He thought this scarcely consistent with Parliamentary practice. He would not like to press any technical objection if it could be shown that this bill was really one that should be passed. He would not like to lessen the right of prisoners to challenge, because it was one of the great safeguards of liberty; and where prejudice ran high it was really the only method by which a prisoner could get a fair trial. He was in favour of the classification of misdemeanours and felonies, and when that was done a difference could be made in the right of challenge. He really did not think he could support the second reading of the bill.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. BUCHANAN, the Speaker left the chair, and the House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

The preamble of the bill was postponed, and on the motion of Mr. BUCHANAN the House resumed, progress was reported, and leave given to sit again that day week.

The House adjourned at twenty-five minutes past 6 o'clock until 4 o'clock on Tuesday next.

NEW NOTICES.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.—TUESDAY, JULY 19.

Mr. Pigott to ask the Secretary for Mines,—Is there any, and if so what, reason why the alignment of the streets of the municipal district of Canterbury is not being proceeded with?

Mr. Joseph P. Abbott to ask the Secretary for Public Works,—1. When will he lay upon the table of this House copies of the plans, sections, and books of reference of the proposed railway line from Homebush to Waratah? 2. Will he, at the same time, place upon the table of this House plans, sections, and books of reference of the line surveyed to East Maitland from Homebush?

Mr. R. Levien to ask the Secretary for Mines,—Is it the intention of the Government to take any steps to prosecute the lessees of the Brookong and Cobran runs for having ringbarked a large area of Crown lands, and destroying the timber, without the necessary permission of the Minister?

WEDNESDAY, JULY 20.

Mr. William Clarke to ask the Colonial Secretary,—When calling for tenders recently for supplying flour to the Liverpool Asylum, why was Adelaide flour only specified?

Mr. William Clarke to ask the Secretary for Public Works,—1. If he will direct that a first and second class carriage be attached to the goods train leaving Orange for Bathurst at 8 o'clock on Saturday nights? 2. Is the Secretary for Works aware that on the Western line of railway, apart from the sleeping car, there is only one first-class carriage with three compartments attached to the mail train; one of the compartments is reserved for ladies, another for smokers, and the centre one, which is generally empty, is always ticketed "engaged;" and there being no first-class carriage for non-smokers, will he cause one to be provided? 3. The second-class carriages on the same line of railway being very draughty, will he inquire into the cause of this and have same remedied?

TUESDAY, AUGUST 16.

Mr. Fergusson to move,—1. That, in the opinion of this House, no Crown lands other than town and suburban lots, and lands within a radius of 20 miles of any town of not less than 100 inhabitants, or unless included in a schedule submitted to and approved of by both Houses of Parliament, shall be sold by auction after the 1st of October next for a period of two and a half years. 2. That the above resolution be communicated by address to his Excellency the Governor.

WOOL, STATION, AND STOCK REPORT.

WOOL AND SHEEPSKINS.—Under these heads there is nothing to report in the local market. The auctioneers' fortnightly catalogues will be submitted next week. The market for both wool and sheepskins is reported to be firm.

LEATHER.—At the sales last week the prices ranged as follows:—Kip, 13d. to 16d.; sole, 8½d to 9d.; damaged, from 7½d.; calf, 21d. to 26d.; yearling, 17½d. to 24d.; tweed, 14d. to 25½d.; harness, 11½d. to 14d.; bag, 9s. 6d. to 12s.; bridle, 5s. to 15s.; basils, 6s. to 12s. 6d.

TALLOW.—304 packages offered yesterday, and 240 sold. Shippers operated with less freedom in consequence of scarcity of freight; but the trade purchased readily at late rates. Best mutton quoted up to £28 10s.; beef, £27 to £28; mixed and station, £23 to £26.

HIDES.—Of 6430 offered, 5900 were sold. Owing to advices exhibiting a weaker tendency of the home market, prices were easier, and a fall of ¼d. is noted. Quotations:—Extra heavy, 3¾d. to 4¼d.; medium to 3¾d.; and light and station from 4d. to 4¼d. Horse hides, 3s. to 7s.; calfskins, 2s. to 4s.; yearlings, 5s. to 7s. each. Kangaroo, 6s. to 20s.; opossum skins, 2s. to 3s. per dozen.

HAIR.—No change can be noticed under this head. Cowhair rules from 3d. to 1s.; horse-tail, 14d. to 18d. per lb.; mane, 10d. to 14d.

HORNS AND BONES.—Market unaltered. Best horns, from 10s. to 28s. per 100; inferior, from 8s. upwards; bones, from £3 to £9. Beeswax, from 9d. to 10½d.

FAT CATTLE.—2050 head were sold this week, 1000 on Monday, and the balance on Tuesday, the lots forward comprising a larger proportion of prime than usual. Prices were firmer, and best beef realised 15s. per 100 lbs.; other qualities from 9s. upwards. Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery sold 167 bullocks (Turner's), at £5 3s.; 170 bullocks (Piallaway), at £4 12s. 9d.; 142 bullocks (Smart's), at £4 9s. 2d.; 21 bullocks (Shippley's), at £3 17s. 4d.; 56 mixed (Mooney's), 11 cows (Shippley's), at £2 13s.; 20 cows (Holt's), at £6 13s.; 147 cows (A. Sullivan and Simpson report having sold the following stock, viz.:—25 bullocks, on account of Messrs. G. A. and P. Mein, at an average of £6 13s. 10d.; 170 cows, on account of same owners, at an average of £4 0s. 2d.; also 7 cows (culls), for same owners, at £3 7s.; 138 bullocks, on account of Mr. John Brown, at an average of £4 8s. 11d.; also, 39 cows, for same owner, at an average of £2 10s. 4d. Mr. William Inglis reports having sold 60 fat cattle (Mr. M. Butler's) at £6 0s. 6d., and 31 (Mr. Vickery's) at £3 1s.; 25 milch cows from £2 2s. 6d. to £12; 19 dry cows, from 11s. to £3 17s. 6d.

FAT CALVES.—A better market, particularly for good quality, which were scarce. Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery sold Holt's to £1 1s. Mr. W. Inglis sold 33 (Hon. Thomas Holt's), 15s. 6d. to £1 16s.; 21 (Gorman's), 14s. 6d. to 25s. 6d.; and 95 others from 5s. 3d. to 19s.

FAT SHEEP.—At the public sales, this week, 8150 were sold—3160 on Monday, and the rest on Thursday. Some of the sheep were of particularly prime quality, and an advance of 2s. was reported on the first day, but prices were scarcely so firm on the last. 60-lb. sheep 15s., 50-lb. 12s. 6d. to 13s., and 40-lb. 9s. Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin report the sale of 500 wethers (A. Middlemiss) to 10s.; 360 wethers (J. M'Clymont) at 8s. 4d., 80 crossbreds (R. Beit) at 12s. 10d., 12s. 11d., 51 sheep and lambs (H. Rotton) to 17s. 9d., 103 sheep and lambs (C. Boyd) at 12s., 42 sheep (ex rail) at 11s., 242 sheep and lambs (B. M. Osborne) to 11s. 8d. Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark sold 1163 wethers for Mr. L. F. Iredale, Goolhi, at 12s. 4d.; 401 wethers, for Messrs. W. S. Hall and Co., Yass, at 9s. 6d.; 100 ditto, on account of Mrs. Bell, Leppington, at 10s.; and 83 merino and crossbreds, for Messrs. Cobb and Co., Bathurst, at 17s. to 18s. 2d. Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery sold 2000 wethers (Murray's), at 13s. 9d.; 2020 (A. A. Company's), at 13s. 1d.; 420 ditto (Hallas and Pearce's), at 9s.; 300 Ranken's, at 6s. to 7s.; 102 (Webb's), at 8s. 10d. Mr. W. Inglis sold 100 (Webb's), at 9s.

FAT LAMBS.—The market for fat lambs was good, the supply forward being small. Best are quoted to 12s., others from 7s.

STORE CATTLE.—But little reported business in this description of stock. Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery sold 20 bulls.

STORE SHEEP.—A good demand continues. Messrs. Pitt, Son, and Badgery report the sale of 20,000.

PURE-BRED STOCK.—The results of the important sales held by Messrs. Mort and Co., Messrs. Brunker and Wolfe, this week, show the demand that exists for this class of stock. The prices obtained are considered good; and are given elsewhere. Messrs. Wilkinson, Graves, and Lavender also report the sale of 60 pure Bayly rams for Mr. P. Rogers; 250 2-tooth rams for Messrs. Mills, Neilson, and Smith, Cuardry; and, in conjunction with Raleigh, Aitken, and Co., 350 2-tooth rams, for Mr. E. G. Greeves, Borriyalloak.

PIGS.—The market was firmer. Mr. W. Inglis sold 229 at from 9s. 6d. to 41s.

STATIONS.—A good inquiry continues for this description of property. Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark sold, on account of Mr. James Ashcroft, his Canonbar East station, in the Wellington district, New South Wales, and comprising three blocks of country, with about 27,000 sheep, 200 head cattle, and 1434 acres purchased land—A. H. M'Culloch, jun., purchaser; and, on account of Mr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, the property known as Gedgear, in the Warrego district, comprising two blocks of country, with 500 head cattle, to Mr. John Robb, at a satisfactory price. Also, at auction, on Wednesday, in conjunction with Messrs. R. and W. Oakes, the Walla Walla and Caringatel stations in the Lachlan district, with 5650 sheep, 150 head cattle, 4154 acres purchased land, 3948 acres C.P.s, working plant, &c., for a lump sum of £10,800—purchaser, Mr. James Thompson, of Ann Lake, Monaro. Messrs. Griffiths and Weaver have sold, on account of the executors of the late Mr. N. P. Bayly, the Havilah Estate, near Mudgee, together with the whole of the stud sheep, to Mr. H. C. White, for £80,000. Mr. B. Hinglin, Coonamble, reports the sale of Broken Plains Station, with 1000 head of cattle, on account of Mr. James Webster, to Messrs. Chambers, Splatt, and Co. Messrs. Richard Gibson and Co., in conjunction with Wilkinson, Graves, and Lavender, report having sold the Navena Station, on the Barwon River, in the Warrego district of New South Wales, together with 30,000 sheep, horses, plant, and all improvements to Messrs. Baird and Henderson, of Brewarrina Station, at a satisfactory price; terms, cash.

MESSRS. BRUNKER AND WOLFE'S REPORT.

Fat Cattle: 2027 yarded for the week's supply—1003 on Monday, and balance to-day (Thursday). Prices on Monday were firm for prime quality; other sorts a shade easier than last week. To-day a fair attendance of the town trade, but few country buyers present. Prices about same as Monday. Prime quality may be quoted at 16s; fair to good, 10s to 12s 6d per 100 lb. We sold—36 bullocks (Cooper's) at £6 to £7 16s, average £6 7s. Maitland—50 cows (W. Pearse's), to £4 4s; 21 bullocks (G. Watt's), to £4 10s; 22 mixed (Manball's), to £3 15s 6d; 80 bullocks (Messrs. Dight's), £4 9s. Fat Sheep: 8500 penned for the week; market improved fully 1s 6d per head over late rates. We sold—645 (T. A. Johnston), at 10s 2d; 793 (Messrs. J. F. and H. White), at 9s 3d; 702 (Messrs. Clarke, Brothers), to 9s 1d; 200 (Doyle), at 7s 5d; 1898 (E. Vickery). Fat Lambs: Market bare and prices good; best forward made to 11s 6d. Fat Pigs: Prices firmer. We sold 54 at 11s to £1 1s 6d, 38 at 12s to £1 0s 6d, 32 at £1 3s. Produce Report:—Wool: No auction sales were held this week, but we note a fair demand for fellmongered lots. We will hold our next sale on Monday, 18th. Sheepskins: This has been an off week, and sales effected have been by private contract. We sold butchers' green skins at 6½d per lb., averaging to 5s 6d per skin. Tallow: There was a diminution in the demand at to-day's sale, and a reduction of about 15s per ton on best tallow. We cleared our catalogue of butchers' consignments at prices ranging from £26 to £27 10s per ton. Hides: The export buyers did not operate at the sales to-day. Values declined fully 1s 4d per lb. The Sydney Meat Company's hides always top the market—made 4d. We cleared a fair catalogue at prices ranging from 3¼d to 4d per lb. for butchers' lots, averaging over 60 lbs., and to 4d per lb. for lighter weights, according to quality. Calf and yearling skins, 1s 6d to 7s each. Hair, Horns, and Bones: Horsehair, 14½d to 18d per lb.; cow, 7d to 11½d; horns, 23s 9d to 31s 6d per 100; tip, 2s 6d per 100; shank bones, 6s to 10s per cwt.; common bones, £3 per ton.—July 15.—[ADV.]

MESSRS. MAIDEN, HILL, AND CLARK'S REPORT.

Fat Cattle: 2024 yarded for the week's supply, about two-thirds of which were cows and light descriptions, and for these there was but little alteration on values. A decided improvement was established for good pens bullocks, and which sold at from 14s to 15s per 100 lbs. We sold 185 cows for Messrs. L. Boothe and Co., Tellerega, at £3 11s 4d; 12 old bullers, ditto, at £1 12s; and 195 bullocks for Mr. A. D. Wiseman, Merrabie, at £4 10s 2d. Fat Sheep: The supply has fallen off considerably, and an improvement of fully 2s per head was established in prices, the demand being good, especially for best descriptions. We sold 83 cross-bred merinos for Messrs. Cobb and Co., Bathurst, at 17s to 18s 2d; 1163 wethers for Mr. L. F. Iredale, Goolhi, at 12s 4d; 401 wethers for Mr. W. S. Hall, Yass, at 9s 6d; 100 for Mrs. E. Bell, Seppington, at 10s; and outside 900 wethers at 10s 6d. Stations: We have sold on account of Mr. James Ashcroft his East Canonbar property, in the Wellington District, New South Wales, with 27,000 sheep, 200 cattle, and sundries—Mr. A. H. M'Culloch, jun., pur.; and on account of Mr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, the Pappertoo Back and Sidgear Blocks in the Warrego District, New South Wales, with 500 head cattle, to Mr. John Robb. Also at auction, in conjunction with Messrs. R. and W. Oakes, the Walla Walla and Caringatel Station, in the Lachlan District, with 5650 sheep and 150 head cattle, 11,454 acres purchased land, 3948 acres conditional purchase, working plant, &c., &c., for £10,800—Mr. James Thompson, of Aron Lake, Manaro, purchaser.—July 15.—[ADV.]

HORSE MARKET.

MESSRS. WILLIAM INGLIS AND CO.—The market fairly supplied with heavy draught and cart horses, for which there was a good demand; but there was a very great dearth of well-bred or useful saddle and harness horses. At the Bazaar we sold some very superior draught horses and a number of useful cart and harness horses. Heavy draught ranged as high as £44 for very powerful animals. We do not, however, alter our quotations, which are as follows:—Carriage pairs, with size, style, and breeding, being properly broken to harness, £80 to £120; well-bred horses, suitable for buggy pairs, £40 to £80; well-bred saddle and harness horses, with size and style, £20 to £40 each; useful saddle and harness horses, £10 to £15; light saddle and harness horses, £3 to £8; light weedy horses, £1 to £2; heavy draught horses, £25 to £40; extra heavy, £44; cart horses, £15 to £20; van horses, £5 to £10. Not much business done in vehicles this week.—July 15.

MR. T. COSGROVE.—The market was not well supplied with country horses the past week, owing, no doubt, to the heavy rains that prevailed in the early part of the week. There was a good attendance of buyers, and town and country lots offered sold at good figures. Powerful draught horses with youth and condition are in great demand and sell without pressure. Light harness horses are in much better demand than they were some time ago, the market being scarce. Good upstanding buggy horses are not plentiful, and sell well from £25 to £40; buggy pairs sold up to £75; heavy draught horses range from £35 to £45, according to quality. Horses suitable for parcel delivery van or merchants' work are wanted, and sell from £20 to £27; lighter descriptions from £12 10s to £17; useful saddle and harness horses, £9 to £16; light saddle and harness horses, £4 to £9; weedy and used-up horses, 15s to £2 10s. In vehicles a good business was done; second-hand buggies, £25 to £30; spring carts, £6 to £12 5s; pagnel carts, up to £16 10s.—July 15.

MR. GEORGE KISS.—Although business was so brisk up to time of last report, the demand has perceptibly decreased, and business in all its branches was dull until Thursday, when several country horses were offered and passed off at good figures. Light harness horses are a little easier, and heavy draught salable. Weeds and town screws are plentiful and cheap. Good harness horses and draught are scarce. At Camperdown I sold, for C. Green, a very even lot of heavy colts from £13 10s to £35, and draught entire 42 guineas; Metcove, a small lot of broken and unbroken horses, heavy from £17 to £33, light from £10 to £17 10s; and several odd ones for different owners up to £12 15s.—July 14.

PUBLIC COMPANIES.

SALES OF STUD SHEEP.

BY MESSRS. BRUNKER AND WOLFE.

The sale of Messrs. W. Gibson and Sons' consignment of Tasmanian sheep this year, comprising 101 stud and flock rams and 8 stud ewes, was held by Messrs. Brunker and Wolfe, at Messrs. Hinchcliff, Son, and Co.'s wool stores, Circular Quay, yesterday, and attracted more than usual attention, every lot being well competed for. Of the lots sold 21 2 and 4-tooth stud rams averaged 114¼ guineas, 13 selected rams 22 guineas, 59 2-tooth flock rams 19¼ guineas, and 8 2-tooth stud ewes 39¼ guineas. Mr. H. C. White, of Glenalvon, was the purchaser of the famous champion stud ram Prince 2nd. Judging from the type and general character of his progeny, as exhibited in the saleroom today, and the competition elicited as they were presented to buyers, Prince 2nd will, when mated with the Havilah stud, now the property of Mr. White, prove a valuable acquisition, and contribute to its general improvement. We append a complete list of the sales:—

ON ACCOUNT OF MESSRS. W. GIBSON AND SON, SCONE, TASMANIA.

The R.M.S. Venetia, which arrived yesterday from Galle, has for some years past been a favourite boat in the P. and O. Company's service, but has never before appeared on the Australian line. She was built in 1873 by Messrs. Denny, Bros., of Dumbarton. Her dimensions are as follow:—Length, 351 feet 7 inches; beam, 38 feet 3 inches; and depth of hold, 27 feet 8 inches; giving her a gross measurement of 2726 tons, or 2611 tons under the deck, and a net register of 1728 tons. The engines are compound, with surface condensers, and work direct action on the screw. The cylinders are 50 inches and 86 inches respectively, and the stroke is 54 inches. The nominal power of the engines is equal to 450 horses. The state cabins are roomy and well ventilated, and the style of decoration in the saloon is chaste and elegant. The Venetia is commanded by Captain A. B. Daniell, who is a stranger to this port. The Venetia left Calcutta on the 14th ultimo, and after embarking mails, passengers, and cargo, left Galle at 5 p.m. on the 23rd ult. Strong S.W. monsoons were fallen in with until after crossing the equator, when the S.E. trades were taken. For three days the trades were strong in force, but afterwards the wind shifted round southerly, and fresh S. and S.W. winds with much squally weather, prevailed until reaching King George's Sound on the morning of the 6th inst. The Venetia sailed the same day, and had light southerly winds and rain all the way to Glenelg, where she arrived on the morning of the 10th instant. After landing mails, passengers, and cargo for South Australia, the Venetia left at 11 a.m. same date, and had strong northerly winds as far as Cape Otway, which was passed at twenty minutes to 12 o'clock on the night of the 11th. Port Phillip Heads were entered at twenty minutes past 6 a.m. on the 12th, and, after landing the Geelong and Western district mails, the Venetia started for Hobson's Bay, and reached the anchorage at ten minutes past 10 a.m. The vessel left Hobson's Bay on the 13th at 3 p.m., had light and variable winds all the passage, and entered Sydney Heads on the 15th at 3 p.m.

The City of Melbourne (s.), for Noumea, cleared the wharf at 1 p.m. on July 1, and Sydney Heads the same day at 1.45 p.m. Experienced moderate and light S.W. and W. winds, with fine weather, till noon on July 4; thence to arrival fresh E.S.E. winds and rainy weather; sighted the reef at 4.10 p.m. July 5, with thick rainy weather and strong S.E. winds; being unable to enter, stood to the southward, and entered the Bulari Pass at 7 a.m. 6th instant, and on arrival at Noumea was ordered to proceed to quarantine; discharged all cargo and live stock at the quarantine station; blowing fresh from the eastward, with heavy rain during the whole of the time. On July 9, at 11 a.m., received all mails and passengers from Noumea, and at noon hove up anchor and proceeded, clearing the Dombea Pass at 1 p.m. Experienced moderate S.E. and E. winds, with fine weather up till the morning of 11th instant, when the wind gradually hauled to the N.W., and at 3 p.m. same day shifted into the S.W., with heavy rain which continued, with a fresh breeze, till 11 p.m., 12th instant. When off Tacking Point, encountered a heavy gale from S.S.W., with high seas and constant fierce squalls of wind and rain. Hove the ship to under close-reefed canvas, from midnight on Tuesday till 6 a.m. Thursday, 14th instant. While Love-to, on Wednesday morning, at 10 a.m., a heavy sea struck the small quarter-boat, and washed her out of the davits, besides doing other considerable damage on deck. On July 14, the gale moderated into a fresh southerly breeze, which continued, with rain squalls and high head sea, till arrival. Anchored in Neutral Bay on July 14, at 8.45 p.m.

The New England (s.) left Grafton at 6 a.m. on July 13, crossed the bar at noon same day, and entered Sydney Heads at 5.30 a.m. 15th instant. Experienced strong south-westerly gales with heavy sea and rainy weather to Port Stephens, thence fine weather and less sea. Cargo: 1300 bags maize, 61 bags oysters, 597 bags tin ore, 628 ingots tin, 28 bales wool, 2200 feet cedar, 25 casks molasses, 2 casks tallow, 220 bunches bananas, 4 cases eggs, 6 bales skins, and sundries.

The Egmont (s.) left Rockhampton on the 9th instant; arrived at Maryborough on the 10th, at 9 a.m.; left Maryborough on the 11th, at 6 a.m.; arrived at Brisbane on the 12th, at 12.5 a.m.; left at 8.40 a.m., arriving in Sydney on the 15th, at 4 a.m. Experienced light westerly winds and fine clear weather to North Solitary; thence to arrival, fresh S.S.W. to S.W. gales, with thick, dirty weather and heavy head sea.

The Wotonga (s.) left Brisbane at 8.35 a.m. on the 13th instant, and arrived in Sydney at 6.48 a.m. on the 15th; had strong head winds, generally S.S.W., with a heavy sea and showery weather throughout the passage; passed Alexandra (s.) at 9.40 p.m. on the 13th, and the Derwent (s.), bound north, off Smoky Cape, on the 14th.

The City of Adelaide (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 4.45 p.m. on Wednesday, July 13th, and entered Sydney Heads at 8 p.m. 15th. Had light and moderate N. and N.E. winds throughout the passage.

The Barrabool (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 5 p.m. on the 13th instant, and entered Sydney Heads at 3.30 p.m. same day. Experienced moderate head winds, with fine weather throughout the passage.

The Beagle (s.) crossed Manning bar at 8.30 a.m. on the 11th, with a fresh S.W. wind to Seal Rocks, wind chopping suddenly to the S.E. quarter, blowing a hard gale; ran into Port Stephens for shelter; left again at 4.30 a.m. 15th; entered Sydney Heads at 6 p.m. same day. Cargo: 1250 bags maize, 400 pieces cedar, 30 cases eggs, 200 pigs, 16 coops poultry, 20 hides, 3 bags oranges, 1 case lemons, 2 bags bacon, 5 bags flour, 5 bales tobacco.

The Queen of the South (s.) crossed the Macleay bar at 8 a.m. on July 11, and arrived at Sydney at 1.30 p.m. on the 15th. Experienced strong southerly winds with heavy sea and thick weather to Port Stephens, fine weather the remainder. Anchored under Cape Hawke thirty hours for shelter. Cargo: 1470 bags maize, 45 pigs, 4 coops fowls, 12 hides, 7 cases eggs, and sundries.

The Rosedale (s.) crossed the Manning River bar on July 12 at 8.45 a.m., and put into Seal Rock Bay for shelter owing to a heavy gale and high sea; left on the 14th at 8 a.m., and put into Port Stephens in consequence of a gale from S.S.W.; resumed the voyage on the 15th at 5.30 a.m.; from the latter port had variable winds and fine weather. Cargo: 1500 bags maize, 60 bags lime, 7000 feet cedar boards, 120 pigs, 100 cases oranges, 12 cases eggs, 6 coops fowls, 12 cases sundries.

The steamer Maitland left Newcastle at 11.5 on Thursday night; entered Sydney Heads at 4.15 a.m. on Friday; at 4.30 a.m. dropped anchor off Bradley's Head in consequence of fog; lifted anchor at 5 a.m., and steamed up the harbour; but, owing to very thick fog drifting from the southward, was compelled to drop anchor again off Garden Island; anchor lifted again about 9.20 a.m., and berthed alongside Company's wharf in Darling Harbour at 9.45 a.m.

The Macedon (s.) passed Sydney Heads, bound south, yesterday, at 5.50 p.m.

The Corea (s.) passed Port Macquarie, bound south, at 3 p.m. yesterday.

The Union Steamship Company's Albion (s.) leaves Auckland to-day for Sydney.

The ship Cedric the Saxon, an iron clipper ship of the first-class, came into port yesterday evening with her fore compartment full of water. She left Newcastle on the 9th instant, with 2558 tons coal on board, bound to San Francisco. On the night of the first day out the wind freshened at E.N.E., with rain at times till midnight, when it increased in force with much lightning and a heavy swell. The vessel had begun to make water in the fore peak, and it increased so much on the passage that the fore compartment filled. The gale in the meantime was increasing, and the crew refused to shorten sail unless the ship was returned to port. The officers managed to get sufficient canvass off the ship, and for two days the voyage was continued. On the 12th a strong breeze and hard squalls from N.E. to E.S.E. continued. At 7 a.m. Captain M'Nair called all hands aft to induce them to resume their duty, but each refused unless the ship was run back to port. Another gale came on, and the ship bore up for this port. There was a steady run of water low down in the fore peak, but every attempt to get at the leakage and stop it failed. Captain M'Nair is of opinion that it is caused by a defective rivet or bolt. The Cedric the Saxon anchored in Neutral Bay.

The half-yearly meeting of the City Bank was held to-day at noon, the Hon. James Watson in the chair. The balance-sheet showed net profits, after deducting rebate on current bills, interest on fixed deposits, providing for bad or doubtful debts, and defraying expenses of management, amounting to £16,088, which, with the balance of £1738 from last half-year, made available for distribution the sum of £17,826. The directors recommended its appropriation as follows:—To dividend at rate of 10 per cent. per annum, £12,000; reserve fund, £5000; leaving £826 as the balance to go forward to next half-year. The report was unanimously adopted, and the directors, manager, and officers were thanked for their able management of the affairs of the bank during the six months.

Messrs. T. J. Thompson and Son report the result of the last crushing of the No. 1 North Phœnix mine to be 1744 ounces, exclusive of 195 ounces crushed at the Sydney Mint, from 180 tons of stone.

In the Import market to-day a fair amount of business was done, at values which indicate but little change. The prices of merchandise in many lines are lower than usual, and there is a disposition on the part of some importers to force business at rates to which others are not inclined to submit. New houses are coming into the field of colonial commerce, and the competition is keener and prices cut lower than ever before; the practice of doing business for forward delivery without storage charges having to be added to cost alone rendering trade profitable on the reduced terms. In tea, the nature of last year's business induced many new traders to enter the field, and the imports were heavy; the result being that the prices fell, and the new season's tea came upon a very dull market. Still some holders note the quittance of the latter at fair prices—the demand having been chiefly for the medium and finer qualities. Last year's tea has also met a little more notice this week. The trade in sugar has been very quiet, the Company controlling the market. A very dull trade in breadstuffs is all that can be reported, at from £12 to £12 10s. for best brands of Adelaide flour, and from £11 10s. to £12 for South Australian country brands and New South Wales flour. Wheat commands to 5s. 3d. for best samples. Coffee continues dull of sale at 9¾d. to 10d., for No. 1 Plantation, stocks still being ample; chicory, 6d. or less for a parcel. Epps' cocoa moving at 1s. 5½d., and Taylor's at 1s. 3½d. The rice market, as usual at this season of the year, continues dull, with an entire absence of speculation. The lower qualities are plentiful, and command from £15 10s. to £17; fine table-dressed, £22. But little inquiry is noted for pepper — white, 10½d.; black, 8d. Dried fruits are firm—currants selling at 5½d., sultanas at 8¾d., and elemes at 8½d. Candles are weaker, owing to the considerable quantities of damaged thrown on the market. D. R. J.'s are selling in trade lines at 7¾d., and parcels have been offered at ¼d. to ½d. less. Oilmen's stores generally are unchanged, stocks being heavy and little doing. Coarse salt continues weak, with many holders, and sales to land, in some instances, are reported as low as 80s., and from 82s. 6d. to 85s. for Black Horse out of store may be quoted as the trade prices. In liquors, the feature of the week has been the improved inquiry for champagne; Roederer's has become scarce, and commands up to £5 2s.; further business in Krug's is noted. Brandy has had fair attention; and Hennessy's case (three star) was sold at 40s.; one star at 36s. to 36s. 3d. Lowndes's rum, in hogsheads, was quitted at 4s. Kinahan's whisky had sale at 19s. 6d. Beer dull of sale, at unchanged quotations. In metals, the higher prices ruling in England for galvanized iron and lead have strengthened the tone of our local market, although no actual change can be made in quotations. A shipment of Gospel Oak to arrive was placed at £25, and other brands sell at from £22 10s. upwards. Fencing wire, White Cross, on the spot, was sold—No. 8 at £14 12s. 6d., and No. 10 at £16 2s. 6d. Devoe's kerosene oil to arrive was done at 1s. 9½d. A steady inquiry for woolpacks is noted at up to 3s. 3d. for 11¼ lbs. In drugs, carbonate of soda was placed at £13. Boiled oil in drums, 3s. 11d. Cement, owing to heavy shipments, is weak; K. B. S. on the spot commands 15s., but a fall in freights has enabled shippers to meet the market at 18s. 6d. for parcels to arrive, and agents of Robin's and other brands report sales at corresponding figures. Both the supply and attendance at the Darling Harbour sales this morning were small. Best oaten hay, bundles, 4s. 6d. to 4s. 10d.; medium quality oaten, bundles, dull, 3s. 6d. to 4s.; inferior ditto, 2s. 9d. to 3s. 3d.; best oaten, bales, 4s. 3d. to 4s. 8d.; medium quality, 3s. 6d. to 4s.; wheaten hay, bundles, dull at 3s. 3d. to 3s. 6d.; chaff, best, 4s. to 4s. 5d.; ditto, medium, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 9d.; straw chaff, dull, 2s. 9d. to 3s.; lucerne, 3s. 3d. to 3s. 6d.; potatoes, 3s. 3d. to 4s. 3d.; straw bales, dull, 2s. 5d. to 2s. 7d.; pumpkins, from 2s. 6d. to 3s. 7d. On the wharfs there was no change in the value of anything excepting eggs, of which there was a temporary scarcity. The demand was very good, and eggs suddenly rose from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d., at which they were quoted on Thursday, to 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9d., several sales being effected at the latter figure. It is not expected that these rates will be maintained. There is also an excellent demand for best fresh butter, which sells readily at 1s. 6d. Maize is steadier than it was on Wednesday and Thursday, and sales have been effected at 2s. 10d.

Messrs. Mort and Co. continued their sale of stud sheep to-day, and sold a large number of valuable stock, from the leading studs of Tasmania and elsewhere, the prices obtained ranging up to 100 guineas for a ram, and to 40 guineas for a pair of ewes, the pick of the catalogue having been sold on the previous day. The details of the sale will be found in another column.

Messrs. Brunker and Wolfe also held a sale to-day of stud sheep at Messrs. Hinchcliff and Co.'s wool store, a very large attendance of graziers being attracted by the magnificent animals offered. These were from the well-known studs of Messrs. W. Gibson and Sons, and Mr. T. Gibson, of Tasmania, and of Mr. T. M. M'Donald, of Wallabadah. The splendid ram Prince 2nd brought 510 guineas, and several other sheep over 100 guineas each, the total amount of the day's sale being £4596. The details will be found elsewhere.

Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark will to-morrow (Saturday) morning at 10.30 hold a sale of rams from the famed Canowie stud of South Australia.

Messrs. Mort and Co., John Bridge, F. L. Barker, Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Brunker and Wolfe, and Maiden, Hill, and Clark held their weekly produce sales to-day. The inquiry for parcels of shipping tallow was not so good as last week by from 10s. to 20s. per ton, and best mutton is quoted at up to £28 10s., best beef to £27 10s., and inferior from £20 upwards. The value of hides was also lower, and best heavies are quoted at from 3¾d. to 4d., or a trifle better, and light and station to 4½d.

The P. and O. steamer Venetia, from Suez, via Adelaide and Melbourne, arrived this morning, with a general cargo.

The following is a return of copper received at Darling Harbour during the week ending 5th July:—From Dubbo, 22 tons 11 cwt.; Orange, 6 tons 9 cwt.; Goulburn, 6 tons 17 cwt.; total, 35 tons 17 cwt.

The Customs duties received to-day were as follows:—Spirits, £2011 9s. 10d.; wine (still), £212 12s. 2d.; wine (sparkling), £33 13s. 2d.; ale, porter, and beer (in bottle), £181 2s. 6d.; tobacco and snuff, £1; cigars, £27 11s. 3d.; tea, £195 2s. 6d.; sugar (unrefined) £270; dried fruits, £1153 13s. 4d.; nuts, £3 8s. 3d.; specific duty, £841 3s.; bonding warehouse duty, £402 5s.; pilotage, £17 18s.; harbour and light dues, £12 2s.: total, £5363 1s. 2d.

Messrs. Griffiths and Weaver report having (in conjunction with Messrs. B. D. Morehead and Co.) sold the Connemara station, North Gregory district, Queensland, with 3000 cattle, on account of Mr. De Burgh Persse, to the Hon. G. H. Cox, for £21,000.

STOCK REPORT.

Bacon, Leeds, and Wilkinson report:—Fat Cattle: Market very firm, and prices must harden. We have sold, for Messrs. Eckford, Brothers, 104 bullocks and 60 cows at a high figure. Store Sheep: Demand slack. We sold 4000 wethers for Mr. R. J. Nowland. Store Cattle: We have sold 1000 mixed, on account of Messrs. Osborne, Brothers, Orange Plains; and 500 mixed and 30 bulls, on account of Messrs. Osborne and Atkinson, Thorndale. Fat Sheep: Market very firm. 50-lb. wethers worth 12s. 6d., with upward tendency.—[Advt.]

MINING REPORT.

Long Tunnel Gold Mining Company.—The Manager reports, under date 11th July, no change in character of ground. For the past week 19 feet have been driven in the cross cut, making a total length driven 37 feet. The timber for rises has not yet arrived, but is expected during the week, so I shall take measures to secure the rises temporarily until timber is to hand.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, JULY 16, 1881.

In the Legislative Assembly yesterday,

Ministers replied to questions respecting the proposed removal of the steamship Ballina from the entrance to Port Macquarie Harbour, the Austrian Band concerts, the reported case of small-pox on board the steamship Brisbane on her last voyage to Port Jackson, the cost of, and the expenditure on the hulk Faraway; the contract time for the building and delivery of the dredge intended for the Manning River, the punts to be provided for the Manning River dredge service, the Murrumburrah and Blayney line of railway; the expenditure on sidings, stations, and station buildings since the 1st January, 1878; the rolling stock on the New South Wales railways, the plan of the road from Quirindi to Yarraman, the application for a road from the Great Northern to the recreation ground at Muswellbrook, the re-introduction of the Conditional Purchases Legalizing Bill, the variations in the width of the New South Head Road from Double Bay eastwards, the papers connected with the inquiries at Goat Island, the office attendance of the clerks in the Department of Lands, the reclamation near Blue's Point granted to Mr. John Stevens, the steps taken by the Government to ascertain with whom the small-pox originated in this colony, the proposed punctuation of Acts of Parliament, and the issue of packet licenses.

Ministers also laid on the table a return of land resumed by the Government for public purposes, and it was ordered that it be printed.

Mr. Byrnes moved the adjournment of the House for the purpose of complaining of the manner in which the Jeanneret Tramway Bill had been dealt with on the previous day. The bill was passed through all its stages at one sitting, whereby he who had been all along opposed to it was denied the opportunity of again asking the House to consider his objections to it; and he thought that if the Standing Order permitted such a course to be taken it should be amended.

Mr. Burns explained that he moved in the matter as an act of courtesy for Mr. Farnell, who was unable to attend the House in time to present the petition, and that the passage of the bill was in accordance with the 65th Standing Order. The bill passed the Assembly in the previous session, and it had now only been placed in the same position as it was before the prorogation. The same course had been taken with the Bates Estate Bill, and with other measures which had been interrupted by the prorogation.

Mr. Speaker read the 65th Standing Order, which prescribed the mode in which bills which had been interrupted should be dealt with, and said that the passing during the present session of the Jeanneret Tramway Bill, the Balmain Cemetery Bill, and the Bates Estate Bill without debate or notice had been in terms of the Standing Order in question, and in keeping with precedents which had been established by the House, and notably in the matter of the Presbyterian College Bill. He had conferred with the President of the Legislative Council on the subject of the proper mode of proceeding with interrupted bills, and that gentleman concurred in his interpretation of the Standing Order.

After remarks from Mr. Jacob,

Mr. O'Connor complained of the dilapidated condition of the City Police Court buildings.

Mr. Henson hoped the accommodation for refreshments on the Southern line of railway would be extended.

Mr. Byrnes replied, urging that the 65th Standing Order should be amended, and the motion for the adjournment was then put and negatived.

The Sydney Hospital Bill, which had been interrupted by the prorogation, was read a third time and passed, on the motion of Dr. Renwick, and it was ordered that it be again transmitted to the Legislative Council.

The production of returns in reference to instructions issued by the Department of Lands to sheep directors or inspectors was ordered, on the motion of Mr. J. P. Abbott; and, on the motion of the same hon. member, the returns on grants to the Peel River Company were referred to the Select Committee on Grants to the Australian Agricultural Company.

Mr. Reid brought up the Osborne Estate Bill, which was read a first time.

Mr. J. P. Abbott moved the second reading of the Hospitals Act Amendment Bill, which he said was similar in principle to the Sydney Hospital Act for the investment of the funds of hospitals generally. The bill would likewise enable the treasurers of hospitals to recover fees from patients or their executors who could afford to pay for their medical treatment.

Dr. Renwick thought all the Acts relating to hospitals and benevolent asylums should be consolidated, and that there should be a general Board for charitable institutions. He was glad it was proposed by 144th clause of this bill to let the unclaimed funds of deceased patients be invested for the benefit of the hospitals.

Mr. Webb said the mode of electing the managing committees of hospitals was unsatisfactory, and it would be well if an amendment could be proposed. It was right to give authority to sue for medical attendance, but he thought the power proposed to be given in the fourth clause would be dangerous.

Mr. R. B. Smith agreed with the principal provisions of the bill, but did not approve of the fourth clause.

The bill was also supported by Mr. Burdekin.

The second reading was agreed to without division, nd the House went into committee on the bill. A verbal amendment was made in the third clause, and the fourth clause was negatived without division. The bill was then reported.

Mr. BUCHANAN moved the second reading of the Challenge in Misdemeanour Bill.

Mr. WISDOM was in favour of the principle of the bill, because he thought challenges in cases for misdemeanour should be made the same as in cases for felony, and he would be willing to assent to this bill if its provisions were made similar to those of the measure which had been introduced by the Government in the Legislative Council.

Mr. R. B. SMITH congratulated the hon. mover on the prospect of his bill becoming law, in an amended shape.

Mr. COPELAND could not understand the position taken up by the Government in this matter.

Mr. W. J. FOSTER said the objection to the present law was more a question of principle than of actual practice, though he had to admit that the distinction between felonies and misdemeanours was without principle or system.

The bill was read a second time, without division, and committed pro forma.

The House adjourned at twenty-five minutes past 6 to 4 p.m. on Tuesday next.

The report of the Commission on military defences is the result of a prolonged and careful consideration of the questions to which it refers. The Commission consisted of ten members, five of whom were military men. Of the civilians, one—namely, the President—has long made the defences of the colony the subject of special study, and the others are gentlemen well qualified by education and knowledge of affairs to deal with the evidence and arguments brought before them in a practical manner. There is nothing startling or sensational in the report, and perhaps it will be found by some to be less comprehensive than they had expected. But the Commission, though authorised to report upon the whole subject of the "military defences of the colony," was appointed specially "to inquire into the working of the laws, regulations, and arrangements made for the establishment and maintenance of the military force of the colony, including the system of examination for appointments and promotions therein, and to suggest improvements with a view to economy in expenditure and efficiency in organization." The Commissioners had, therefore, to consider rather how the existing system could be perfected than to propose any new one in substitution of it. Instead of interfering with, or going outside the general scheme of coast fortification and defence recommended by Sir W. JERVOIS, they considered that they had simply to deal with the question of raising and managing the forces to work those defences in the most efficient and economical manner. We are not prepared to say that they took too narrow a view of the task entrusted to them for performance. They express the hope that their recommendations will be approved by those by whom the whole question must be finally determined. This indicates the point where the chief difficulty lies. Expenditure for purposes of defence—and especially expenditure for the permanent maintenance of regular military and naval forces—has never been popular in the colony; and no adviser of the Government who desired to bring about practical results, instead of airing mere theories of defence, would overlook the consideration that the cost of carrying out his proposals would be closely criticised in Parliament. The fact is that the community as a whole has never yet been so strongly convinced of the need of effective means of defence as to be willing to incur any large sacrifice for the purpose. A few years ago we went to the expense of procuring the highest professional advice which the Empire could afford; but one of the most important portions of that advice was rejected because some members of Parliament disagreed with it in principle, and a greater number held that the cost would be excessive. It is remarkable, under the circumstances, that the dissent from some of the recommendations in the present report which involve increased expenditure should have come from military members of the Commission.

The first suggestion (from which some of the military members differ) is that in view of the extent and dispersion of the defensive works, which consist of twelve distinct batteries in Port Jackson, besides another at the entrance to Botany Bay, and a fourteenth at Newcastle, the Permanent Artillery should be increased to 440 men, officers included, without delay. If the dissenting military men have founded their opinion upon an estimate of the least possible number to guard the guns and work them efficiently, it is not slighting their professional knowledge to say that a wide margin ought to be allowed for contingencies. There are no large reserves of fully qualified men to fall back upon; and until there are, the Permanent or Regular Force should be strong enough to bear weakening by casualties without a collapse. At some future time, if the effect of the system were to create a fully qualified and thoroughly effective reserve, the Permanent Force might perhaps be reduced with safety; but meanwhile it would be a mistake to maintain just enough skilled professionals to do the work, knowing that if any large proportion of them were disabled there would only be comparatively unskilled amateurs to take their places. The recommendation of the Commission is that a skilled Reserve should be created by offering to members of the Permanent Force on retiring after five years' service, and to other equally fit artillerymen, a retaining fee, and payment for a certain number of drills, with the prospect of employment in the public service. The principle of this recommendation is sound; and probably its value would be increased if the retirement of the Permanent Force men at the end of the five years were made compulsory, so as to cause a steady current of new blood to flow through the force, and a continuous increase of the number of trained artillerymen who, whether enrolled in the Reserve or waiting their turns to be enrolled, would be available in times of danger.

Another recommendation is that, in addition to the present so-called Volunteer Forces, retained under their present organization as a "Volunteer Militia," opportunity should be given for the formation of a purely Volunteer Force not exceeding 1200 men, supplied at public cost with instruction, arms, and ammunition only. There is reason to believe that many members of the old Volunteer Force, who would not join a paid service, would take advantage of this opportunity if it were afforded. Provided that due provision were then made for securing efficiency, this would establish a valuable means of increasing the supply of trained material at command, without involving any very large outlay.

Some of the most important of the recommendations of the Commission are those relating to the appointment, promotion, and professional instruction of officers. We cannot afford, nor would Parliament consent to, the withdrawal of any large number of the people from industrial pursuits for the purpose of forming a large standing army. We can only support a comparatively small force, when all its component parts are taken into the calculation. But having only a small force, the greater is the need that it should be trustworthy: and if the force as a whole is to be trustworthy it should be commanded by men who know their business. There are plenty of instances in history of good military service being rendered by professionally untaught men. But it is not safe to depend upon the chances of the development of genius in the hour of need. We may hope for it; but meanwhile, the prudent course is to see that our officers are thoroughly instructed. If they should then happen to develop military genius, so much the better; but to undervalue and dispense with instruction, and trust to chance to send us men of genius, is to risk the default of both in the time of need.

The suggestion that an Imperial officer should be appointed as inspecting officer of the Australian local forces and military adviser to the several Governments, goes somewhat beyond the province within which the attention of the Commission is generally restricted. It is, however, a good suggestion, and it may be described as little more than a recommendation that a policy already entered upon should be carried out permanently, and in a systematic manner. The officer so appointed, however, should be a man of high standing and experience, if his advice is to have weight enough to secure for it full effect; and the proposal that in time of war he should assume supreme command, in the event of combined or federal arrangements being made by the colonies for defence, is of value (apart from other reasons), because it would give some guarantee that the office of adviser and inspecting officer should be filled by a competent man.

It is strange to learn, after so many years of volunteering and defence expenditure, that the Ordnance Store Department is so far independent of the military authorities that the Commandant is not systematically informed as to what is in hand; that there is no due provision for replacing what is consumed; and that the Commandant, who ought to be responsible for the efficiency of the general means of defence, could not be held responsible if the breaking out of war found us deficient in the supply of warlike material. It was quite time that such a want of foresight and organization as this state of things implies should be exposed, and that appropriate remedies should be recommended. With our small establishment there should be no frittering away of responsibility by want of subordination or want of rapport between the different parts.

One of the most essential parts of any effective scheme of local defence is referred to somewhat lightly in almost the last paragraph of the report, perhaps because, technically, it may be said to lie outside the line of military defences. It is laid down as a principle that "the colony ought to be prepared in all available ways for a raid upon the commerce along its coasts, and possibly for an attempt to overpower the defences should an opportunity present itself:" and the recommendation is made that at least two gunboats, in addition to well-designed torpedo boats of great speed, ought to be procured, and be manned by the Naval Brigade. The principle of this recommendation is in accordance with that of Sir W. JERVOIS's proposal to obtain a swift ironclad. It is not enough to protect Port Jackson, Newcastle, and Botany by shore works: we need a not too costly, but thoroughly effective coast patrol, to keep the waters on our coast line clear of vessels that would never venture to attempt the entrance of a fortified port, but might establish themselves wherever they could get shelter, and prey on the commerce of the colony. With our unlimited command of coal we have a great advantage over any enemy that might visit us. The command of coal means, with suitable arrangements, the command of speed; and if we had two or more light vessels, each carrying a heavy long-range gun, and fast enough to overhaul or run away from any ocean-going steamer afloat, cruisers that were sent to prey upon our commerce should have a warm time of it. With superior speed, and heavy metal in the one gun carried, our patrolling gunboats could choose their own distance, and deliver their fire to the best advantage. To omit some such provision as this for the defence of our commerce would be to neglect one of the most obvious requirements of the situation.

Attached to the report of the Department of Lands are a series of interesting diagrams showing at a glance the strength of the Survey Department over a period of twenty years, as well as some portion of the work done during that period. The first of these diagrams shows the number of persons employed in that Department during each year, and it is instructive to notice how of late that number has increased. In 1861 the number was less than 130, in 1879 it had grown to more than 670. Under the old system by which survey preceded sale, the difficulty of getting the land into the market was largely one of administration. An application for survey waited an indefinite period before it could get attended to, even if no sinister influence were at work to cause delay or to prevent the desired piece of land from being marked out. There can be no doubt that if surveys had been prompt, the complaints would have been far fewer, and there would not have been such a widespread discontent with the old system. If anything like the same energy had been then infused into the Department which has been shown of late years, all bona-fide applications could have been dealt with promptly. But defective administration had given rise to an amount of public discontent that could rest satisfied with nothing less than a very violent change in the law. We escaped one evil to make acquaintance with another, and having got into it we have now got the Department into a state so efficient that selection before survey is no longer necessary for administrative reasons. There are other reasons why it is popular, but these, though they make the system convenient for purposes of private gain, are not reasons which commend themselves on the ground of public policy. At the present time every legitimate demand for the survey of land can be met: indeed, it is obvious that if we can survey land fast enough after selection, we could do the same with even less difficulty before selection.

At page 36 of the report is given a statement of the average cost of survey during the last eight years, and it has varied from 8½d. per acre to 17½d. The larger rate is mainly due to the number of isolated measurements that selection before survey necessitates. It is, of course, the most expensive system we could pursue, and the waste is only justifiable under an urgent plea of necessity, which urgent plea exists no longer. The bare cost of survey, however, is only a part of the money the State unnecessarily spends in alienating its land under this system. For the departmental business it is also very large and very complicated. It is anything but a simple business now to free-select. It seemed so at first, and, in fact, it was in the early days, when there was no check, and when there were very few reserves; but now the matter is becoming a very complicated one. Mr. MORIARTY tells us that his division of the Department alone has to deal with between fifty and sixty thousand letters a year. There is no difficulty in understanding this when we remember how likely a selector is to choose his ground somewhere or somehow against the rules; or, at least, how likely he is to have trodden on the toes of some squatter, who, with a Parliamentary land agent in his pay, is bent on trying to prove that the selection cannot hold good. Even if all goes right, there is all the business of inspection and of inquiry before the Commissioners, as well as the annual payment of interest, all which gives rise to correspondence. We cannot say that the system is a simple one. It was intended to help plain people who might get bothered at an auction mart, but a good many selectors have found themselves a good deal more bothered in the Lands Office than ever they did in the presence of the auctioneer. They like the system, however, because the greater their difficulties the greater their chances of selling out at a profit. The more a selector arouses the hostility of a squatter, the more certain it is that he has done or threatened to do that squatter some mischief, and the greater therefore is his prospect of selling out at a profit. At the present time the greatest temptation to select is where the greatest price is to be obtained for a transfer; and the greatest inducement to select is not with the view of making a homestead, but of transferring at a good premium. This was not the intention of the law, but it is its practical outcome. It is obvious that if it pays better to sell than to settle, we encourage sale more than we encourage settlement. We cannot, unfortunately, get any of the financial statistics connected with the transfer of selections, because they are all private transactions. It would be very interesting indeed if we could get to know the amount of premium that has passed into the hands of selectors for parting with their rights. All we do get are some tabular statements showing the number of transfers, and the number of separate conditional purchases involved therein. We do not, however, get the acreage, nor are we able to say how many separate persons who have figured as selectors are still resident on the ground they first selected. We know that there has been a very active business in the re-alienation of land that was got from the State on easy terms for the purposes of settlement, and we know that, in proportion to the population, there is less tillage now than there was before we commenced the experiment. We have evidence that a great many persons must have done well for themselves by the experiment: we have not the same evidence that they have done well for the country.

The Government have taken time in deciding upon the route of the proposed tramway for the western half of the city, and the extension to Circular Quay. The authority upon which they are acting was given them fifteen months ago; only then it was for "a line to commence in York-street, at Charlotte-place, then passing along York-street, through Druitt-street, along George-street, across the Railway Bridge, and along Parramatta-street, and terminating at the Glebe." That is the language of the schedule to the Act; but the 2nd clause empowers the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, to vary the proposed routes and to carry lines "along any other route or routes within the city of Sydney and the suburbs thereof." There was scarcely need for appending a schedule to the Act, when such liberal discretion was given to the Administration. Nor have Ministers acted without reason in departing from the route first proposed. The extension to Circular Quay was bound to be made in any case, if only to connect the Redfern terminus and the eastern suburbs with the Harbour and with the steamers that ply between Circular Quay and the marine suburbs. It may be doubted whether an easier gradient and a more direct route might not have been found than the one now proposed; but that is a matter of detail depending on data not accessible perhaps to the general public. The same will probably be said of the route along Kent-street. That is an exceedingly busy thoroughfare, and quite as narrow as Oxford-street. The residents have not yet signified their wishes in the matter; but if they should be hostile, will the Government yield as they did to the objectors in York-street? It is a serious matter to practically monopolize a main city thoroughfare by making it substantially a Government railway. Yet the tramways are found to be a great public convenience, and if they were discontinued the dissatisfaction would be almost universal, perhaps, because the citizens find themselves unable to obtain an ordinary railway within reasonable time. Whether their traffic will be found capable of being dovetailed into the ordinary traffic is at present matter of conjecture, about which there are almost as many fears as hopes in the public mind. Much will depend on the experiment in Oxford-street, and till that is finished the Government are not likely to begin their proposed line by the side of Darling Harbour.

The Queensland Government have followed the example of their neighbours in placing a new loan upon the London market, and, like them, have been able to reap the benefit of an improved demand for Australian securities. For a million of 4 per cent. debentures they had tenders to the amount of a million and a quarter, at figures which enable them to reject all below par, and allot not more than 86 per cent. at par, the balance being tendered for at a premium. That will bring their securities to a little under 4 per cent. par on the usual terms of quotation, but to something over 4 per cent. when corrections have been made for the charges incident to the financial operation. In March of 1879 they sold 4 per cent. stock to the amount of £1,184,800, which realized a gross sum of £1,055,863. That would place the stock at 89, yielding the investors a net interest of nearly 4½ per cent. To this is to be added the cost of floating the loan. The Union Bank charged ½ per cent. for commission, brokerage was at ¼ per cent., the duty stamps cost ½ per cent., and advertising and telegrams brought the total cost to £10,068. The total expenditure of Queensland from loan funds up to the end of June of last year was £10,606,110, and there were credit balances still remaining to the amount of £4,800,078. Her present rate of indebtedness is about £53 per head of her population, which is larger than that of any other colony, not excepting New Zealand. Yet her 4 per cent. debentures have risen from a net price of about 88½ per cent. to nearly if not quite par within the short space of two years. No doubt the operations of Mr. GLADSTONE upon sixty millions sterling of the National Debt of England, and the proposal of the United States Government to redeem a hundred millions of their stock, have made investors more anxious to obtain Australian securities. But British money-lenders are too cautious and too experienced now to lock up their funds without a reasonable prospect of safety; and they evidently believe in the future of Queensland, large as her indebtedness has become. Ratably to population, it is more than double that of New South Wales, or of any other colony, except New Zealand. In view of these recent favourable loans, it is worth while for Parliament to consider whether our next debentures should not be issued as a 3½ per cent. stock.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

As was announced in our issue of Thursday the proceedings in connection with the University commemoration will commence at 11 o'clock to-day, instead of at noon as stated on the cards of admission. It seems that the Governor and the young Princes cannot be present, as they have entered into an engagement to attend the special meeting at the Randwick racecourse. The announcement that his Excellency will not be able to be present at the University commemoration will be received with surprise. It is generally understood that the time for the commencement of the proceedings was altered from 12 o'clock to 11 to suit the convenience of the Governor and the Princes. The University commemoration is one of the events of the year which our Governors have hitherto been in the habit of gracing with their presence, and a departure from this time-honoured custom would be a matter for general regret. In England, royalty has attached itself to the people by its recognition of the foremost institutions of the country, and it is but reasonable to expect similar recognition from the representatives of royalty in this part of the world.

THE sitting of the Legislative Assembly yesterday was but a short one. The inevitable motion for adjournment was moved by Mr. Byrnes, and a short discussion ensued. Some motions were taken as formal motions, and the third reading of the Sydney Hospital Bill, taken up at the stage it was left when the prorogation took place last session, was read the third time. The Hospitals Act Amendment Bill was read the second time, and taken through Committee, and the Challenge in Misdemeanour Bill was read the second time, and committed pro forma.

AT a meeting of St. Vincent's ball committee, the chairman reported that in conformity with a request of the committee he had waited on the Commodore on board the Wolverene, to ascertain the decision of Lord Clanwilliam, with regard to the attendance of the officers of the squadron at the ball. The Commodore stated that he had apprised the committee that the 20th was the only evening they could attend. The Union Club, who had engaged the Exhibition Building for a ball to the squadron on that date, had courteously waived their right in favour of the charity. On inquiry at the Town Clerk's office, however, it was stated that the Union Club had not acquired a right to the building, but several gentlemen acting on behalf of the Freemasons had secured some sort of priority for the use of the building on the night of the 20th. There being no other suitable building procurable, the committee were prevented from holding the ball on the date that the Rear-Admiral and officers of the squadron and his Excellency the Governor and Commodore had arranged for. It is understood that the Bacchante will arrive in Sydney at the end of the month, when the Royal Princes will join her; and therefore the committee have decided to avail themselves of the kind offer made the committee on behalf of Lord Charles Scott and the officers of his ship, to hold the ball under their patronage. It will therefore probably be postponed until after the date at present advertised.

A MEETING of Freemasons was held at the City Catering Company's establishment on Thursday night, at which it was resolved that the Masonic Ball should be held on the 20th instant. The patronage of the royal midshipmen and their fellow officers of the detached squadron has been promised, and it is anticipated that the event will be an auspicious one.

A MEETING of the National Shipwreck Relief Society took place yesterday evening, at the Exchange. Present—Captain Hixson (in the chair), Messrs. J. Alger, W. Buzacott, A. T. Wilshire, Captains J. Broomfield, Banks, and C. Sullivan. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. It was stated that the bank balance to credit of account to date was £393 15s. 10d., and that £170 14s. 1d. was collected since last meeting. The sum of £14 was granted to a subscriber, who lost by shipwreck his clothing and effects. It was agreed that Messrs. F. G. Thomas and J. White be requested to again act as auditors, that the names of Messrs. T. O'Sullivan and J. C. Ellis be added to the Newcastle committee, and that the annual meeting be held on Thursday, August 26.

THE twenty-fifth anniversary in connection with the Newtown Congregational Sunday-school was celebrated on Sunday last by special sermons being preached—in the morning, by the pastor of the Church, the Rev. Warlow Davies, M.A.; in the afternoon, by the Rev. J. F. Cullen; and in the evening, by the Rev. George Campbell. On the Tuesday following a tea and public meeting was held, and was well attended considering the inclement state of the weather. Interesting addresses were delivered by the Rev. G. G. Howden on the "Revised New Testament," by the Rev. S. Savage on "Classes for Young Men," and by Mr. S. Hague Smith on "Our Homes." Not the least interesting feature in connection with the celebration of this event was the presentation to the superintendent of the school (Mr. Harrison), who has occupied this position since its formation, of an address expressing the respect in which he was held, and also bearing testimony to his past services. The address was accompanied by an album containing the portraits of the ministers, deacons, and teachers: also, three volumes of books, given by the senior scholars. The recipient suitably responded. During the evening several select pieces were well rendered by the choir of the Church.

"TOWN TALK" in the Sydney Mail thus refers to the differences of doctors on the question of vaccination:—The vaccination quarrel is not a pretty one. With the enemy within our gates, it is not pleasant to have the garrison squabbling over the defences and actually accusing each other of favouring the foe. We have not often been able to agree with Dr. Belgrave, partly because his literary style, itself of the confluent order, does not agree with us, but generally because we have never been quite able to make out what he meant to say, or not to say. But we do here. He tells us for once pretty plainly, though still "at length," what we want in the present emergency; and from what we know, or rather don't know, about the matter, we are inclined to agree with him. We want lymph—more lymph and purer, that's what we want; and we shall go for lymph, not personally, of course, with the beer-jug, but professionally, as thus, with the pen; and socially, wherever it is possible to be social on the subject of smallpox. Dr. Brereton, who won't have lymph at any price—may be said, indeed, to suffer from lymphophobia, as distinguished from our own slight attack of lymphomania—is said to be an excellent poet, and when plagues are about we don't much care for poets. One trouble at a time, please, is our motto; and as Dr. Belgrave on lymph—we beg pardon, on "spurious, deteriorated, and contaminated vaccination"—was quite trouble enough for us, we shall stick to him. He begins well, cheerfully even, by telling us that "Vaccinia," when not as above, spurious, &c., is "simply a benign modification of 'Variola;'" and though he at once dashes our hopes by adding that this does not, he thinks, bear on the question, we must beg leave to differ. It does bear on the question, for it puts us at once in a benign frame of mind, and prepared to read further and learn that "in a country like our own, climate, social life, and tedious political development combine to render zymotic disease one of supreme importance." We were certainly always under the impression that our political development had been rather rapid than otherwise; but as we are assured that, tedious or rapid, it has led to disease, as we always thought it would, it does not matter, and we go on cheerfully as before. There seems to be no doubt—as, indeed, from the different nature of the animals might have been expected—that vaccine lymph is much more "benign" in its influence than human—humanization having no better effect on the subject in this case than civilization sometimes in others—but this is not to be held as inferring that the milk of human kindness is therefore also inferior in value to the milk of the cow, as any one may discover by trying which he can get the most of. But to proceed. "The prophylactic power of pure vaccine being now established to the satisfaction of nearly all persons not actually of the insane diathesis" (which is "one," and a very good "one," professional, neat, and nice, for Dr. Brereton), the question resolves itself into the old one—first catch your cow. This is not always an easy matter, for your cow, to be a cow in this connection, must first catch the cowpox, and cows have no greater liking for diseases even of a "benign" character than human beings. If the cow could be brought to a proper sense of her moral and physical obligations to society, there would of course be no difficulty, and bovine variola would be as common in the country as any other form of benign beneficence. But even Dr. Belgrave does not venture to hope for this. At present we seem to be very much at the mercy of the cow, on whose horns Dr. Belgrave certainly leaves both himself and us in this dilemma,—that, failing a supply of vaccine lymph, it is very little use getting vaccinated at all. This is not a very satisfactory conclusion to an otherwise excellent paper,—that pure vaccination, variola benigna, a proved necessity to all persons not actually of the "insane diathesis," persuasio Brerestonensis, is only possible here on conditions which are almost impossible! We didn't think so at first; but, perhaps, after all the worthy doctor was right in expressing his regret that his paper was "not more entertaining."

A VACANCY having occurred in the Sydenham Ward of the Borough of Petersham, and as no nominations were received within the time allowed by law, his Excellency the Governor has, under power of section 92 of the Municipalities Act, appointed Mr. Atkinson A. P. Tighe to the aldermanic position. Mr. Tighe for some years represented the county of North Cumberland in the Legislative Assembly, and has had large experience in municipal matters.

TO-DAY'S issue of Sydney Punch is to hand. Various improvements are noticeable in the publication, which is introduced with a new title page, the conception of which is quite original and, together with the execution, reflects very great credit upon the artist, Mr. Alfred Clint. The cartoons are also meritorious. Altogether, the general get-up of the paper is worthy of praise.

A CORRESPONDENT in London writes:—"Mr. James Isaac Paddle, M.B., B.A. (nephew of the late Captain Paddle, of the A.S.N. Co., and of Mr. Paddle, of the Jerusalem. London), has recently taken his diploma and obtained six gold medals in England and at the Royal College, Mauritius, although only 26 years of age; and is now appointed surgeon to the Orient (s.), leaving London for Sydney 8th June."

MR. HENRY BEIT, who had carried on business in Sydney for many years as a merchant, died somewhat suddenly, at his residence, on Thursday night.

REFERRING to the evidence adduced at the inquest in connection with the fatal accident on board the Plejaden at Dibbs's Wharf, a correspondent, who states that he is a labourer getting his living on the wharfs, writes:—"It is time that some supervision should be exercised over ships' tackle, both for loading and unloading, as accidents in connection therewith are not uncommon nowadays."

MR. RICHARD R. BENJAMIN, a tidewaiter, while on board the steamer Cascapedia on Thursday, was seized with a fit, and was conveyed to the Infirmary. After he was admitted he had a series of fits, from the effects of which he died during the night.

AN old man named Samuel Round, a blacksmith, who had been residing in Kent-street, was visited on Tuesday by Dr. Spencer, who recommended his removal to the Infirmary. Round, who had been confined to his bed for some weeks, died at the Infirmary on Wednesday from the effects of general debility.

A FATAL accident occurred on Monday, the 4th instant, near Spiller's Hotel, Merool Creek (the Wagga Express reports), by which a tank-sinker named Michael Bromham lost his life. He was working at the face of the cutting, and his death was brought about in the way that is so often the case—the want of proper precaution when cutting under the bank. A large fall of earth took place unexpectedly, and he received such injuries as to cause his almost instantaneous death. When he was extricated he was quite dead, the shovel with which he had been working lying across his abdomen. The deceased was 47 years of age and unmarried. His friends expressed themselves very strongly, and with some reason, at the long delay incurred in holding an inquiry. The Narrandera police were informed of the accident early on Tuesday morning, and constable Carland at once went to take charge of the body, but it was not until midday on Thursday that the coroner arrived to hold an inquest. The body by this time was terribly decomposed, and shortly before the coroner arrived the friends of the deceased had decided upon burying the remains at their own risk.

AN explosion of gas took place at Parramatta yesterday afternoon, at the new Mercury office buildings of Mr. Fuller, in George and Macquarie streets. It appears that a leakage of gas was perceptible during the day, and the gasfitter made two openings in the floor upstairs to discover its whereabouts, running a light along the pipe. He had not long to wait, for instantly a tremendous explosion was the result. The gas made its escape between the flooring and lining boards, shattering the latter asunder in splinters, smashing the large windows facing Macquarie-street, scorching the wooden beams in the press-room on the ground floor, and cracking the brick walls dividing the front shop in George-street and the press-room at the rear, besides doing other little mishaps. The shock was an exceedingly violent one, shaking all the buildings about the spot. Fortunately no one was hurt, although all the workmen were in and around the buildings, and several persons were passing by at the time. The report was heard a long way off.

THE following is the order of musical service at St. Andrew's Cathedral to-morrow:—Services, Kempton; anthem—"In native worth," tenor solo; "The heavens are telling," chorus (Haydn's "Creation").

AMUSEMENTS.

WILHELMJ CONCERTS.

The sixth of a series of concerts by the Wilhelmj Company was given in the Masonic Hall, York-street, last evening, and, except with regard to the attendance, was no less successful than any of the preceding ones. Herr Wilhelmj was allotted two places in the programme, but his success was so great that he was compelled to supplement both performances. His first contribution was a work of his own, a fantaisie de concert, a brilliant piece of music, admirably adapted for the display of exquisite execution. In response to a recall he performed Chopin's Nocturne (opus 9), which was also most effectively played. Herr Wilhelmj's next performance was a reverie by Vieuxtemps, and it was rendered in an exceedingly artistic style. As a natural consequence the violinist was recalled, when he again played Chopin's Nocturne. Miss Marie Conron's numbers were a romance (Mignon), by Thomas; and the ballad "Kerry Dance"; to which she was induced to add "Down the shady lane," and the "Minstrel Boy." Miss Kate Thayer sang the aria, "Ah! forse è lui" (Traviata), and the waltz "Che Gioja," by Mattei; and, in response to a recall at the conclusion of the former, gave Abt's "Postillion." Mr. Max Vogrich's instrumental work was also highly appreciated. The seventh concert of the series will be given to-night, when there will be an entire change of programme.

THE SCHOOL OF ARTS.

Mr. J. Hasker, well known in dramatic circles here, will take a benefit at the School of Arts on Monday next. He has been in the profession for thirty-two years, and for twenty-four never had such a favour extended to him. This his first benefit is, therefore, deserving of patronage; but it is also rendered meritorious on Mr. Hasker's part by his versatility and his persistent endeavours to gratify his audiences. Mr. H. T. Craven's "Our Nelly," will be played, and Mr. Hasker will assume the part of Giles Freckleface, while the other parts will be sustained by Messrs. Modus, W. M. Browne, J. G. Leslie, W. C. Dillon, Mrs. J. P. West, Mrs. J. Thorpe, Miss Blanche Grey, and others. There will also be a musical interlude, and the entertainment will conclude with the laughable comedietta "Cut off with a Shilling."

An entertainment was given on Tuesday evening last at the Hospital for the Insane, Gladesville, under the auspices of the Sydney Mercantile Dramatic Society. It was one of the most successful given in the institution for some time past. The well-worn farce of "Slim Jim" sent away the whole of the audience, which included a number of visitors, in high glee. Mr. Johnny Cowan and Mr. J. H. Rainford were present amongst the actors, and Professor Benson-Lees surprised every one by his dexterous conjuring tricks. Messrs. W. L. Nunn, A. Isaacs, D. M'Credie, Cantle, T. Beck, and Morris Menser also assisted in making the affair enjoyable. Miss Menser acted as accompanist.

FRANCE AND TURKEY.

PARIS, JULY 13 (EVENING.)

In consequence of the recent action of the French in Tunis, a very excited state of feeling continues to prevail among the native population in Tunis and at Tripoli; and, as already announced, the tribes inhabiting the latter dependency are co-operating with the Tunisians, and fears of a general outbreak among the Mahomedans are entertained.

The Porte continues to manifest jealousy in the proceeding of the French fleet generally, and in accordance with orders received at Constantinople several Turkish ironclads have been dispatched to Tripoli, before which place they arrived yesterday. Some vessels belonging to the French squadron have been ordered to watch the Turkish men-of-war, and are accordingly cruising at a short distance from the town.

REVOLT OF MAHOMEDANS AT CABES.

PARIS, JULY 14.

Latest news from Tunis states that a formidable revolt has broken out among the Mahomedan population at Cabes, situated south of the capital; and in consequence of the threatening attitude of the insurgents the entire European population has hastily left the town, and has taken refuge on board vessels in the harbour.

NEW BULGARIAN PARLIAMENT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, JULY 13.

The new Bulgarian Parliament which was recently elected met for the first time yesterday. In to-day's sittings a discussion took place upon a letter sent by Prince Alexander to the President of the Council, setting forth the conditions which his Highness regards as essential to an efficient government of the principality. These conditions are: 1st. The Prince shall be invested with extraordinary powers for seven years, in order to enable him to introduce improvements in the administration. 2nd. For the suspension of the National Assembly for one year. 3. The Prince is to have the right of summoning the National Assembly before the expiration of seven years, with a view of revision of the Constitution according to the basis of the new institution created by him. These articles were lengthily discussed, and finally resolutions were passed accepting the Prince's conditions and authorising him to take such measures as he deemed necessary for the carrying on and improving the government of the country.

JULY 14.

Immediately after Prince Alexander had been notified of the acceptance of his conditions by the new Bulgarian Parliament, his Highness, in accordance with the power invested in him for the next seven years, issued a manifesto to his subjects, in which he announces his intention of bringing about a complete reform of the public service. An annual meeting of the National Assembly is to take place; but the deliberation of its members is to be confined to deciding as to the Budget and foreign questions of importance, all matters of internal administration being vested exclusively in the hands of the Prince.

IRISH LAND BILL.

LONDON, JULY 14.

The House of Commons continues to discuss daily in committee the clauses of the Irish Land Bill, to the exclusion of all other business. Last night's sitting was taken up with consideration of clause 26 of the bill, which empowers the Land Commission to enter into contracts with any private person or public bodies for the advance of sums of money to promote emigration to Canada or any other of the British dependencies. A lengthy debate took place, in which the Irish members assumed a prominent part, being strongly opposed to the provisions of the clause, and are doing their utmost to delay its passage through committee.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

The return of the new Ministers, most of whom were returned at the last election as avowed Liberals, will be opposed in nearly every instance by candidates of the Reform League's choosing. A large and influential meeting of the West Bourke Conservative electors was held this afternoon, at which it was decided to take no part in the contest, but leave the Premier free to fight Mr. Reid single-handed. Had either Mr. Harper or Mr. Staughton been put up, his election would have been almost a certainty, as the Liberal votes would of necessity have been split between Sir Bryan and Mr. Reid.

In the recent case where the Steam Navigation Board passed judgment on the captain of the Gulf of Finland, the decision was upset by the Supreme Court, on the ground that the Board had no jurisdiction over any case outside Victorian waters, although the case might have occurred in Australian seas. The Customs authorities have addressed a communication to the Imperial Government, asking for an alteration of the law on which the Supreme Court based its decision.

The Galley of Lorne arrived in the Bay to-day, and her cargo of teas will be offered to-morrow.

The lowest tender for the supply of 18,250 tons of steel rails for the new lines of railway was that of Messrs. Bolckow, Vaughan, and Co., of Middlesborough, England, for the sum of £130,031 5s. Nine other tenders were received, one of which was informal.

Several men have been arrested at Ballarat and Echuca on suspicion of being deserters from the Detached Squadron. If their identity is established they will be sent aboard the Bacchante. That vessel goes into the Alfred Graving Dock at Williamstown about the middle of next week.

Harry Grubb, a cross-country jockey, was thrown from his horse in the Kensington Park hurdle race yesterday and was picked up insensible, in which condition he remained at midnight.

Charles Irish, captain of the Victorian Bicycle Club, has just accomplished the feat of riding to Seymour and back on a bicycle, having done 130 miles in 13 hours' actual travelling.

At a meeting of the M'Culloch Insurance Company it was decided to wind up the present company, for the purpose of forming a new one, which should include both fire and marine business. Although only four years in existence, and confining its business to marine risks, the present company paid dividends at the rate of 10 per cent., and also nearly doubled the original capital by adding to the reserve fund.

The Ardennes station in the Albert district of New South Wales, with 5000 sheep, was offered for sale today by the Australasian Mortgage Agency Company, but the highest offer was £14,500, and the property was passed in at £15,000.

According to the latest regulations all vessels arriving from Sydney must undergo a strict examination of the health-officer at the quarantine station at Point Nepean. The R. M. S. Hydaspes arrived to-day, and was boarded off Queenscliff, but it is not likely that her detention will be of long duration. Arrangements are being made by the Central Board of Health to secure a large supply of vaccine lymph, and Dr. Youl proceeds to Sunbury to-morrow to obtain some from three cows belonging to the Hon. W. J. Clarke, after which some cows at the Government experimental farm will be inoculated.

Henry Colly, who recently attempted the life of the girl Amy Lewis by cutting her throat and afterwards tried to commit suicide by the same means, was to-day committed for trial on a charge of attempted murder. The offence was committed on 3rd May, and both the prisoner and his intended victim have been in the hospital nearly ever since, although they have now recovered.

Captain Dowling, of the Mirzapore, who was called upon by the Steam Navigation Board to show cause why his certificate should not be suspended, has failed to put in an appearance.

Mr. Gaunson, the Minister of Lands, addressed the electors of Ararat this evening. He had a quiet hearing, but at the close of the meeting he invited some person to propose a vote of confidence in favour of the new Ministry, but no one responded.

The Mayor's fancy dress ball to-night was very successful. The Governor and Miss Kennedy were present.

187 tons from No. 1 North Phœnix, Gympie, have been crushed, yielding 1748 oz., exclusive of Sydney specimens. A crushing of 814 tons from North Glanmire gave 849 oz.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, FRIDAY.

On April 3rd the sheep in the colony numbered 6,463,897; cattle, 307,177; horses, 157,915; pigs, 181,011.

Much excitement has been caused at Petersburg in the North, owing to the discovery of gold-bearing quartz, and platinum.

The Government had the case of the Sarah Bell under consideration to-day, but have not yet decided what steps shall be taken. Counsel have already been retained on both sides in the event of legal proceedings.

DEPUTATIONS.

THE ELSWICK ESTATE AND TRAMWAYS.

Yesterday, a deputation of gentlemen interested in the Elswick Estate was introduced to Mr. Lackey by Mr. Roseby, M.L.A., with a view of asking the Government to extend tramway accommodation to that estate. It was pointed out that there were 120 houses erected on the estate, and in addition to this there were some 400 or 500 houses in the immediate neighbourhood; and it was suggested that the Camperdown tramway should be extended to Taverner's Hill in order to afford the accommodation requested. Mr. Lackey said that he had had an examination made of the route indicated by the surveyor whose duty it was to arrange these matters, and his report on the whole was favourable. He would have the matter further looked into, and their representations should receive consideration.

ASHFIELD REQUIREMENTS.

A deputation, consisting of the Mayor (Mr. T. L. Nicholson) and several aldermen of the Borough Council of Ashfield, waited upon Mr. Lackey, yesterday, to point out the necessity of a crossing at Carlton and Grosvenor crescents, under the Petersham viaduct; and also the importance of at once proceeding with the work in Bland or Alt streets. It was pointed out that the proposed crossing at Carlton and Grosvenor Crescents would not be very expensive, and would be a great convenience, not only to the residents of Ashfield, but Petersham. At present they had no crossing nearer than the Liverpool Road, as the crossing at the railway gate could not be used, owing to the impassable condition of the road. With regard to Bland-street, the Minister promised some months ago that this matter should be seen to, but up to the present time the work had not been proceeded with. Mr. Lackey, in reply, said he expected to have had a report from the officer who attended to these matters, but it had not yet been sent in. He knew that the Commissioner for Railways had given instructions that a report should be furnished, and as soon as it came to hand he would see what could be done to meet the views of the deputation.

THE METROPOLITAN TRAMWAY.

A deputation, consisting of a number of gentlemen carrying on business in George-street South and Brickfield-hill, was introduced to the Minister for Works, yesterday, by Messrs. John Davies and Abigail, Ms.L.A., with reference to the metropolitan tramway. It was explained that the deputation represented a public meeting held about a fortnight ago, presided over by the Mayor, when it was decided to make certain representations to the Government with reference to the route which the proposed tramway was to take. The property-holders and business people apprehended very serious injury to their business if the proposal under consideration at that time was adopted; but it was now gratifying to find that the Minister had altered the route. The present proposal would meet with hearty approbation, and the deputation came simply to express their thanks to the Minister for Works and the Government for having paid due regard to the representations which had been made through the Press and by public meeting. Mr. Lackey said he was very glad that the deputation were satisfied with the course taken by the Government. Their object was to provide tramway accommodation to the people residing in the various suburbs, in order to bring them into closer communication with the city, while at the same time doing the least injury possible to business people. He was glad to say that a line of route had been discovered for the proposed tramway which would answer all the purposes, and get over the difficulty of connecting the eastern system of tramways with the southern.

RECREATION GROUND FOR BURWOOD.

A deputation, introduced by Mr. Pigott, M.L.A., and consisting of several of the aldermen of Burwood and a number of leading residents of Burwood, Croydon, and the surrounding district, waited upon Sir Henry Parkes, to request the Government to purchase a certain piece of land at Burwood for a recreation ground. The land recommended is situated about half-way between Burwood and Croydon railway stations, and between Mr. Butterfield's house and the railway line. Mr. Pigott presented a numerously signed petition in support of the request the deputation made, and several members of the deputation addressed the Minister, and pointed out the suitableness of the land for recreative purposes.

Sir HENRY PARKES, in reply, said he might say that amongst the pieces of land purchased for this public object a place would be bought for Burwood, and that within a very short time now, and that the representations made by the deputation with regard to the piece of land they recommended would be fully considered. As far as he could judge, the situation was central, and he admitted that the land was what it had been described to be. Beyond that he held that a small place well kept would be much better for any locality than a larger place ill kept, and the keeping up of a place of this kind would involve trouble and expense; therefore he did not attach very much importance to a limited area. The whole question of these reserves would be settled very soon. It had been found exceedingly troublesome, more so than had been supposed, but any person who had experienced the trouble of buying a piece of land for himself would understand something of the trouble of purchasing a number of pieces, and especially so when there was no time to do it.

EASTERN SUBURBS HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

A deputation, consisting of Mr. Trickett, M.L.A., Mr. W. Brown, Mayor of Paddington, and Mr. Alderman Castles, waited upon Sir Henry Parkes with the object of asking for the use of the Garden Palace on the occasion of the society's September show, and for a small Government endowment in aid of the society. The society has outgrown the limits of the building in which its shows have hitherto been held, and without larger accommodation the plants and flowers cannot be shown to advantage. In asking for a small endowment, Mr. Brown stated that in Victoria endowments were given to horticultural societies in the same manner as they were given to agricultural societies.

Sir HENRY PARKES said he was not quite sure that granting the use of the Garden Palace would dovetail in with the plan the Government had of using that building, and there was always an objection raised in the public mind against granting any exclusive section of society the right to charge for admission to public grounds or public buildings, but there was plenty of time to consider the request made, and if a letter were written to him from the society asking for the use of the building on the days fixed for the society's show in September he would reply to it. With regard to the question of endowment he would immediately ascertain whether the Government of Victoria assisted horticultural societies in that colony; but for himself he thought it was very objectionable to give Government assistance to all the societies in the country. The Government could do very little good by promoting the objects of a society such as that represented by the deputation: it was done far better by private persons.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

The export of coal for the week is 22,739 tons. The Customs revenue received for the same period amounts to £1532 10s. 8d. Another London ship, the Atma, arrived direct to-day from London, with general merchandise consigned to Messrs. J. and A. Brown. Mr. W. W. Hitchcock, of Newcastle, was presented with a handsome address and a tea and coffee service yesterday, by a number of the principal citizens, and entertained at a champagne supper prior to his departure from the district. The weather is beautifully fine.

LISMORE, FRIDAY.

The District Court sittings, lasting two days, before Judge Murray, were concluded last night. 76 cases were disposed of. 3938 acres of land were selected here yesterday. The weather is fine.

CENTRAL KEMPSEY, FRIDAY.

The District Court sittings to-day occupied Judge Docker from 10 a.m. till 6 p.m., during which time about 50 cases were disposed of. The remainder are to be taken at 8.30 a.m. to-morrow. Gold-bearing specimens from the reefs beyond the Bellinger continue to be brought in. The gold is very rich looking. A local assay gave 25 ounces to the ton, and many are much richer. The late rains have been very beneficial. A movement is on foot to secure a trial survey for the railway to Armidale.

INVERELL, FRIDAY.

The cases suspected of being small-pox at Tingha have been pronounced by the doctor to be measles, complicated with vaccine fever, the patients having recently been vaccinated.

ARMIDALE, FRIDAY.

A well-attended public meeting, presided over by the Mayor, has been held in the Town Hall. Numerous resolutions were unanimously carried, urging the Government to cause a trial survey to be made for a railway from Armidale to Grafton, as, from the natural advantages of this route, it is supposed to be infinitely superior to any other for connecting New England with the coast. The resolutions are to be forwarded to the local members for presentation to the Government. The Oddfellows celebrated their anniversary by marching round the town in full regalia. They numbered nearly 200, and finished the day with a ball in the Town Hall. Splendid rain, which was much required, has fallen, and the weather now is fine.

BOURKE, FRIDAY.

The weather is fine.

CARCOAR, FRIDAY.

The monthly escort left to-day with 726 oz. 4 dwts. 16 grs. of gold. Three tons of a prime sample of tobacco-leaf left here to-day for Sydney, grown by Ah Yen, Chinese gardener, near the town. The weather is fine but wintry, with continuous heavy frosts.

GOULBURN, FRIDAY.

Commissioner King, who was thrown out of his buggy near Taralga, and brought to Goulburn, was found to have had his right arm fractured above the elbow, and his right side and hip swollen and bruised. The use of the right leg is for the present lost. It seems the first intimation of danger Mr. King had was from the horse beginning to kick and smash in the buggy. Immediately afterwards he was thrown out of the buggy. The vehicle was dashed against a tree and completely smashed. The horse was caught four miles distant, much injured. Mr. King's escape from death is almost miraculous. In consequence of the mishap, the Courts of Inquiry to be held at Taralga, Crookwell, Bungendore, and Queanbeyan have been postponed till further notice. At a meeting of the Goulburn Vigilance Committee, letters were read urging that the erection of the bridge at the old township should be proceeded with, and the Government will be asked to proceed with the plans and survey of the railway line from Goulburn to Cooma. A letter was also read, recommending that application be made for a refreshment-room at Goulburn railway station. The weather is cold and disagreeable. There was a heavy fog last night and severe frost this morning.

TEMORA, FRIDAY.

The weather is bitter cold and dry. The country is fearfully dry, and the stations all complaining at the result of the lambing. The Temora Quartz Company commenced crushing yesterday, and completed 21 tons from the Red Hill reef, which went 19 oz.; 29 tons from Ironclad went 5 oz. Both these reefs are in Deutscher's paddock. 20 tons from the Shamrock are now going through. The water in the dam is sufficient for two months. Hicks and party's spare ground between Foster and Burke's claims washed 300 loads, which went (with pickings-out) an average of 1¼ oz. to the load.

WILCANNIA, FRIDAY.

News from Mount Browne continues satisfactory. Mr. Slee, the newly appointed warden and inspector of mines, left here to-day for the diggings. The Government geologist is expected in the next mail. It is urged that, unless the Government take steps to secure a water supply of a permanent nature, three-fourths of the present population will be obliged to leave during the summer months. Great satisfaction is expressed at Mr. Slee's appointment as warden. An accident occurred to a miner at the diggings by a fall of earth. The sufferer is now at Wilcannia hospital, doing well, under the care of Dr. M'Lean, hospital surgeon.

THE DETACHED SQUADRON.

The different vessels of the Detached Squadron presented a lively scene yesterday, for while some were coaling or provisioning, others were thronged by friends of the officers attached to them. It is probable that about the middle of next week arrangements will be made for the public to have an opportunity of inspecting the squadron. Yesterday afternoon Sir George Innes, Sir John Robertson, Mr. Combes, M.L.A., Colonel Richardson, and Colonel Roberts called upon the Admiral and the Commodore; and the Royal Princes visited Government House. In the evening his Excellency entertained at dinner about twenty-five of the principal naval officers in port, and the Princes were present. After dinner a large party left Government House for the Mayor's Ball. Lord Augustus and Lady Loftus, Mrs. Stirling, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Bruce, and Mrs. Mainprise, Prince Albert Victor, Prince George, Earl Clanwilliam, the Rev. Mr. Dalton, Lieut. A. D. Loftus, Lieut. Nathan, Mr. R. Bloxsome, Commodore Wilson, Mr. E. E. Row, the Captains and first Lieutenants of the ships composing the squadron, and several other gentlemen made up the party. This afternoon there will be a dress rehearsal at Government House of the comedy to be played on Monday night. In the evening the Admiral, the Ministry, and the Princes will be entertained at dinner by his Excellency. On Sunday afternoon the Princes may visit St. Andrew's Cathedral, and on Monday night they will attend the private theatrical performance at Government House. On the 20th instant the Admiral will give a dinner party, at which his Excellency the Governor has promised to attend.

The ships' crews of the Detached Squadron were busily engaged yesterday in coaling and provisioning. The Inconstant and Tourmaline had colliers alongside, and the Carysfoot and Cleopatra were taking in stores.

We understand it is probable that some cutter rowing contests will take place between the crews of the various ships before they leave this port.

THE ROYAL PRINCES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Under the privilege sometimes accorded, may I ask the favour of insertion of my views upon certain coming events.

The limited space of time at the disposal of the people of this city in representing their loyalty and their hospitalities towards the Royal Princes should be judiciously economised, as the best efforts should be issued to show the illustrious visitors that, although we are known by another appellation, we are really but transplanted Englishmen.

After the exhibition of our inherited tastes in the time-honoured sport of horse-racing, the brilliant balls which shall evidence the taste, fashion, and manners of "Ye English" at the Antipodes, the singing of the lovely song of "Our beautiful harbour," let it not be forgotten among the sight-seeing objects, some of which are the measure of a giant's in the march of improvement, as made by a colony whose span of young life has scarce exceeded the number of the years of some of its own born living inhabitants, that we are encumbered by the auri sacra fames, so enveloped in pleasure as to overlook the loftier conditions of our existence. All may indeed with legitimate pride point to a monument of high significance in our noble University. It is indeed most desirable that the excellent opportunity which will be presented on Saturday—the Commemoration day—may, by the generous consideration of our courtier Governor, be availed of, as it is publicly known this will be quite practicable, owing to the change to an earlier hour, 11 a.m., having been fixed by the distinguished Chancellor. At the speed of present travelling, it would perhaps not be too unreasonable to hope the Princes may, by his Excellency's indisputable diplomatic power of persuasion, be induced to honour by a short visit that seat of learning before engaging in the admiration at Randwick of the fine animals having their own blue blood of aristocracy.

I will conclude by the advancement of at least one cogent reason, trusting it may prevail, namely, that when the festivities shall have ceased, the record of which shall hereafter seem insignificantly small, there shall be preserved in one of our highest secular institutions a bright historic mark as noting so auspicious an occasion as that pointed out of the royal visit of the first lineal inheritors of England's throne.

I am, &c., CIVIS.

THE TURF.

The complimentary meeting of the Australian Jockey Club in honour of the visit of the Detached Squadron is to take place at Randwick, to-day, when a very large attendance is expected, and it is to be hoped that the Tramway Department will be equal to the extra demand that will be made on its resources. His Excellency Lord Augustus Loftus and Lady Loftus will attend. A great many improvements have been effected since the last meeting, and Mr. Clibborn appears to be determined that Randwick shall look its best to-day. The first race is to start at 1 o'clock. Lady Ripon had been handicapped at 12 st. for the Hurdle Race, but the pen was put through her name the moment the weights appeared, and the places are likely to go to Radical, Wrangler, and Jupiter as named. Carmen, Twilight, and Hotspur have been scratched for the Victoria Handicap, and whichever Mr. Ivory may choose to send should just about carry the blue and straw to the front, and Primrose, Harp of Erin, and Verdict promise to be in the first flight. Judged from the work done at Randwick in the mornings the places in the Princes' Stakes will probably be divided amongst the Witch, by Hawthornden from Queen of Clubs; Bonny Blink, by Hawthornden from Spoilt Child, and Mr Tait's unnamed colt, by Maribyrnong from Lady Kingston; and they may come home as named unless Trumpet Major, by Goldsbrough from Melody, can split them. Courtenay and Bob Sawyer may be about the best of the starters for the Selling Plate, unless Stilton or Harp of Erin be asked to carry silk; and if Henchman be not dressed in his best, Zulu, Creswick, and Childers should be the hardest to beat for the Squadron Handicap. As will be seen by advertisement the secretary requests members of the A. J. C. to produce their tickets at the entrance gates to the saddling paddock. As our visitors will not see our best horses to-day, it would be a graceful act on the part of the A. J. C. and horse-owners, if arrangements were to be made for a review or parade, to take place on the racecourse on next Saturday afternoon, when the representatives of all the leading stables would, we are assured, put in an appearance.

The following is the programme:—

* Scratched.

We learn by telegram from our Newcastle correspondent that Mr. F. Lynch's Sir Solomon, and Mr. John Mayo's mare Black Swan, have both been withdrawn from the turf for stud purposes. Yesterday Mr. John Mayo, owner of Hesperian, backed that horse for the Melbourne Cup with Mr. E. E. Jones for £10,000 to £450, and accepted a smaller wager with another bookmaker of £1000 to £50. Mr. E. E. Jones has promised the Newcastle Jockey Club a gold cup of the value of 50 guineas for their next meeting. The Northern District Hunt Club Meeting takes place to-day at Maitland.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphed last night that owing to the departure of the majority of the members of the ring for the special squadron meeting at Sydney to-day there was very little to record in racing matters. The betting market has been languid all the week, the positions of the favourites for the Grand National Hurdle and Steeplechase and Derby having undergone no change. 100 to 10 against Sir Peter and Twilight for the Hurdle and Steeple is all that can be obtained for the double event. 6 to 1 each against Monmouth and Darebin for the Derby is offered, and 1000 to 40 against Somnus. For the Cup Monmouth and Sir Modred are at the same figure. Pawnbroker has been scratched for the Amateur Turf Club Flat Race.

Our Grafton correspondent telegraphed last night that the sale of blood stock yesterday was well attended, but the bidding was not spirited. The principal lots passed without effecting sales. Azalea, a brood mare, realized 120 guineas; a foal, by Warlike, 30 guineas; Amazon, 42 guineas; Coorindi, 34 guineas; Cobweb, 30 guineas; Stumps, Bluegown, and Black Bess, three mares with foals, £95; Mussulman, 97 guineas; Fieldfare, 40 guineas. The other sales were very low.

FOOTBALL.

MELBOURNE CLUB v. SYDNEY CLUB.—This match took place on Thursday afternoon, on the Association Cricket-ground, but was poorly attended, the presence of the Flying Squadron in the harbour acting, to some extent, as a counter-attraction. Both teams appeared on the ground with commendable punctuality, but some delay was caused owing to the time occupied by a photographer in posing the Victorians for an effective picture. The players having at last been successfully "taken," the game commenced. Messrs. Lamrock and Crisp were the respective captains, and about twenty minutes past 3 o'clock the ball was sent into play; East Sydney kicking towards the northern goal with a south-westerly breeze in their favour, and Melbourne working towards the southern end. It was evident that the local team meant business, for the ball was at once driven into Melbourne quarters, and first behind scored for Sydney. Soon afterwards Sydney, who were playing a very lively game, and following well, again worked up to their opponent's goal, where one of the blues, getting a free kick, made a splendid attempt at goal, but only succeeded in getting a second behind for Sydney. The Melbourne team, who apparently had not anticipated that they would have been compelled to act upon the defensive so soon, now began to wake up, and some very lively play succeeded in the vicinity of the grand-stand and pavilion. At last one of the Melbourne team got possession of the ball, which was quickly passed on by several "little marks" right up to the Sydney posts, where an attempt at goal was made. The kick failed, but the first behind was scored to Melbourne, and a few minutes later another was added, and the points scored were so far equal. Once more Sydney worked up to the northern end, and getting right in front of goal, O'Brien gave an easy "little mark" to one of his own side, who, much to the disgust of Sydney admirers, failed to hold the ball. Lamrock, who had been working splendidly, now took the oval well away to the eastern wing, whence it was soon driven into Sydney territory. The blues, however, continued to play with great spirit, and the ball once more travelled north, only to be sent back again, and a Melbourne player securing a free kick in front of the posts, had a shot at goal, but failed to score more than a behind. Some exciting play now took place, both sides straining every nerve to score a goal; and, on several occasions, Melbourne were compelled to act on the defensive. The dodgy play of the visitors and their admirable marking, however, overcame all opposition; and, in a short space of time, they not only added another behind, but scored two goals. Subsequently, a behind to each team was scored, and half-time was called soon afterwards. On resuming, ends were changed, and, having the wind in their favour and two goals already to their credit, it looked like a runaway match for Melbourne, but the local team developed a surprising amount of energy and endurance under difficulties. During the rest of the time allowed for play the Sydney team were engaged for the most part in defending their own goal, and although their opponents succeeded in adding two more goals and a number of behinds, the play during the last half was very exciting. O'Brien, A. M'Namara, Ballhausen, Williams, Crisp, Fuller, Druce, and Fairfax played with great spirit; and, indeed, the players generally only wanted more experience in shepherding, and giving and taking "little marks," to render them a first-class team. The match resulted in favour of Melbourne by 4 goals and 15 behinds to 4 behinds. Mr. C. W. Beal performed the duties of central umpire efficiently. Today the Melbourne Club play a combined twenty of the East Sydney and Sydney clubs, and this, we believe, will be their last match in Sydney. It is a pity, therefore, that there should be a counter attraction in the shape of a special day's racing at Randwick, as the contest in all probability will be a good one from first to last. Play will commence at 3 o'clock. The following will represent Melbourne:—C. Baker, W. H. Bailey, A. Bennie, W. F. M. Boys, A. Hall, G. Hoye, S. C. Lamrock, J. Macdonald, J. Morris, F. Patcher, C. Power, D. A. Rannard, W. H. L. Roberts, R. B. Sibley, R. Sillett, W. E. Stiffe, H. Syme, J. Swallow, J. F. Watson, J. Wilson.

BALMAIN v. REDFERN.—The First Fifteens of these clubs will meet at Moore Park, this afternoon, for the first time this season, and as both clubs are well represented, a good game may be looked for.

The University and Burwood First Fifteens will meet this afternoon on the ground of the latter at Burwood.

Our Newcastle correspondent telegraphed last night that the football match Wallaroo against Newcastle, at Newcastle, which was to have come off to-day, has fallen through.

SYDNEY HUNT CLUB.

A well attended meeting of gentlemen interested in the formation of a new Hunt Club was held at the Metropolitan Hotel, King-street, yesterday afternoon, Mr. Edward A. Terry occupying the chair. Mr. Desmond A. Kirby was appointed hon. secretary, and Mr. Edward Terry, hon. treasurer. On the motion of Mr. A. G. Jones it was decided that the minimum annual subscription fee be fixed at 2 guineas. Mr. A. G. Jones, of Wagga Wagga, and Mr. Daniel Macquarie, of Sydney, displayed their great interest in the matter by presenting the club with donations of 50 and 10 guineas respectively. The club already numbers about 80 members, and there is every reason for believing that it will be a great success.

Our correspondent at Bourke telegraphs that a pigeon shooting match took place yesterday morning between J. B. Kelly and Single, for £10 aside, five birds at 25 yards rise, 75 yards boundary. Kelly won in three shots, killing the first two birds; Single, nil. Afterwards, a sweep of £3 was shot on the same conditions, two birds each, which was won by H. G. Wyndham, killing two; Kelly, one; Mandelson, nil. About 100 persons were present. A stiff breeze was blowing at the time.

SMALL-POX IN SYDNEY.

Another death from small-pox has occurred at the quarantine station. The victim was Mary Ann Fisher, wife of Peter Fisher. Her death took place at a quarter past 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, and her remains were buried in the evening. Deceased, it will be remembered, resided in a small weatherboard building forming part of Mitchell's-terrace, situate between Norton and Denman streets, Glebe. Information was given to the police on Thursday, 7th instant, by some residents of the Glebe, who then feared that Mrs. Fisher was suffering from an attack of small-pox; but it was not until the next day that Dr. Spencer was sent to visit the sufferer. He then found that the disease was variola, and that it had reached the third or fourth day of the eruptive stage. The patient, as well as the other persons who had been living in the same house, was conveyed to the quarantine station on the following Saturday morning.

Dr. Spencer, who was called to see a supposed case of small-pox on Bullock Road, Balmain, on Thursday, visited the patient—a man—again yesterday, and as it was found that he was not suffering from small-pox, the place was released from quarantine.

Yesterday afternoon a case of small-pox was discovered at No. 24, Washington-street, off Sussex-street, and in the same neighbourhood as two cases which occurred previously. The patient is a woman named Kelly, wife of William Kelly. The house is built of brick, and consists of four rooms, which were occupied by Kelly, his wife, and a woman named Dillon. Dr. Spencer visited the place last evening, when he found that Mrs. Kelly was suffering from an undoubted attack of small-pox, which had reached the fourth or fifth day of the eruptive stage. The matter was reported to Dr. Alleyne, and we believe arrangements were made for the patient to be removed to the quarantine station at an early hour this morning. Mrs. Bonner, of Ultimo, who was previously reported to be suffering from a mild attack of the same disease, is to be removed at the same time.

Dr. Alleyne has been endeavouring to trace the introduction of small-pox into the city, and has elicited some information which leads him to believe that On Chong's child was not the first to suffer from the disease. About a fortnight prior to the discovery of the fact that On Chong's child was suffering from an attack of small-pox in a mild form, a nurse in the employment of On Chong suffered from a similar eruptive disease, which there can be little doubt was variola.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

A paper on "English Language and Literature" was read before the Teachers' Institute, last evening, at Fort-street Model School. The attendance of teachers was large. Mr. J. Wright, vice-president, occupied the chair. The importance of the study of our literature and language had not, Mr. Adams stated, been duly regarded in British educational establishments in past times, nor had this state of things been yet entirely remedied. English history and literature, which should go hand in hand as twin sisters, had no definite place even now in many cases in a curriculum of studies. Teachers acquainted with the subjects would be able to awaken the interest of their pupils in our history and our language, and to direct them to the modes of acquiring a more extensive knowledge of these subjects than could be gathered from a course of primary education. At the same time, the extracts in the lesson books, many of which (Mr. Adams said) were from the works of our best authors, would acquire, in the views of both teachers and pupils, a new and deeper interest. The lecture, which was the first of a course, treated of the relation of the English to the other languages of the world, and classified the former as of Teutonic origin, and thus belonging to the Aryan family of languages. The literature and language were treated of from the earliest known times to the Norman Conquest. The second lecture, the date of which is at present undetermined, will comprise the period from the Conquest to the time of Chaucer. After a criticism on the contents of the paper, and votes of thanks to the lecturer and the chairman, the meeting terminated.

COLONIAL TRADE.—Says an English paper:—It is a common cry with the pessimists who like to predict the proximate downfall of the British Empire that British trade is being seriously and injuriously affected by foreign competition. An impression prevails that Germany is especially to be feared—that German commerce and German goods are rapidly ousting our own, more especially in colonial markets. A memorial which Prince Bismarck has just presented to the Reichstag must tend to remove this illusion. It appears that the German export trade with China, Australia, and the antipodes generally, is decidedly languishing. The German Consul-General in Australia and the German Minister in Pekin have both sent in reports recommending the adoption of measures to extend and improve it. They complain that English, French, and American competition is driving them out of the field. The establishment of commission houses, of a bank to facilitate cash transactions, and of a German and Australasian line of steamers, these are the remedies suggested. For the present, therefore, we may rest easy so far as German interference is concerned. But there is still the American, which is far more active and enterprising, and the French anxiety to increase their colonial possessions proves that they realize the full value of colonial trade. This is certainly not a time, if we would maintain our commercial pre-eminence, to play fast and loose with our colonies, or weaken the ties between them and ourselves. What they are worth to us may be gathered from one significant fact mentioned by Sir Bartle Frere in his lecture on South African diamonds. Within a few years Kimberley, from being an obscure settlement, has so grown in wealth, and its commercial operations have become so much extended, that it sent last year £4,000,000 worth of diamonds through the English Post Office alone.

THE MAYOR'S BALL.

The most brilliant festivity of the season, and indeed the most brilliant one witnessed in Sydney for several seasons, was the grand ball given at the Exhibition Building, Prince Alfred Park, last evening, by his Worship the Mayor of Sydney, Alderman Harris. It was given in honour of the visit of the detached squadron, and all the officers who could be spared from duty were present. Over 2000 citizens, in addition to the officers of the squadron, were invited, and so far from there being many refusals the Mayor and the Town Clerk were during the week preceding the ball fairly besieged with applications for cards of admission. The consequence was that the Exhibition Building was thronged last night by representatives of every class in the community, and the display of wealth and good taste evidenced in the different toilettes shown was very marked. The somewhat hackneyed phrase that "no effort was spared" to make the ball a success, applies thoroughly in this case, for Mr. Torning, and all who with him were commissioned with the practical arrangements for the affair, had carte blanche given them, and the result must have satisfied the Mayor as it did his guests. This ball had been anticipated with unusual interest, for it was the first occasion on which the Royal Princes were to appear in public, and all the more important dignitaries and officials in the colony had been invited to attend. Dancing was carried on in the space enclosed by the outer pillars—the greater part of the building being devoted to this purpose—and the outer aisles were used as promenades and supper rooms. The decoration of the building had been entrusted to Mr. A. Torning, who performed his work very artistically. The result of his labours was that the ballroom was a splendid saloon, enclosed by draperies of white, striped with crimson and azure, and studded with coloured stars; that the rather ungraceful pillars which support the gallery were shrouded with graceful ferns and fresh boughs, and adorned by pretty brackets; that great garlands of evergreens were loosely looped overhead, and relieved by trophies of many coloured flags, and that the unæsthetic fountain which occupies the centre of the hall was converted for once in its existence into a thing of beauty—a combination of green arches, quaint shells, and sparkling water, and in the centre of each arch a bird in a gilt cage. Here and there a large mirror flashed back the light and reflected the figures of the moving throng, and at the south end of the building, where the Mayor and Mayoress received their guests, a dais was erected, behind which stood, framed in crimson velvet, one of the largest mirrors in Sydney. Over this were the civic arms and a Royal crown, and to the right and left of the dais stood large bronze statues holding candelabra. The stage at the north end was ornamented with mirrors, lace curtains, and pot plants, and like the dais was elegantly furnished. The building was very well lighted, and here and there the different rendezvous for dancers were indicated by coloured lamps. Music was provided by a very fine band, led by Mr. Kopff, and the following programme was played in excellent time:—1. Quadrille, "Carmen;" 2. Valse, "Tres Jolie;" 3. Polka, "Pirates of Penzance;" 4. Lancers, "Girofle-Girofla;" 5. Schottische, "Bianka;" 6. Valse, "Bris di Nuits;" 7. Polka Mazurka, "La Belle;" 8. Valse, "A Toi;" 9. Quadrille, "Bon Jour;" 10. Polka, "Prof Lorgie;" 11. Waltz, "Bien Aimés;" 12. Lancers, "Les Voltigeurs;" 13. Galop, "Soldaten Lieder;" 14. Schottische, "El Dorado;" 15. Valse, "Homage aux Dames;" 16. Quadrille, "Molly Darling;" 17. Polka, "Bonne Bouche;" 18. Waltz, "Dreams;" 19. Mazurka, "Bedouin;" 20. Lancers, "Congress;" 21. Polka, "Kutsche;" 22. Valse, "Tambour Major." Mr. F. H. Needs and Mr. W. Needs were Ms.C.

The catering was entrusted to the City Catering Company, whose manager, Mr. C. R. Smith, made very complete arrangements for the comfort of the guests. The members of the vice-regal party were entertained at the south end of the gallery, where an elegantly-served supper was laid; and the remainder of those present were attended to in the courts on the ground floor. The fact that about 130 waiters had to be engaged for this ball will indicate its magnitude, and it is creditable to Mr. Smith's good management that there were none of the discontented murmurs so common on such occasions.

Guests began to arrive soon after 8 o'clock, and were received by the Mayor and Mayoress. As they entered the ball-room, they formed a double line from the dais to the stage, and when, shortly before 10 o'clock, the viceregal party arrived, his Excellency the Governor, with Lady Augustus Loftus, the Royal Princes (in the uniform of midshipmen), Rear-Admiral Earl Clanwilliam, &c., passed between this double line to the stage. The opening quadrille was formed as follows:—His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Harris; Lord Clanwilliam and Lady Augustus Loftus; Prince Albert Victor of Wales and Miss Ethel Allen, Prince George of Wales and Miss Mary Stephen, Sir Alfred Stephen and Mrs. Wilson, Commodore Wilson and Mrs. Bruce, Captain Dawson and Mrs. Stephen, Captain Fitzgerald and Mrs. Sterling, &c. Dancing was carried on with spirit between the hours of 10 p.m. and 5 a.m., with an interval of half an hour directly after midnight, when supper was partaken of. The police and transit arrangements were thoroughly satisfactory, and in every important respect the Mayor's ball went without a hitch. Amongst the guests were Sir John Hay, President of the Legislative Council; Sir G. Wigram Allen, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly; Sir Henry Parkes, Colonial Secretary; Sir John Robertson, Minister for Public Instruction; Sir George Innes, Minister for Justice; his Honor Sir William Manning, the Hon. R. Wisdom, Attorney-General; the Hon. G. Eagar, Sir Alfred Stephen, Lieut.-Governor of New South Wales, Sir Patrick Jennings, M.L.A.; the Hon. E. A. Baker, Minister for Mines; the Hon. F. B. Suttor, Postmaster-General; Colonel Roberts, N. S. W. Permanent Artillery; the Hon. J. Lackey, Minister for Works; Hon. P. Higgins, M.L.C.; Commodore Wilson, Hon. S. D. Gordon, M.L.C.; the Hon. F. M. Darley, M.L.C.; Lieut. A. D. Loftus, A.D.C.; Lieut. Nathan, A.D.C.; Mr. R. Bloxsome, private secretary; Mr. Fosbery, Inspector-General of Police; Major Cracknell, Torpedo Corps; the Hon. C. Moore, M.L.C.; Mr. H. Halloran, C.M.G.; Major Baynes, Major Airey, the Hon. L. F. de Salis, Mr. J. Davies, M.L.A., C.M.G.; Major Rowe, Volunteer Engineers; Mr. W. M. Marsh, Water Police Magistrate; the following members of the Legislative Assembly—Messrs. Badgery, M'Laughlin, Terry, H. Clarke, G. L. Carter, Tarrant, G. Withers, Hezlet, Day, R. B. Smith, Fitzpatrick, Murray, T. Garrett, F. Abigail, J. See, W. J. Foster, W. Forster, A. Cameron, D. O'Connor, Trickett, and Pigott; and the following Aldermen — Messrs. Taylor, Kippax, Hordern, Beare, J. Young, J. D. Young, Playfair, Chapman, Butcher, Wadsworth, Green, and Fowler. The following were also present:—Mr. Barnett, Colonial Architect; Mr. C. Cowper, Sheriff; Mr. W. Wilkins, Under Secretary for Education; Mr. C. Walker, Principal Under-Secretary; Mr. Goodchap, Commissioner for Railways; Captain Hixson, President of the Marine Board, and others.

At supper the MAYOR proposed the health of her Majesty the Queen, and the toast was enthusiastically honoured.

The MAYOR then proposed the health of the Governor, which toast was also honoured with enthusiasm.

The GOVERNOR said that this was an unexpected honour to him. He tendered his sincere thanks to the Mayor for proposing his toast, and to the ladies and gentlemen for honouring it. It had given him great pleasure to be present at this great fête at which his Worship the Mayor had entertained the Admiral, the officers, and the Royal midshipmen of the detached squadron. In their names he thought he might compliment them on its perfect success, and thank them for the enjoyment they had given them. The presence of the Admiral and the Royal midshipmen must be regarded as a memorable event in the annals of this colony. He felt certain that it would leave a lasting and pleasant reminiscence in the future. This great country, this rising Australia was daily becoming more prominently brought forward in Europe and in the world, and he thought they might in some measure attribute this to the exhibitions which had been held here, and greatly to the great facility of communication with the mother country. (Hear, hear.) During the last two years they had had a very increasing influx of distinguished visitors. He considered that the visit of the squadron, and more especially of the Royal midshipmen, to these colonies would be attended with the most beneficial results. They would be enabled to acquire information in regard to these distant districts of the British empire—an empire on which it was truly said the sun never sets. They would be able to report to her Majesty the Queen and their Royal parents the marvellous developments which these colonies had made during the short period of their existence. They would be able to report upon the general wealth, industry, and well-being of all classes of the community, and upon the increasing progress of every branch of civilization which tended towards the happiness and welfare of the nation. (Cheers.) They would be able to describe, also, the rich and beautiful capitals which they had visited, and which had arisen, as it were, by means of an enchanter's wand; and they would find scope for any flight of poetry in which they might indulge to describe the beautiful bays of this harbour, and the romantic scenery of the Blue Mountains, which he hoped they would yet visit. (Cheers.) They would be able, also, to report upon the industry and energy of the population, and also bear testimony to the loyalty to and affection for the Queen which the people bore, as well as to their patriotic love of the mother country. (Cheers.) He proposed that they should join him now in drinking the health of the Mayor.

The toast was enthusiastically honoured.

The MAYOR responded in brief terms, thanking the company for their courtesy, and saying that he hoped the visit of the Royal midshipmen to Sydney would result in one from their august father, who he could promise would be received with as cordial a welcome as would be extended to him from any part of the world. (Cheers.)

The Governor then left the ballroom. Dancing, however, was kept up for several hours afterwards.

The New York Tribune's Santa Fe special thus records how a brave French storekeeper served a Texan imitator of Ned Kelly:—"On Saturday afternoon, at a railroad camp on the line of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, forty miles west of Chama, N. M., a desperado from Texas, named Baker, with two companions, entered the place, rode up to each store and saloon, and robbed each proprietor of all his money and valuables. At the last store, kept by a Frenchman, the roughs collected every man in the place, numbering forty, marshalled them into line under cover of their six-shooters, and compelled them all to take a drink at the Frenchman's expense, Baker doing the honours. Finally Baker made them all sit on the floor, and started away, threatening to shoot any who moved. As he turned, the Frenchman sprang upon him, took away both of his revolvers, and shot him dead. The other men then arose and fired a volley at the other two roughs, wounding one, but both escaped on their horses."

COMPULSORY SEQUESTRATION.

Charles Kidman versus Joseph Marshall, of George-street, Sydney, baker. Day to show cause, July 28. Mr. Sandeman, official assignee.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The Police Magistrate was assisted this morning, on the Criminal side, by Messrs. Reading and Hedborow, and on the Summons side by Messrs. Neale, Ridge, Withers, Stanley, Guy, and Henderson.

John Murphy, found guilty of resisting constable Houlahan, was sentenced to pay a penalty of 40s., or to be imprisoned one month.

William Noyes, convicted of vagrancy, was sentenced to be imprisoned three months.

On the Summons side the business paper contained a list of thirty-five cases, on the prosecution of sub-inspector M'Kay. Hugh Gallagher was fined 20s., for selling liquor at a prohibited hour on Sunday; William H. Davis, for knowingly permitting disorderly conduct in his public-house, was fined 40s.; Thomas Sheehan, for permitting drunkenness in his house, was fined 10s.; Thomas Layton, for neglecting to keep a lamp lighted and burning from sunset to sunrise, was fined 5s.; and William Percy was fined 2s. 6d. for conveying liquor from a public-house at an unlawful hour on Sunday. John G. Wright, charged with knowingly supplying liquor to a boy under the age of 16 years, pleaded not guilty. James Keating, 12, deposed that he knows defendant as the keeper of the Tennyson Hotel, Botany Road; on the 9th of the present month a boy named Wholohan, the son of a publican in the same vicinity as defendant's house, asked him to take a walk, and he went with him; they went to the defendant's public-house, but he did not see defendant there; (he identified a man named Franks, called into Court as the person he saw behind the bar;) he (witness) called for and was supplied with rum and cloves, and Wholohan called for and was supplied with brandy. By Mr. Roberts, junior: Wholohan's boy paid for the liquor supplied; he could have got the liquor as well at Wholohan's as at Green's; he never drank rum before that day, and on that occasion he had six glasses of rum; he paid for some of the liquor; it took five glasses to make him drunk; about two minutes elapsed between each glass; did not see Green there at all; Wholohan got drunk upon brandy. The next witness was the boy Wholohan. He said that he was supplied by a woman with lemonade and brandy; Keating drank rum; a man named Franks was there, and served witness; they had five or six drinks each; he paid for some of the drinks. By Mr. Roberts, junior: A lad named Tilson asked witness and Keating into the publichouse, and all the drinks were supplied in answer to his calls; witness paid for some of the drinks; Franks refused to serve witness with anything but lemonade; Tilson paid for the drinks; some of the liquor witness called for was paid for by Tilson; Green served witness; he said "Green" because Green was the name over the door. Mr. Roberts submitted that all the evidence went to contradict the allegation of the information that the defendant "knowingly" supplied liquor to a youth under the age allowed by law, and further put defendant into the witness box, who deposed that neither on the day named, nor the day before or after, was he on the premises at all, that Franks was there in charge of the premises, having contracted to purchase the business, pending the result of an application to transfer the license to him. The Bench held the offence to be proved, and sentenced the defendant to pay a penalty of 20s. The remaining cases were for offences against the Police Act, and the Vagrant Act, involving small penalties, but no public interest.

LICENSING BUSINESS.—Licenses to retail colonial wine were granted to Charles Montgomery and Dorcas Rose. The publican's license held by Thomas Walsh was transferred to Matthew Hayes. An application to transfer the license of the Tennyson Hotel, Botany Road, from John Green to Walter Franks was postponed, pending the result of a prosecution for illegally supplying youths with liquor.

WATER POLICE COURT.

The bench in the Charge court this morning was occupied by Messrs. Marsh, W.P.M., Goodridge, Fowler, and Hunt; and that in the Summons court by Messrs. Lester, Bayldon, Maclean, Penfold, and Robinson.

John O'Hair was charged with assaulting senior-constable Day whilst in the execution of his duty, and on conviction was sent to gaol for a month. He was similarly punished for assaulting constable Mahood, besides being fined for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Henry West, 42, and described as a clerk, was charged with attempting to commit suicide by cutting his throat. The accused was a passenger by the steamer City of Grafton on her last trip from Grafton. She arrived on Sunday last. About 1 o'clock on Monday morning, whilst the vessel was lying alongside of the wharf, one of the sailors noticed him on the deck, and asked him what he was doing. The accused replied that he was doing a little job for himself. The sailor could hear a noise that he thought was suspicious, and on striking a match found that his suspicions were correct: the accused was sawing across his throat with a blunt pocket-knife, which was covered with blood. He was prevented from injuring himself further, and afterwards taken to the Infirmary by the police, where he had remained since. Dr. Baly, one of the Infirmary medical officers, deposed that when prisoner was admitted to that institution he had a jagged wound two inches in length across his throat, and was still in a feeble state; he recommended that he should be again sent to the Infirmary. Committed for trial at the next Quarter Sessions, in the meantime to remain in the Infirmary.

Joseph Assenheim, on remand, was charged with stealing a pair of silk stockings, value 15s., the property of John W. Ellercamp. It appeared from the evidence that the accused, with three other youths, went into Mr. Ellercamp's shop, and asked to see some trunks. They did not purchase any, however, but went out of the shop into a shop next door. On the stockings being missed, Mr. Ellercamp ran out and asked the accused to come into the shop. He did so; but on being accused of stealing the stockings, ran away, dropping the stockings as he did so. The Bench, taking a lenient view of the case, fined the accused 20s., with the alternative of a month. A second charge against the same defendant of stealing a pipe was dismissed.

In the Summons court, Inspector Seymour prosecuted in 61 cases. Eighteen persons were fined from 5s. up to 20s., for standing on footpaths of various streets. Twenty-eight persons were fined, some 10s. each and others 20s., for driving or riding across the intersections of streets at a pace faster than a walk. Five persons were fined for keeping unclean premises.

Inspector Oram prosecuted in 38 cases for breaches of the Transit by-laws.

LICENSING COURT.

The bench was occupied by Messrs. Lester, Bayldon, Maclean, Penfold, Senior, Robinson, Hourigan, and Jenkins.

Joseph Lindsay applied to have his license for the Temple Court Hotel transferred to Sarah M'Kay. Mr. J. M. Curtis appeared for the transferee. Inspector Anderson objected to the transfer on the ground that Mrs. M'Kay was living apart from her husband, and had not a Judge's order. Mr. Curtis said that there was a deed of separation between the parties, of much more importance than a Judge's order. The Bench refused the application.

Frederick Joseph Smith's license for the Cheshire Cheese Hotel was transferred to David Michael Hart, there being no objection.

Robert E. Lyons, keeping the house known as the Boomerang Hotel, applied to have his license transferred to a house at the corner of West and Barcom streets, Darlinghurst, to be known as the Excelsior Hotel, and there being no objection the application was granted.

Richard Teesdale was permitted to transfer his license for the Cross Guns Hotel, South Head Road, to Thomas C. Mackenzie, there being no objection. The license for the Captain Cook Hotel was transferred from Joseph J. Rochester to James Greenslade; that of the Exchange Hotel, Crown-street, from Alexander Ross to Albert Mason; that of the Union Inn, from Frederick G. Smith to James Farrell; and that of the Phœnix Hotel, Paddington from Patrick J. Horgan to Stephen Baker.

Temporary extensions of their licenses to Randwick races on the 19th instant were granted to Thomas Layton, Catherine Hill, John Fogarty, Henry Lee, Elizabeth Haddon, and James Adamson. A colonial wine license was granted to Michael J. Lambert for premises, 25, Jamieson-street.

NEWTOWN POLICE COURT.

Before Messrs. W. Bailey and F. S. Fielder, yesterday, Joseph Gough was charged with being drunk in charge of a horse and cart. Prisoner had fallen out of his cart, the wheel grazing his head. He was fined 20s., or seven days. In Lincoln v. Spilsbury, for detention of property of the value of £13 unlawfully pledged, the Bench expressed a doubt as to the jurisdiction. Mr. Roberts, sen., for the defendant, accepted jurisdiction, and complainant agreed to do the same. Defendant was ordered to deliver up to complainant the property, claimed on payment of £3. The application of Charles Lardner for a colonial wine license was postponed till 19th instant.

CORONER'S INQUESTS.

The City Coroner (Mr. H. Shiell, J.P.) held an inquest at the City Arms Hotel, corner of Crown and Stanley streets, Woolloomooloo, yesterday, with respect to the death of an old woman named Mary M'Shane, who was found dead on the basement floor of a house occupied by Mr. Heaton, of Crown-street. It was shown that the deceased was addicted to habits of intemperance. Dr. Degner, who had made a post-mortem examination, deposed that the cause of death was sanguineous apoplexy; and a verdict was returned to that effect.

An inquest was also held by the City Coroner, yesterday, at Foster's Hotel, corner of Macquarie and Goulburn streets, with reference to the death of Thomas William Morton, who was found hanged by a strap to a bed-post, at his house, Hunt-street, Surry Hills, on Thursday. Deceased was for about 2½ years overseer of Hyde Park. He had been drinking to excess. About noon on Thursday he seemed to be very low spirited. After making a remark to his wife which seemed to indicate that he meditated committing suicide, he went upstairs. Mrs. Morton followed him shortly afterwards, and found his lifeless body hanging to a bed-post. Dr. Marsden deposed that death was caused by asphyxia. A verdict was returned to the effect that Morton caused his own death by hanging himself.

ODDS & ENDS FROM THE OLD COUNTRY.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JUNE 1.

The treaty—or rather capitulation—forced on the Bey of Tunis by French bayonets is unpleasant as a fact, and alarming as a precedent. The hold which France at once obtains on the harbour of Bizerta, with its magnificent capabilities, is of course not welcome to England, as a great Mediterranean Power. But the reassertion in the face of Europe by the most virtuous of Republics of "The good old rule . . . the simple plan

That they should take who have the power,
And they should keep who can,"

augurs ill for the coming years. The three great military monarchies acquiesce in a high-handed robbery not because they approve it, but because it does them no harm, and may be conveniently quoted hereafter. Russia hails the exhibition of a spirit like her own. Germany rejoices in the indiscretion which has ensured her an ally in Italy should France attempt her threatened revanche. And Austria, doubtless, is not sorry to see Mr. Gladstone's Government humiliated yet without the courage to say "Hands off!" For, after all, it is England that has been specially duped and insulted. There was nothing, as we now see, to prevent a French army from annexing Tunis (for that is the real sum of the affair) without the odious ceremony of a distinct and emphatic disclaimer on the part of the French foreign Minister and Ambassador of any such design. Such a disclaimer, however—a distinct verbal pledge conveyed through the highest official channels—was tendered to our Government; was accepted and quoted in Parliament with a confidence which we now know to have been misplaced. The French Press generally is of course jubilant at the material advantages secured by aggression under false pretences on a friendly State, and hardly less so at the mortification felt by "perfide Albion," on finding herself tricked. It is curious to observe how completely independent of the form of government for the time being is the instinctive love of the French people for real or apparent gains secured by artful surprises. The perfidious seizure of the Peninsula under the First Napoleon, the dishonest scheming of the Montpensier marriages under the "Citizen King," the annexation of Nice and Savoy under the Second Empire, and this latest African exploit, where cunning has pioneered for violence, all tell the same tale. The enterprises may have varied with the character of the immediate agents, but public opinion in France has in each case applauded the success gained, and condoned or rejoiced in the immorality of the means employed. The subsequent retribution entailed by such political sins seems to pass unnoticed, or, at all events, fails to enforce its wholesome lesson. Again, the leaders for the time being act falsely, "and the people love to have it so." The attitude of the English Government under the provocation of this Tunisian coup cannot be fairly censured. Lord Granville's protest is at once moderate and dignified; much the same, probably, as Lord Salisbury would have penned under the same circumstances. But it is impossible to forget that, with Lord Beaconsfield in office, those circumstances could hardly have arisen. The late Premier's perfect understanding with Germany and Austria would have saved England from the isolation on which M. Gambetta presumed when he played wolf to the luckless Bey's lamb.

An article in the Cornhill by the wife of a London clergyman, headed "At Home to the Poor," has been attracting a good deal of attention, and will probably bear fruit abundantly during the coming summer season. Much money and exertion are yearly expended on treats on a large scale to school children of the working class, and occasionally to men and women whose ordinary lives present but a round of hopeless drudgery. Some hundreds—perhaps thousands—are conveyed by rail or crowded omnibus to some breezy rural scene, where they may expand their lungs with pure air, smell and pluck wild flowers, hear song-birds, run or ramble at will and enjoy a plain luncheon under a tree. Such excursions do much good, and when the day's "outing" is over, supply sunny memories to many whose lives have alas! but little sunshine. Myriads of toilers in this over grown, smoke-begrimed Babylon of ours exist under conditions the utter dreariness of which is to the poorest of Sydney workmen or workwomen simply inconceivable. And it would be an invidious task to dwell upon the drawbacks which attend excursion parties on a large scale such as I have been describing. Enough to remark that apart from the fatigue necessarily involved, and the hindrance to restful enjoyment caused by the large numbers mustered on one spot, the guests thus entertained cannot have the full sense of personal hospitality received. "Offendit numerus." It is not easy to feel the same grateful kindliness to a committee or a subscription list as would spontaneously flow forth from humble guests towards an individual entertainer. And in this respect Mrs. Barnett has certainly shown us "a more excellent way." She recommends, and has already illustrated by successful practice, the simpler course of inviting small parties of the toiling poor to enjoy and refresh themselves in private houses and pleasure-grounds, the party being in each case selected by those best acquainted with the neighbourhood whence they are to be invited. The guests may be from twenty to fifty or more, according to the extent of the entertainer's premises; an ample pleasure-ground giving more scope for hospitality of this kind than a mere garden, however large. A spacious house in case of rain is, of course, a safeguard against the disappointment which our variable climate is apt to inflict on holiday-makers. And Mrs. Barnett well points out that the interior of a well-furnished, even if not a highly decorated mansion, is full of interesting novelty for the toiling poor; far more striking, in fact, to them, from contrast with their ordinary surroundings, than are the stately apartments and galleries at Chatsworth to the numerous visitors of the middle class who traverse them in the touring season.

But the lesson above all others inculcated—that, indeed, for the sake of which I have dwelt at such length on the article—is the high value set by the very poorest of the poor on a personal welcome. It is found by experience that this will enliven the dullest, gratify the most apathetic, and leave behind a grateful feeling, such as even the most liberal entertainment fails to produce when a hearty greeting from the host—or better still, from the hostess—is wanting. I do believe that there is a vast amount of Christian principle and feeling in this country, which only requires apt suggestion and sound direction to take the best practical forms. And the advice given by the quiet benefactress of the poor to whose words and work I have been referring can scarcely fail to commend itself to many who will recognise in it the true spirit of the Gospel teaching, and will feel it not only a Christian duty, but a Christian privilege, to extend hospitality to those who can never dream of returning it—to give where there can be no question of worthy recompense. I suppose it is the occurrence of so many great religious meetings at this time of the year which naturally leads the thoughts to these serious topics. Another recent outcome of charitable tendencies ought certainly not to be overlooked. Many of my readers may remember the lamented death, a few years since, of a young Etonian of the highest promise—a scion of a most gifted family—who fell an early victim to over-exertion as a volunteer missionary to the helpless and hopeless poor in one of our most wretched London parishes. When men such as he, or (to pick but one of many such instances) Bishop Patteson are taken suddenly from the duties which seem to be prospering in their hands our weak human judgment is perplexed. We are tempted to ask "Why was this waste made?" and to forget that

"God doth not need
"Either man's work, or his own gifts,"

but is ever ready to supply the fittest workers at the fittest time, and to strengthen their hands by the example of those who have already passed to their reward. It may cheer the faint-hearted to know that the spirit which animated Edward Denison still lives in the rising generation at the great school where he was trained. The scholars of Eton have recently undertaken a part of the "East London Mission"—the heavy charge of dealing with temporal and spiritual destitution in one of the poorest and most benighted of our metropolitan districts, Hackney Wick.

Another grave topic much dwelt on by the Press during the last fortnight has been the "Revised Version of the New Testament," issued to the public in the middle of the month of May. Newspapers, which do not generally trouble themselves with controversial theology, came out with cut and dried leaders on the subject almost before the accomplished leader-writer could have had time to skim a dozen chapters of the important work just introduced, to say nothing of comparing them with the established version, or with the original Greek as it appears in the most trusted codices. I confess to have been much disappointed, both by the tone and the matter of these critiques, and of the miscellaneous letters by which they have been followed up. I have not yet seen one which seemed to me to do fair justice to the great and elaborate work under consideration. No doubt lively attack is more taking, as well as easier, than impartial review; but one would have hoped that on such a question mere dabblers would have been silent, and competent critics would have sought rather to enlighten than to dazzle. But fault-finding has been carried so far that one might conclude the labours of the revising committee to have been wholly superfluous. For instance, the substitution of the word "robbers" for "thieves" in the account of the Crucifixion has been violently condemned, for the curious reason that the distinction between the two words was not yet established when our Authorised Version appeared! One would have thought that the change which has taken place in the recognised sense of the word "thieves" would have been sufficient justification for rendering λησταὶ by its present equivalent. Again, the use of the word "Love" in place of "Charity" in the well-known passage of the 1st Epistle to the Corinthians has been vehemently objected to, as though it did not fill its new place with sufficient dignity. And yet when we are familiar with such passages as "Love worketh no ill to his neighbour, therefore Love is the fulfilling of the Law,"—when we have even been taught that "God is Love," it is difficult to conceive how too great honour could possibly be laid on the word, while that replaced by it has in common parlance been reduced to a very limited sense. I can quite understand, though I am not convinced by, the argument against all change—the dread of disturbing by even the slightest correction of the text that profound reverence for the language of our noble old version which is felt by the great bulk of our countrymen, and most by those who are least capable of appreciating amendments. But when it is once admitted that there are in that version errors which ought to be corrected—errors the more mischievous on account of the too prevalent worship of the letter—then, to cling to a less accurate rendering because the objections to it arise from modern usage is mere weakness and inconsistency. The revision is for readers of the nineteenth century.

When the first dread of innovation has passed away, I believe that the verdict of the educated public will be strongly in favour of the revised version, and that its authors will be held to have been too cautious rather than too bold in their emendations. Something, perhaps, we may lose in rhythm, though custom may soon change our feelings in this regard, and no little care has been taken to preserve the old familiar cadences as far as possible. But the gains are very important. Errors of two kinds may almost be said to pervade the authorised version—negligence in rendering the Greek article, and inaccurate translation of the different past tenses; the former obscuring the subject, the latter tending to mar the clearness and force of the narrative. Both these errors have been extensively corrected. We get rid, moreover, of several questionable and probably spurious passages, which a strict collation of the best MSS. has discredited. To some excellent persons, I know, all these, with other improvements, will seem but a poor set-off against that possible disturbance of simple faith to which I have already adverted. But my own view has long been that implicit trust, founded on misconception, is to be corrected rather than encouraged. In these days of extended education, when we have actually two millions of children in our Sunday schools, it would be unsafe, even were it possible, to disguise the fact that our authorised version, with all its excellences, is still an imperfect translation, not always based on the soundest text, and frequently expressed in words which have since varied their sense. Even the new revision does not claim to have produced

"That faultless monster which the world ne'er saw."

But we have a right to hope that faithful attempts to do justice to the letter of Scripture will be blessed for the diffusion of its spirit.

We are in the mid-season of art exhibitions, of which there are so many open that I could not even undertake to enumerate them. Beside the various collections of our own societies, different national schools of painting—French, Belgian, Swiss, &c.—have their separate picture galleries, each representing the present phase of pictorial art in a particular country. I believe these special exhibitions will be full of useful instruction for our British artists, and will check any insular tendency to run into narrow art grooves. Meanwhile we have no reason to be dissatisfied with the position held by the British school in continental estimation. The Royal Academy this year again seems to me to show an improved average of merit in the paintings selected, though it is still difficult to account for the presence of some hundreds—to guess how they came to be offered in such a competition, and stranger still, how they came to be accepted. I will spare comment on individual pictures—though I should have liked a few words in honour of Long, Herkomer, and Vicat Cole—as in this department of art-criticism our leading newspapers have but little to be desired. It is far otherwise, by the way, with the current musical critiques. For instance, I have just been looking at a report in the "Court Journal" of the most successful benefit concert of the season. I find an Italian song selected for praise, and the fair artist complimented on her delicate execution of Donizetti's florid music, when in fact he never sang the song at all, but exchanged the Italian cantata for an English ballad! The "reporter" (!) had never been present, and had merely made a guess from the programme. This was harmless enough, for the artiste in question really can sing Italian. But there is a lamentable amount of eulogy which is paid for by the paragraph, and worse still, of spiteful comment on performers who decline to invest in puffs. I I don't know that there is much comfort in learning that others are even worse than ourselves in those respects, but the following trait of the Italian Press is worth relating for the depth of shamelessness disclosed. A promising English singer, after studying music at Milan, had obtained an engagement at La Scala. About ten days before the time fixed for his debut, he was waited on by the editor of a leading journal, who, having inquired if it was his intention to appear, without further preface said, "You will have to give me £50." The reply was brief and to the purpose. "I have not £50 to spare, and if I had, I know no reason that I should give it to you." "Then," rejoined the man of paragraphs, "you will not be heard." Discussion, remonstrance, were quite useless, and the visitor withdrew. My young friend, who is not unknown in Australia, was rather disposed to make light of the threat held out, but it was made good to the letter. The public were credibly assured beforehand that he was unequal to the part he had undertaken, and when he appeared on the stage he was greeted with such a tempest of pre-arranged uproar that he was absolutely forced to withdraw unheard.

The cricket season has opened with unusual brilliancy. I never remember such a May of good cricketing weather before; the ground in perfect order for the bat, the air so warm that an easy place in the field is by no means unwelcome. There have already been many first-class matches. The M. C. C. have put some very strong teams into the field, and given a good account of both Universities. As a rule, the Northern counties have been playing very strong and the Southern very weak. Yorkshire beat Middlesex in one innings, Emmett scoring 89. Notts beat Sussex in one innings by 69 runs. Lancashire defeated Derbyshire yet more signally by an innings and 135 runs, Mr. Hornby, who scored 188, winning the match off his own bat, with 23 runs to spare! Mr. W. Grace made even a larger figure than this at Bristol, where he put together 203 at a wonderful rate—but that was in a second class match between two local teams. Mr. J. M. Day, on the same side, scored above 100, and then retired. Of the two Universities, Cambridge is decidedly the favourite; the three Messrs. Studd—profanely termed the "set of studs"—being a formidable division of their force. Their match with the Gentlemen of England was one of the best of the season, and was drawn clearly in their favour, the Studds contributing 280 in the first innings. There is, however, a new recruit on the Oxford side—Mr. Leslie, late of the Rugby eleven, who will give them some trouble if he gets his hand well in. In their match with the M.C.C., the Oxonians owed their escape from defeat in a single innings to his grand batting. He scored 111 in his second innings. Altogether, people are looking for an exceptional summer and a splendid cricket year, though I wish we had a strong Australian team to put us through our facings.

REVIEW.

THE REIGN OF VICTORIA.*

The history of England seems destined to be written in fragments. When the Huguenot, Rapin, published his work at the Hague, in 1711, the whole United Kingdom did not contain ten millions of people, and the most stirring part of the history remained to be created. David Hume followed, forty-three years later, with "A History of England from the Accession of James the First to the Revolution," continuing it afterwards to remote times—a work which has been much disparaged, but of which a competent critic more than a century afterwards said:—"Hume's account of our English annals is still, with all its defects, the best history of the period over which it extends." In a modified form it remains still a handbook for University students, corrected by the results of modern criticism. Goldsmith's charming little work has admirers in the nursery and among lovers of history-made-easy to the present day; but he followed Hume by less than a quarter of a century. When Macaulay took up the task nearly a century after Hume had laid it down, he "purposed to write the history of England, from the accession of King James the Second down to a time which is within the memory of men still living." In twelve years he was able to bring his narrative down only to the death of William, and it is a magnificent, if somewhat partial record of that monarch's reign. Since then a score of able writers have enriched our annals with narrative and criticism on leading persons and events, diaries have been published, memoirs multiplied, secret documents brought to light, and private and public manuscripts consulted by the most erudite scholars of Europe. All the while the United Kingdom has been creating materials of history as fast as worthy pens could record them, the ten millions of population have grown into nearly a hundred millions whose mother-tongue is English at the present day, and the little island home is but a speck on the bosom of the Atlantic compared to that vast area on three continents which owns the dominion of the British race. The past is valuable, as the key to the present; but there is little left to discover respecting it, however much room there may be for differences of opinion. The present, on the contrary, is new ground, and if it affords still greater latitude for controversy, it commands a more immediate and widespread interest. Mr. Justin M'Carthy has taken advantage of this interest to begin a narrative at the very point where Macaulay proposed to stop. He has told the tale of Victoria's reign for the forty-three years ending with the general election of 1880 in a work published in England in four large volumes and reproduced in Australia by Mr. George Robertson in two very readable volumes, at a moderate price, and without robbing the author or publishers in the manner so common on the other side of the Pacific. In point of bulk Mr. M'Carthy's reign of Victoria comprises about half the space of Lord Macaulay's reign of William; but the Irishman plunges into his immediate theme from the very first line, while the Scotchman devotes nearly a whole volume to a review of British history from the time of the Romans to the accession of James the Second, in some of the most brilliant chapters of his work.

Macaulay's last and unrevised paragraph concludes with the following singularly appropriate sentence:—"When his remains were laid out, it was found that he wore next to his skin a small piece of black silk riband. The lords-in-waiting ordered it to be taken off. It contained a gold ring and a lock of the hair of Mary." So tenderly did William of Orange cherish the memory of his devoted consort, the second and less unfortunate Mary Stuart! Mr. M'Carthy opens his narrative at the death-bed of another monarch of the same name, but of widely different character. "Before half-past 2 o'clock on the morning of June 20, 1837, William IV. was lying dead in Windsor Castle, while the messengers were already hurrying off to Kensington Palace to bear to his successor her summons to the throne." The Princess Alexandrina Victoria had then just completed her eighteenth year. She had been educated by her mother the Duchess of Kent, in some seclusion, and with reason, for "George IV. was Charles II. without the education or the talents; William IV. was a Frederick William of Prussia without the genius. The ordinary manners of the society at the Court of either had a full flavour—to put it in the softest way—such as a decent taproom would hardly exhibit in a time like the present." Here is one change on which England is to be congratulated, for the Court of Queen Victoria has the well-deserved reputation of being the purest in Europe. Lord Melbourne was Premier when the Queen began to reign, and remained in office for more than four years, with Earl Russell in the Home Department, and Lord Palmerston as Foreign Secretary, both destined to become Premiers. It is interesting to notice the ages of the men who were at that time pillars of the State. Wellington himself was 68, the proudest and yet the most modest man in England, the leader of the Tory party, loving the young Queen like a father, and yet very diffident of the prospects of his party at Court, because, as he very candidly put it, "I have no small talk, and Peel has no manners." Lord Melbourne was 59, the mainstay of the Whigs, not on account of his political talent, but for his affability, his affected nonchalance, and his great social influence. Palmerston was 53, with his immense reputation still to make. Russell was 45, a mere stripling for a statesman in these days, but surrounded at that time with the glory of his Reform Bill and with the influence of a great historic house. Peel was 49, the rising hope of the Tories, the political pet of the Iron Duke, and the future father of free trade. Gladstone was only 28, and had already sat five years in Parliament, and been once in office with Peel. Disraeli was 32, known only for his romances and his political failures, but just about to win a seat for Maidstone, and begin the most extraordinary Parliamentary career of the present reign. These are the men who fill Mr. M'Carthy's pages, for they have made most of the history of our own times. An early chapter is necessarily devoted to O'Connell and the Irish party, a subject on which Mr. M'Carthy would be universally accepted as a competent authority were it not for the fear of partizanship. He acquits himself, however, with commendable fairness, although not with the completeness and graphic word-painting of Sir Charles Duffy's "Young Ireland." One sentence is worth quoting, coming from a writer with political antecedents like the author's. Speaking of Richard Lalor Sheil, he says,—"He is worth mentioning here because he had the promise of a splendid reputation; because the charm of his eloquence evidently lingered long in the memories of those to whom it was once familiar; and because his is one of the most brilliant illustrations of that career of Irish agitation which begins in stormy opposition to English government and subsides after a while into meek recognition of its title and adoption of its Ministerial uniform." That is a very keen two-edged sword, cutting into the past with historical accuracy, and into the future with prophetic warning.

After a chapter devoted to Lord Durham and his Canadian policy, who is somewhat extravagantly described as having made a country and marred a career, saved Canada and ruined Lord Durham, a sketch is given of the Chartist agitation. Readers of Kingsley's "Alton Locke," of Disraeli's "Sybil," of Ebenezer Elliott's "Anti Corn-Law Rhymes," of Thomas Carlyle's brochures, and, best of all, of Thomas Cooper's autobiography, will not find much that is new in these pages; but they will find a more connected and pithy narrative of the whole movement than can be gathered from any other single source. O'Connell himself was god-father to the People's Charter, for he gave it a name. Of its six points—manhood suffrage, vote by ballot, abolition of members' property qualification, equal electoral districts, annual Parliaments, and payment of members—the first three have been carried in England, two others in some of the British colonies, and only annual Parliaments remain, and probably will remain untried, "as embodying a proposition which would make public life an almost insufferable nuisance to those actively concerned in it." Another chapter is occupied with the Queen's marriage, and may serve as an illustration of the case with which Mr. M'Carthy can drop the dignity of the historian and descend to the level of Mr. Greville's gossiping memoirs.

With the British policy in the opium war with China in 1843, Mr. M'Carthy is justly indignant. When it was over, and China agreed to open her ports and to pay an indemnity of nearly six millions sterling, the Duke of Wellington moved a vote of thanks to army and navy in the House of Lords. "He did not probably perceive himself the irony that others might have seen in the fact that the conqueror of Napoleon, the victor in years of warfare against soldiers unsurpassed in history, should have had to move a vote of thanks to the fleet and army which triumphed over the unarmed, helpless, childlike Chinese." The following ten pages give a very condensed sketch of the Tractarian controversy, beginning with "Tract No. 90" at Oxford, and of the secession of Dr. Chalmers and the five hundred Presbyterian ministers who formed the Free Church of Scotland. The disasters of Cabul, the murder of Sir Alexander Burnes, the bravery of Dost Mahomed, the treachery of Akbar Khan, the assassination of Sir W. Macnaghten, the disgraceful treaty, the terrible return march in the depth of winter, fill the next chapter, and the story is graphically told. "Literally one man, Dr. Brydon, came to Jellalabad out of a moving host, which had numbered in all some sixteen thousand when it set out on its march. The curious eye will search through history or fiction in vain for any picture more thrilling with the suggestions of an awful catastrophe than that of this solitary survivor, faint and reeling on his jaded horse, as he appeared under the walls of Jellalabad, to bear the tidings of our Thermopylæ of pain and shame." On September 15, 1842, General Pollock re-entered Cabul, Lord Ellenborough proclaimed the triumph of British arms and the war was over, to be renewed on a larger scale a few years later. While these things were happening in Afghanistan, the Irish Repeal agitation was at its height; and Mr. M'Carthy next describes its rise and fall:—"The political system of the country for the purposes of agitation was to be a sort of hierarchy; the parish priest occupying the lowest grade, the bishops standing on the higher steps, and O'Connell himself supreme as the pontiff over all." The suppression of the Clontarf meeting was the crisis, and Count Cavour, then beginning to be known as the clearest-sighted statesman in Europe, was right in his judgment of it: "According to my view O'Connell's fate is sealed; on the first vigorous demonstration of his opponents, he has drawn back; from that moment he has ceased to be dangerous." Does Mr. M'Carthy record this by way of warning to the new Home Rulers? Already they are on the brink of insurrection; a step further and it will be open rebellion.

The Peel Administration of 1841-46 was one of the most memorable in our history. In the first year of its existence it effected that revision of the tariff, which swept away over a thousand dutiable articles, and was the real initiation of free trade. Mr. M'Carthy passes over this year with but brief mention. The author of the revised tariff was Mr. Gladstone, then President of the Board of Trade, whose Herculean labours of that session find only the following incidental recognition. "Mr. Gladstone, who had been doing admirable work, resigned his office because of this proposal"—to endow Maynooth, not because he disagreed with it, but because he had once opposed it, and he did not wish his support to appear an interested one. The Anti-Corn Law agitation speedily followed, and the author is particularly happy in narrating the struggle. After a suitable tribute to Mr. Charles Villiers, the Parliamentary pioneer of free trade in its days of weakness and defeat, he passes on to its two great apostles—Cobden and Bright, whose oratory he pourtrays in the following characteristic passage, which may be taken as a sample of scores equally good with which the work sparkles all through:—

"Mr. Cobden's opinions then were very much as they continued to the day of his death. He seemed to have come to the maturity of his convictions all at once, and to have passed through no further change either of growth or of decay. But whatever might be said then or now of the doctrines he maintained, there could be only one opinion as to the skill and force which upheld them with pen as well as tongue. The tongue, however, was his best weapon. If oratory were a business and not an art—that is, if its tests were its success rather than its form—then it might be contended reasonably enough that Mr. Cobden was one of the greatest orators England has ever known. Nothing could exceed the persuasiveness of his style. His manner was simple, sweet, and earnest. It was persuasive, but it had not the sort of persuasiveness which is merely a better kind of plausibility. It persuaded by convincing. It was transparently sincere. The light of its convictions shone all through it. It aimed at the reason and the judgment of the listener, and seemed to be convincing him to his own interest against his prejudices. Cobden's style was almost exclusively conversational; but he had a clear well-toned voice, with a quiet, unassuming power in it which enabled him to make his words heard distinctly, and without effort all through the great meetings he had often to address. His speeches were full of variety. He illustrated every argument by something drawn from his personal observation, or from reading, and his illustrations were always striking, appropriate, and interesting. He had a large amount of bright and winning humour, and he spoke the simplest and purest English. He never used an unnecessary sentence, or failed for a single moment in making his meaning clear. Many strong opponents of Mr. Cobden's opinions confessed, even during his life-time, that they sometimes found with dismay their most cherished convictions crumbling away beneath his flow of easy argument. His chief companion in the campaign was Mr. Bright. Mr. Bright's fame is not so completely bound up with the repeal of the Corn Laws, or even with the extension of the suffrage, as that of Mr. Cobden. If Mr. Bright had been on the wrong side of every cause he pleaded, if his agitation had been as conspicuous for failure as it was for success, he would still be famous among English public men. He was, what Mr. Cobden was not, an orator of the very highest class. It is doubtful whether English public life has ever produced a man who possessed more of the qualifications of a great orator than Mr. Bright. He had a commanding presence, not indeed the stately and colossal form of O'Connell, but a massive figure, a large head, a handsome and expressive face. His voice was powerful, resonant, clear, with a peculiar vibration in it, which lent unspeakable effect to any passages of pathos or of scorn. His style of speaking was exactly what a conventional demagogue's ought not to be. It was pure to austerity, it was stripped of all superfluous ornament. It never gushed or foamed, it never allowed itself to be mastered by passion. The first peculiarity that struck the listener was its superb self-restraint. The orator, at his most powerful passages, appeared as if he were rather keeping in his strength than taxing it with effort. His voice was for the most part calm and measured, he hardly ever indulged in much gesticulation. He never under the pressure of whatever emotion shouted or stormed. The fire of his eloquence was a white heat, intense, consuming, but never sparkling or sputtering. He had an admirable gift of humour, and a keen ironical power. He had read few books, but of those he read he was a master. The English Bible and Milton were his chief studies. His style was probably formed for the most part on the Bible; for, although he may have moulded his general way of thinking, and his simple strong morality on the lessons he found in Milton, his mere language bore little trace of Milton's stately classicism, with the Helenized and Latinized terminology, but was, above all things, Saxon and simple. . . . Mr. Bright himself has given an interesting account of his first meeting with Mr. Cobden. . . From that time dates the almost unique fellowship of these two men who worked together in the closest brotherhood, who loved each other as not all brothers do, who were associated so closely in the public mind that, until Cobden's death, the name of one was scarcely ever mentioned without that of the other. There was something positively romantic about their mutual attachment. Each led a noble life; each was in his own way a man of genius; each was simple and strong. Rivalry between them would have been impossible, although they were every day being compared and contrasted by both friendly and unfriendly critics. Their gifts were admirably suited to make them powerful allies. Each had something that the other wanted. Bright had not Cobden's winning persuasiveness, nor his surprising ease and force of argument. But Cobden had not anything like his companion's oratorical power. He had not the tones of scorn, of pathos, of humour, and of passion. The two together made a genuine power in the House of Commons and on the platform."

The repeal of the Corn Laws was the opportunity of Mr. Disraeli. Without believing in protection he became the protectionist leader, until he succeeded in "educating" his party into the adoption of free trade. The county squires wanted revenge for what they deemed the treachery of Sir Robert Peel, and they obtained it the same year. "Peel had crushed O'Connell, and carried free trade, and O'Connell and the protectionists had life enough yet to pull him down. He is as a conqueror who, having won the great victory of his life, is struck by a hostile hand in some by-way as he passes home to enjoy his triumph. Lord Russell succeeded him; the Irish troubles, aggravated by the famine, continued for years, commerce collapsed, Chartism revived, the Young Ireland party rose and fell, the Don Pacifico affair at Athens called forth Lord Palmerston's famous "Civis Romanus sum" speech, the Exhibition of 1851, the work of the wise and pacific Prince Consort came and went, Louis Napoleon made his coup d'etat, and events were placed in train for the Anglo-French alliance and the Crimean war. Mr. M'Carthy's narrative of these events is so charming that we are reluctant to skip so many chapters even in a review, but the reader can make amends by perusing the book for himself. Out of all these events Palmerston emerged as the foremost statesman of the day. His high-handed dealings at the Foreign Office led to complaints from the Queen, and his final dismissal by Lord John Russell. "Palmerston is smashed," was the common saying of the clubs. A night or two after the debate Lord Dalling met Mr. Disraeli on the staircase of the Russian Embassy, and Disraeli remarked to him that "there was a Palmerston." Within two months he carried a motion which forced Ministers to resign, and of which he wrote to his brother, "I have had my tit-for-tat with John Russell, and I turned him out on Friday last." Lord Derby succeeded, with Disraeli for Chancellor of the Exchequer and leader in the House of Commons, but in nine months the Liberals closed up their broken ranks under the Earl of Aberdeen, and the Conservatives were driven from office. "Mr. Disraeli took the defeat with his characteristic composure. The morning was cold and wet. 'It will be an unpleasant day for going to Osborne,' he quietly remarked to a friend as they went down Westminster Hall together and looked out into the dreary streets." The new Chancellor of the Exchequer was Mr. Gladstone, of whom Mr. M'Carthy writes as follows:—

"Perhaps the first really great speech made by Gladstone was the reply to Disraeli on the memorable December morning which we have just described. That speech put him in the very foremost rank of English orators. Then, perhaps he first showed to the full the one great quality in which, as a Parliamentary orator, he has never had a rival in our time—the readiness which seems to require no preparation, but can marshal all its arguments, as if by instinct, at a given moment, and the fluency which can pour out the most eloquent language as freely as though it were but the breath of the nostrils. When, shortly after the formation of the coalition Ministry, Mr. Gladstone delivered his first Budget, it was regarded as a positive curiosity of financial exposition. It was a performance that belonged to the department of the fine arts. The speech occupied several hours, and assuredly no listener wished it the shorter by a single sentence. Pitt, we read, had the same art of making a Budget speech a fascinating discourse; but in our time no Minister has had this gift except Mr. Gladstone. Each time that he essayed the same task subsequently he accomplished just the same success. Mr. Gladstone's first oratorical qualification was his exquisite voice. Such a voice would make commonplace seem interesting, and lend something of fascination to dulness itself. It was singularly pure, clear, resonant, and sweet. The orator never seemed to use the slightest effort or strain in filling any hall and reaching the ear of the farthest among the audience. It was not a loud voice or of great volume, but strong, vibrating, and silvery. The words were always aided by energetic action, and by the deep gleaming eyes of the orator. Somebody once said that Gladstone was the only man in the House who could talk in italics. The saying was odd, but was nevertheless appropriate and expressive. Gladstone could, by the slightest modulation of his voice, give all the emphasis of italics, of small print or large print, or any other effect he might desire to his spoken words."

Several of the succeeding chapters are devoted to the Eastern question and the Crimean War, with which Mr. Kinglake's name is so intimately associated as the historian. Mr. M'Carthy's is rather an epitome than a history; but it is a very entertaining narrative, and will find readers when the more elaborate work has to be reserved for a time of leisure by busy men. The results of the war were almost universally disappointing. Lord Aberdeen "estimated that it might perhaps secure peace in the east of Europe for some twenty-five years. His modest expectation was prophetic. Indeed it a little overshot the mark. Twenty-two years after the close of the Crimean campaign, Russia and Turkey were at war again." The conclusion of peace with Russia was speedily followed, and was probably intended to have been preceded by, the Sepoy Mutiny in India, the most dangerous crisis England has had to meet during the present reign. The origin and spread of disaffection, the horrible butcheries of Cawnpore, the march of Havelock for the relief of Lucknow, the siege of Delhi, the reconquest, the abolition of the East India Company, and the proclamation of Queen Victoria throughout India in November, 1858, supply the materials of several luminous chapters. Meanwhile Lord Palmerston had gone out of office on his ill-advised Conspiracy Bill, which sprung out of the Orsini-Bernard proceedings, and Lord Derby and Mr. Disraeli were again in power. The Continent was in a state of ferment, Count Cavour—who "had the head of a Machiavelli, the daring of a Cæsar Borgia, the political craft and audacity of a Richelieu"—had prevailed on Napoleon to emancipate Italy from Austrian rule. Liberty was in the air, with revolution threatening in its path. England felt something of the movement, and there was a cry for another Electoral Reform Bill. Mr. Disraeli determined to rob the Whigs of this stock measure if possible, and accordingly brought in his first abortive Franchise Bill. What Mr. M'Carthy thinks of it may be gathered from the heading to the chapter which narrates its fate—"The Tory Diogenes rolling his tub." "Mr. Disraeli had to choose between two dangers. He might risk all by refusing reform; he might risk all by attempting reform. He thought on the whole the wiser course would be to endeavour to take possession of the Reform question for himself and his party." The Liberals again made up their differences, Lord Russell and Lord Palmerston waived their rivalry, the latter became Premier, and for over six years reform was in abeyance. These were the years of Palmerston's greatest popularity, and he was satisfied to spend them in comparative quiet, letting "burning questions" alone. When he died, in 1865, Lord Russell and Mr. Gladstone took up the Reform cry, and were defeated by the famous Cave of Adullam secession under the lead of Mr. Lowe. Then followed the third Derby Administration, the "leap in the dark," by which the Tories "dished the Whigs," and passed a Reform Bill which is still substantially the law of the land, and is a little short of manhood suffrage. Ten months afterwards Mr. Gladstone became Premier, and made his five years of power the most productive of great legislative measures to be found in the annals of Parliament. The Irish Church, Irish Land, the Alabama Claims Arbitration, National Education, the abolition of purchase in the army, vote by ballot, the abolition of University tests, the extension of local government, the amendment of the licensing law, and many other measures, have earned for this Ministry the distinction of "The Great Administration." It fell rather from the resentment of monopolists and the apathy of the Liberals than from any inherent weakness of its own. After that an undoubted Conservative re-action set in, which gave Mr. Disraeli a six years' lease of power, and led him to the culmination of his career as Earl of Beaconsfield, and leader of the British House of Peers. These and subsequent events are so recent that most people who take an interest in public affairs can write a history for themselves, much more conformable to their own opinions than any history written by anybody else. The purchase of the Suez Canal shares, the proclamation of Victoria as Empress of India, the Bulgarian horrors, the advance of the fleet to Constantinople, the Congress of Berlin, the annexation of Cyprus and Socotra, the movement of Indian troops to Malta, the Afghan war, and the South African policy of the Conservatives, all pass under Mr. M'Carthy's pen, and are briefly but graphically described. The state of public feeling in 1878 is thus pourtrayed:—

"The speech from the Throne announced that her Majesty could not conceal from herself that should the hostilities between Russia and Turkey unfortunately be prolonged, 'some unexpected occurrence may render it incumbent on me to adopt measures of precaution.' This looked ominous to those who wished for peace, and it raised the spirits of the war party. There was a very large and a very noisy war party already in existence. It was particularly strong in London. It embraced some Liberals as well as nearly all Tories. It was popular in the music halls and the public-houses of London. The class whom Prince Bismarck once called 'the gentlemen of the pavement' were in its favour, at least in the metropolis, almost to a gentleman of the pavement. The men of action got a nickname. They were dubbed the Jingo party. The term, applied as one of ridicule and reproach, was adopted by chivalrous Jingoes as a name of pride. The Jingoes of London, like the Beggars of Flanders, accepted the word of contumely as a title of honour. In order to avoid the possibility of any historical misunderstanding or puzzlement hereafter about the meaning of Jingo, such as we have heard of concerning that of Whig and Tory, it is well to explain how the term came into existence. Some Tyrtæus of the tap-tub, some Körner of the music-halls, had composed a ballad which was sung at some of these caves of harmony every night, amid the tumultuous applause of excited patriots. The refrain of this warsong contained the spirit-stirring words,—

"We don't want to fight, but, by Jingo, if we do, We've got the ships, we've got the men, we've got the money too."

Some one whose pulses the lyrical outburst of national pride failed to stir called the party of its enthusiasts the Jingoes. The writer of this book is under the impression that the invention of the name belongs to Mr. George Jacob Holyoake; but he declines to pledge his historical reputation to the fact. The name was caught up at once, and the party were universally known as the Jingoes. The famous abjuration of the lady in the 'Vicar of Wakefield' had proved to be too prophetical. She had sworn by 'the living Jingo;' and now, indeed, the Jingo was alive."

That London did not represent the country on this occasion was proved by the results of the general election of 1880. On the 24th of March, in that year, Parliament was dissolved, and on the 29th of April, Mr. Gladstone, as Premier, met a new Parliament, composed of 353 Liberals, 237 Conservatives, and 62 Home Rulers. The following passage closes Mr. M'Carthy's narrative:—

"Each succeeding day showed more and more the change that had taken place in public feeling. Defeat was turned into disaster. Disaster became utter rout and confusion. When the elections were over, it was found that the Conservative party were nowhere. A majority of some 120 sent the Liberals back into power. No Liberal statesmen in our time ever before saw themselves sustained by such an army of followers. There was a moment or two of hesitation—of delay. The Queen sent for Lord Hartington; she then sent for Lord Granville; but everyone knew in advance who was to come into power at last. The strife lately carried on had been the old duel between two great men. Mr. Gladstone had stood up against Lord Beaconsfield for some years and fought him alone. He had dragged his party after him into many a danger. He had compelled them more than once to fight where many of them would fain have held back, and where none of them saw any chance of victory. Now, at last, the battle had been given to his hands, and it was a matter of necessity that the triumph should bring back to power the man whose energy and eloquence had inspired the struggle. The Queen sent for Mr. Gladstone, and a new chapter of English history opened, with the opening of which this work has to close."

A chapter in each volume is devoted to the literature of the reign, with which the author shows himself intimately acquainted. From beginning to end his work is well done. For a man who takes an active part in political life as an advanced Liberal, the severest critics will acknowledge his general fairness. He never attempts to conceal his personal convictions, but neither does he unnecessarily obtrude them upon the reader. His narrative of facts is not distorted by prejudice, and he does not sink the historian in the advocate or the apologist—a prevailing fault in the otherwise almost faultless narrative of Lord Macaulay. Voluminous as the forty-three years' record is, it is never prolix, but rather too much condensed, as if the author were afraid of filling too many volumes. The style is terse, graceful, and singularly strong. Nearly every page is full of short, sharp sentences, well balanced, and scarcely ever missing the point. The diction is at once copious and concise, abounding with happy phrases and felicitous epithets. The construction of the sentences is so accurate that a little slip creates surprise; as, for instance, on page 72 of the first volume, where he says, in reference to Sir Robert Peel, "a statesman who of all his contemporaries,"—a Hibernicism which transforms Sir Robert into one of his contemporaries. Occasionally he is also apt to repeat favourite phrases, such as "monumental record," "exhausted its mandate," &c. The Australian edition has been printed on good paper, in a readable type, and with scarcely a compositor's mistake from beginning to end. Taken as a whole, the work will not satisfy critical readers who want minute information and a comparison of authorities, and for such readers it was not intended. It comes midway between a mere skeleton history which gives only dates, names, and events almost without note or comment, and the elaborate works of biography, parliamentary records, and annals of particular events and epochs which give the letters, speeches, and acts of public men in detail. The present reign abounds with these materials of history, and Mr. M'Carthy has evidently made a most liberal use of them as sources of information, although he does not cite them, as Macaulay does, in footnotes on almost every page. Careful students of history will still peruse these sources of information for themselves, without trusting to anybody's version. Yet even they will find great help in the work now issued to the Australian public. We unhesitatingly pronounce it the best single history of the reign of Victoria that has yet been produced. Every man who often needs competent information on recent events should have it on his book-shelves, and no library should be without a copy, whatever other records of the Victorian age it may add to its literary treasury.

THE REVISED VERSION.

The Bishop of Lincoln sent to the Times the following correspondence with the permission of the Lord Chancellor:—

"Risholm, Lincoln, May 25.

"My dear Lord,—The question which Lord Carnarvon has given notice of to be put to your Lordship in the House of Lords on Friday—(viz., whether it is legal for a clergyman to read the lessons from the new revised version in a church)—is one of great importance, both to the clergy and laity. May I be allowed to submit a few remarks upon it?

"There seems to be a presumption against such a practice ab inconvenienti.

"The new Revised Version, however valuable in itself, is not distinguishable as to authority from any private venture of the kind. It has received no sanction from the Crown, from the Church, or from Parliament. If a clergyman may use it in the public services of the Church, why might he not use any other revised version, such as Archbishop Newcome's or Dean Alford's, or the revised version put forth not long ago by 'Five clergymen,' or even a revised version framed by himself? And so, in fine, might we not have almost as many 'revised versions' as clergymen or churches?

"That the Crown and Church of England contemplated the use of one uniform translation of the Bible in churches is, I think, clear from Royal Proclamation in Henry VIII.'s time, and from Royal Injunctions in the reigns of Edward VI. and Queen Elizabeth, and from Canons of the Church in 1571 (Wilkins's Concilia IV., 266), and in 1603 (Can. 80, see Bishop Gibson's Codex, p. 201, ed. Ox., 1761). Also Archbishop Whitgift, in his letter to the Bishop of Lincoln in 1587 'About Bibles,' speaks of 'the translation of the Bible authorized by the Synods of Bishops,' and desires him to take care that 'every one of the churches in his diocese is provided with one or more copies of the translation of the Bible allowed as aforesaid.' (Wilkins's Concilia IV., 323; Cardwell 'Documentary Annals,' No. CV.)

"As to our present Authorized Version of the Bible, which was first printed in 1611 at London by Robert Barker, 'Printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty,' the words in its title, 'appointed to be read in churches,' appear to show that the public reading of it rests upon some authority which appointed it, and the universal reception of that translation in our churches for 270 years is confirmatory of that opinion, and corroborates that appointment.

"The special exception also (in the preface of our Prayer-book) in favour of reading the Psalms in churches from the older version seems to point to the use of some other translation as authorized for the rest of the service of the Church; and universal usage proves that this other version can be no other than the Authorized Version of 1611.

"Accordingly, at the last revision of the Book of Common Prayer, at the Restoration, the older version of the epistles and gospels in the Prayer-book was displaced, and the translation of them in the Authorized Version of 1611 was substituted for it. And the public use of this version of the epistles and gosples is required by the Act of Uniformity and by the recent Act on the Declarations of Conformity to be made by the clergy.

"As to the legal bearing of the question I would not venture to pronounce an opinion. But I see it stated in some books on copyright, not, however, without some hesitation, that 'the Sovereign, by a prerogative vested in the Crown, has the exclusive privilege of printing inter alia the Holy Bible for public use in the divine service of the Church (Godson on Copyright, pp. 432, 437, 441, 454), and that the Queen's printer and the two ancient Universities now exercise that right by virtue of patents from the Crown.

"The copyright of the new Revised Version of the New Testament has, I believe, been purchased from the Revisers by the two Universities exclusively. The Queen's printer has, I think, taken no part in the transaction.

"If, therefore, the new Revised Version is to supplant the Authorized Version, and take its place in our churches without any grant from the Crown, or any authorization from the Church, this might be regarded as an invasion of the prerogative, and as a contravention of the Church's authority, and also, perhaps, as an injury to the Queen's printer, who now, concurrently with the two Universities, enjoys the exclusive right of supplying all copies of the Bible (in the Authorized Version of 1611) for general use in the public service of the Church.

"I am, my dear Lord, very faithfully yours,

"C. LINCOLN.

"To the Right Hon. the Lord Chancellor."

"30, Portland-place, W., May 27, 1881.

"My dear Lord,—Lord Carnarvon, finding that the facts were not exactly as he had understood them to be, decided not to put the question to me of which he had given notice.

"I agree, generally, with what you say. If any clergyman reads in his church the lessons appointed for the Sunday and other services from the 'Revised' Version before it has been recommended or authorized by some sufficient public authority, he will, I think, incur a serious risk of being held to be an offender against law.

"It is, I dare say, true that no documentary proof of the authority of the version commonly reputed to be authorized is now forthcoming. But this proves very little. If (for example) it was 'appointed to be read in churches' (as is expressly stated on the title-page of 1611), at the time of its first publication, nothing is more probable than that this may have been done by Order in Council. If so, the authentic record of that order would now be lost, because all the Council-books and registers from the year 1600 to 1613 inclusive were destroyed by a fire at Whitehall, on the 12th of January, 1618 (O.S.).

"Nothing, in my opinion, is less likely than that the King's printer should have taken upon himself (whether with a view to his own profit or otherwise) to issue the book (being what it was, a translation unquestionably made by the King's commandment, to correct defects in earlier versions of which the use had been authorized by Royal injunctions, &c., in preceding reigns) with a title-page asserting that it was 'appointed to be read in churches,' if the fact were not really so. That this should have been acquiesced in by all the ecclesiastical and civil authorities of the Church and realm, instead of being visited with the punishment which (in those days of the Star Chamber and the High Commission Court) was so readily inflicted upon despisers of authority, is to my mind, absolutely incredible upon any hypothesis except that of the use of the book being really commanded.

"At the Savoy Conference, the eighth 'general exception' of the Puritan divines related to the use in certain parts of the Liturgy of the 'Great Bible' version. They desired that, instead thereof, the new translation 'allowed by authority' might 'alone be used.' The Bishops answered, 'We are willing that all the Epistles and Gospels, &c., be used according to the last translation;" and this promise they performed, stating, in the preface to the book established by the Act of Uniformity, that 'for a more perfect rendering' the Epistles and Gospels, and other portions of Holy Scripture, inserted 'in sundry other places' of the Liturgy, were 'now ordered to be read according to the last translation;' while, as to the Psalter, they 'noted' that it followed 'the translation of the Great English Bible set forth and used in the time of King Henry VIII. and Edward VI.'

"The calendar of 'Lessons' in this book of 1661-2 must, I suppose, be admitted to refer to some English Bible. The question is, what English Bible? Uniformity in the order of public worship was the purpose of the whole book; therefore, it cannot have been meant to leave every clergyman to translate for himself, or to select for himself among any existing translations at his discretion. The same lessons were to be read in all churches. It is not, on the other hand, conceivable that any version earlier than that of 1611, and confessedly less accurate (else wherefore adopt the 'last translation' for the Epistles and Gospels?), can have been intended. The question has practically been answered by the subsequent reception, understanding, and use of above 200 years. During all that time the version of 1611 has been universally treated as being what it purported to be when first issued in 1611 and ever since—i.e., 'appointed to be read in churches.' It is one of the best established and soundest maxims in law that for a usage of this kind a legal origin is to be presumed when the facts will admit of it. It is no argument to the contrary that some divines, accustomed to the use of earlier versions, may have continued to use them in their sermons or other writings after 1611. The appointment that this version only should be 'read in churches' would not take away that liberty.

"There may, of course, be other arguments, which I do not know or have not considered. My object in saying so much has been only to point out the fallacy of the assumption (if there are any who make it) that the English Bible of 1611 is to be regarded as without authority unless some Royal injunction, proclamation, or order, appointing it to be read in churches can be produced.

"Believe me ever, my dear Lord, yours faithfully,

"SELBORNE.

"The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Lincoln.

On Thursday night a lecture on the Revised Version of the New Testament was delivered in the infant schoolroom of Trinity Church, by Archdeacon King. The attendance was small. After a few introductory remarks, Archdeacon King said that this was by no means a revised New Testament. He said that because he saw that it had been advertised a day or two ago as the Revised New Testament. That he should consider, especially if revised according to nineteenth century ideas, an unspeakable calamity. It was not even a new translation, but only the first revision of a former translation. It was an honest attempt to make the Word of God more intelligible to English readers than any former version. Our present authorized version was indeed only a revision, the ninth of former versions. The foundation of that version was no doubt the translation produced and published by that man of God, William Tyndale, whose sole reward on earth was pain and sorrow, and who was eventually martyred by the Romish authorities in Belgium, his only crime being this admirable translation of the New Testament into English. It was no stretch of the imagination which enabled us to say we believe that even now all Protestants regarded with grateful praise the effect of his work in the version given to the world three and a-half centuries ago. The phraseology and wonderful simplicity of his translation had been carefully and religiously preserved as a whole; indeed, it could hardly be improved upon. He would read, for example, a few of the verses from a fac-simile of the only copy that remained of the New Testament which he published. They would remember that when that New Testament was sent into England the Romish authorities immediately condemned and tried to destroy it. He then read the passages comprised in the Sermon on the Mount. No one but would be surprised at the large proportion of this text which had survived intact. After referring to the translations and revisions which had been made since Tyndale's version down to the publication of our present version during the reign of King James and to the two Roman Catholic versions, the lecturer said that when their Roman Catholic friends spoke about their getting out a brand new Protestant Bible they should remember that their present authorized version would stand comparison with either the Rheims or the Douay versions. Indeed, its excellence need hardly be dwelt upon, as its intrinsic merits and fidelity to the original had been admitted by nearly every eminent critic. It might be asked, since the authorized version was so good as to gain the universal acceptance and unqualified admiration of all parties for 270 years, why should it now be revised? The answer was this, however good it might have been, a better version might be made; and if the New Testament could be placed before the English speaking peoples still more close to the inspired original, we ought not to hesitate. But had the right time come for doing it? The question was easily answered. If it should appear that a very considerable improvement could be made, they should attempt to make it. It was known that not only should the English translation be revised, but that the character of the text also needed revision. The original books or autographs written by the inspired apostles and apostolic men had all disappeared; all that we were now possessed of was copies of copies produced by manual labour, and one such copy was then on the table before him. Errors must necessarily have arisen, and did arise by this copying. Mistakes made by the first copyists were repeated by the second, or "corrected" and made worse. These mistakes were no doubt not intentional, except in one or two instances. At length the mistakes had become so numerous that it was very perplexing to decide whether certain portions were genuine or not. After referring to the omission made by Erasmus in the Testament published in 1516, and to his reason for leaving the passage out, the lecturer went on to say that instead of ten or twelve manuscripts which were known to exist in the time of Erasmus, we had now twelve or fourteen hundred, and possessed a Greek Testament, if not absolutely identical, as nearly as possible so, with that used by the Christian church 1750 years ago. The ripest scholars that England and America produced had been employed merely revising the former translation; and to show the interest the work had excited, he said that the booksellers at home had taken a million copies, but they had all been disposed of before the first day of publication was over. But, still, why was the revision of the translation necessary? Simply because of the revision of the Greek texts. These texts had been freed from the various errors which had crept into them by degrees, and the translation needed altering that it might accord with the revised text. Moreover, the English language had altered to a certain extent during the two and a half centuries which had elapsed since the translation of the authorised version. Words in common use now had quite a different meaning then. There were also a great many passages translated very obscurely, of which he gave examples. He would mention, however, that there was even now a great difficulty in translating from Greek into English, owing to the wonderful shades of meaning expressed by the Greek, especially by the Greek verb. He took, for example, John xxi. chap., 15th to 17th verses, and other passages. The division into chapters and verses was the work of some of the translators, and was badly done, as some of the chapters ended in the middle of a sentence. In the new version the figures were put in the margin. To an ordinary reader the alterations made would appear very slight. As it was, the greater number were merely verbal, one word substituted for another. For instance, the word "soul" in the passage "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" was altered to "life," and to his mind correctly, as the verse was much stronger now than before. Other alterations were noticed and commented on, including those made in St. Luke, v. chap., 39th verse; 1st Timothy, iii. chap. and 16th verse; 1st John, v. chap. and 7th and 8th verses. The careful student would notice alterations in every page. When the book was presented in Convocation it was stated that there were nine alterations to every five verses. Many favourite verses had been altered materially. Before pronouncing a decided opinion upon the version, he recommended them to read carefully the preface to it, and also the speech delivered by the Bishop of Gloucester when presenting it to Convocation. Every part of this version, from the 1st verse of the 1st chapter of St. Matthew down to the last verse of the 22nd chapter of Revelations, had been studied by every one of those engaged in the work, and only agreed to by a two-thirds majority. He concluded by saying that as far as he had studied it, he felt the version was of great value. He regarded its production as a special blessing conferred by God upon the Anglo-Saxon race. In answer to those who said that it was nothing more than a set of fables, he would ask what other book had called forth such an amount of learning, research, and love as the Bible? What other book deserved it? What other book had exerted the influence which the Bible had upon the human race? What other book pointed the way to heaven while it humbled, and exhibited mercy and truth and righteousness, combining to save even the poor guilty but repentant and believing sinner?

A vote of thanks to the rev. lecturer was carried by acclamation, which was duly acknowledged, and the proceedings terminated.

PUBLIC NOTICE.—BEWARE OF IMITATORS.—The public are cautioned against accepting the name CUMBERLAND attached to any newspaper as necessarily meaning "CUMBERLAND MERCURY." Since the start of the "MERCURY" two small newspapers have cropped up, copying the name "CUMBERLAND," hoping no doubt to pick up stray crumbs thereby. To avoid your favours getting into newspapers which have neither circulation nor reputation, be careful to have the full name, "CUMBERLAND MERCURY, established 13 years."

SPRINGFIELD STATION,
in the
WARREGO and ALBERT DISTRICTS,
NEW SOUTH WALES,

RALEIGH, AITKIN, and CO. have been instructed by James Conley, Esq., to sell by public auction, at Menzies' Hotel, on TUESDAY, the 9th AUGUST next, at half-past 2 p.m., his
SPRINGFIELD STATION,
situated in the South Warrego and Albert Districts of New South Wales, about 30 miles southwest of Cobar, comprising the blocks
RANKIN'S HILL, No. 4 East, Block F.
RANKIN'S HILL No. 4 East, Block F, containing
About 128,000 acres of the pick of the Cobar country, together with
About 40,000 first-class sheep,
20 horses, and
All working plant.
The country consists of salt and cotton bush, mulga, and open box country, splendidly adapted for sheep-growing.
The improvements are all good, comprising a comfortable well-built homestead, newly erected, 57 miles of new and substantial wire fencing, enclosing about 64,000 acres, forming three sheep and one horse paddock, &c.
The property is watered by 11 tanks, containing about 46,500 cubic yards of excavation.
Delivery of this station will be given before shearing, and all this season's lambs given in.
The working plant, which will also be given in, is in good order, and sufficient for the working of the station.
NOTE.
The Purchaser of Springfield will have the option of taking, at a price to be named and for delivery after shearing, Mr. Conley's BULGOO STATION, which adjoins Springfield, and is of the same description of country, and contains about 128,000 acres,
Together with
About 30,000 sheep.
The station is highly improved and well watered. The two properties would make one of the finest stations in Riverina, with a total area of About 256,000 acres.
It is seldom such a large tract of country so well improved and with so few sheep on is placed in the market; and the auctioneers strongly advise intending purchasers to inspect, as the country is equal to any in that part of the district.
For further particulars apply
107, Collins-street West.

QUARANTINE RESTRICTIONS AT THE PORT OF MELBOURNE.

The Treasury, New South Wales,
14th July, 1881.

It is hereby notified for general information that the Government of Victoria have intimated to the Government of this colony that the following Quarantine restrictions are for the present imposed upon vessels entering the port of Melbourne, viz.:—

1. Vessels from Chinese ports, whether calling at Australian ports or not, on arrival at the Heads will be quarantined for examination there; and all masters of such vessels leaving New South Wales ports for Victoria are requested to take notice thereof.
2. All intercolonial vessels from New South Wales, until further notice, are required to stop at the Quarantine Station, Port Phillip, for examination by the Health Officer, before being allowed to come up to Hobson's Bay; and masters of vessels will avoid delay, both in regard to these vessels and to Chinese vessels via Sydney, if they send a boat to the Quarantine Jetty for the Health Officer.

WOOL.

THE COMING SEASON.

TO WOOL GROWERS, MERCHANTS, &c.

The Rapid Approach of the NEW WOOL SEASON again causes us to address ourselves to the Woolgrowers of the Colonies, and to all who are interested in the great staple of the country, and we now, as in past seasons, beg to offer our services for the disposal of Wools intended for sale in the

SYDNEY MARKET.

A review of the past seasons proves how enormous has been the increase year by year in the quantity of wool sold in the local markets, and the season now about to commence we are sure will prove no exception; but on the contrary, a still larger quantity than has ever yet been offered, will, without doubt, be submitted to the competition of local buyers, whose numbers this year will be very considerably increased by the presence of numerous FOREIGN PURCHASERS, and we therefore look confidently forward to a most extensive demand, which must act beneficially to the interests of those who determine to sell in the colonies.

In view of such expected increase in the trade, we have made ample provision for the reception and storage of wool, and our warehouses at the Circular Quay being roomy, and particularly well lighted, are admirably adapted for the display of wools to the best advantage.

The most careful attention is given by ourselves personally to the valuation of all wool previous to offering them at auction, and not the smallest parcel or clip is sold unless we are quite certain full market value is being obtained.

To those, however, of our friends who prefer to risk the chances of the English Market, we also offer our services, and we shall be prepared to ship to our London agents, making liberal cash advances as required.

MAIDEN, HILL and CLARK.

Offices—129, Pitt-street.

Established 1840.

THE WONDERFUL WERTHEIM SEWING MACHINES,

without hand-folding, tacking (or basting), without the use of soap or sperm, without any pulling or pushing of the work, will do all kinds of household or factory sewing, producing far finer work than can be accomplished by hand or by any other machines. From thickest moleskin to thinnest muslin they will travel with perfect ease. They will make with the use of their own appliances very fine seams or fells, will kilt, braid, make their own braid and stitch it on at the same time, bind, cord, ruffle, gather, sew on ribbons and trimmings, tuck, hem any width, bind scallops and fold dress material with raw edges, do all kinds of work in boys' suits, ladies' dresses, underclothing, house-linen, and upholstery.

With every WERTHEIM MACHINE is supplied a beautiful self-acting bobbin-winder, which fills the spools as smoothly as reels of cotton, without the operator holding the thread. This is the latest improvement, and is not supplied with the machines of any other maker whatever. The walnut tables are graduated with a yard measure. A large fly-wheel, for ease and power, is attached to each stand. If a button, a steel plate, or other obstruction should come under the needle while the machines stitches at full speed, no cog-wheels will break and no injury will result from an accident which would certainly break or derange the machines of the old-style makers, which the WERTHEIM is fast superseding. You may stitch over the thickest seams without the slightest trouble or risk.

Every WERTHEIM machine sold by us is guaranteed for TEN YEARS, and will be kept in PERFECT ORDER and REPAIR for THREE YEARS (from date of purchase altogether free of cost. They are light in running, simple to learn, strong, handsome, and durable. Great care is used in packing, but if any part should be broken in transit, it will be at OUR RISK, and will be replaced FREE of CHARGE.

NO MATTER IN WHAT PART OF THE COLONY you live we will supply you with a WERTHEIM MACHINE upon easy terms of TIME PAYMENT without interest or any other charge upon list prices.

In contemplating the purchase of a WERTHEIM MACHINE, REMEMBER that the cost of it is NOT EXPENDITURE. It is an INVESTMENT which, more surely than ANY other property, will return its cost many fold. It will be a servant ever ready and helpful. In any house it will easily earn or save the instalments needful to purchase it. NO OTHER article of your furniture ever earns anything, and you know that you often waste money upon useless nicknacks.

Catalogues, samples of work and all particulars free by post, from BEALE and COMPANY, 612, George-street; 150, Oxford-street; 12, Market Buildings, SYDNEY; Howick-street, BATHURST; Hunter-street, NEWCASTLE.

REMINGTON SEWING-MACHINES.—The most liberal terms of payment, and instruction free.

REMINGTON SEWING-MACHINES.—Guaranteed the best Machines in the market.

THE REMINGTON TRIUMPHANT.

The wonderful success that has resulted in the introduction of these celebrated Sewing-machines into these colonies leaves them without doubt the most popular machines of the day. We have regular shipments, and of the latest improvements. The finish of the machines and woodwork are superior to any machines. The greatest proof of their excellence may be noted by the fact that where a buyer compares other machines before buying, they invariably take the Remington, and wherever exhibited they have taken leading prizes.

At the Sydney and Melbourne Exhibitions, by an oversight, the Remington did not exhibit, but the machines which took the prize there was defeated by the Remington at the Sydney Agricultural Exhibition. We have not made it a practice hitherto to exhibit at country shows. If we did we should have no doubt of the Remington taking the lead.

The large number of letters we have from those having them is use speak in the highest terms of their superiority.

EQUITABLE PERMANENT B. BUILDING LAND, and SAVINGS INSTITUTION.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

There is but little necessity for announcing that the offices of this Society are at 248, Pitt-street, as probably everybody knows it. But it is necessary to state that Borrowers can obtain loans to any amount on reasonable security, and upon terms so favourable as to have attracted an extensive army of breadwinners, most of whom occupy their own dwellings, and hold the memory of this Institution altogether sacred. There are £25,000 now ready for assisting others to purchase dwellings, and for which a weekly return is asked for of 5s 4d for each £100 lent.

Those who have not yet done so are invited to call and get a pamphlet.

THOS. MILLER, Manager.

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.—Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. This Fluid combination, extracted from medicinal roots, is now used instead of blue pill and calomel for the cure of dyspepsia, biliousness, and all symptoms of congestion of the liver, which are generally pain beneath the shoulders, headache, drowsiness, no appetite, furred tongue, disagreeable taste in the morning, giddiness, disturbance of the stomach, and feeling of general depression. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, very slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Taraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. PEPPER, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every label. Bottles, 2s 9d and 4s 6d. Sold by all Chemists. A most valuable and essential medicine for India, Australia, the Cape, and Colonies generally. Sold by ELLIOTT, BROTHERS, Sydney.

"SULPHOLINE LOTION."—An External Means of CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferers for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy, natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s 9d. Made by J. PEPPER and CO., London. Sold by ELLIOTT, BROS., Sydney.

LIVER COMPLAINTS.—Dr. KING'S DANDELION and QUININE LIVER PILLS (without Mercury).
THE BEST REMEDY FOR BILIOUSNESS, STOMACH DERANGEMENT, FLATULENCE, PAINS BETWEEN THE SHOULDERS, BAD APPETITE, INDIGESTION, ACIDITY, HEADACHE, HEARTBURN, and all other symptoms of disordered liver and dyspepsia. Acknowledged by many eminent surgeons to be the safest and mildest pills for every constitution.
In Boxes at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, and 4s 6d.
Sold by Chemists and Medicine Vendors throughout the world.
Prepared by Jas. Rorke, London.
Specially valuable Pills for residents abroad and travellers.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.
WATSON'S VEGETABLE APERIENT ANTIBILIOUS PILLS are the best and safest pills made.
They are more extensively used than any other.
They may be taken by either sex, at any time, and in all weathers.
They are suitable in nearly all complaints.
STOREKEEPERS
are reminded that they command a ready sale, and yield a larger profit than all others. One trial will convince the most sceptical of their vast superiority over any other sort. Price, 1s per box.
May be had through any of the wholesale houses, or at the manufactory.
WATSON'S DRUG STORES, 567, George-street, Sydney.

NEW TESTIMONIALS ON THE EFFICACY OF REMEDIES OF THE GRIMAULT and CO.,
PHARMACEUTICAL CHEMISTS,
Paris, 8, Rue Vivienne 8, Paris,

DISEASES OF THE CHEST CURED.

"Eight patients attacked with Phthisis pulmonalis in its first stage, treated by GRIMAULT'S SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITE OF LIME during a period varying between six weeks and four months, are so well recovered at the present time that there is no possibility to witness the presence of tubercules in their lungs; the cure reckons now two years."—Vienna Medical Gazette, Austria.

TO YOUNG MOTHERS.

"My breasts were losing daily the allowance required to nurse my baby, who was falling away by the eye, and I found myself in the sad alternative either of weaning him at a season too dangerous for his health, or to see him dwindling away from want of food. In this emergency I heard of DUSART'S SYRUP OF LACTOPHOSPHATE OF LIME, which I took. What was not my delight on seeing in a short time my breast restored to a plentiful secretion, and my baby improve in strength and health. I owe this public testimony to the inventor of this precious medicine."—Mrs. Lounorm, Winchester.

ASTHMA CURED.

"For a long time past I was suffering from the breathing organs, when the idea occurred to me of using GRIMAULT and CO'S INDIAN CIGARETTES, which procured me so great a relief that they have become indispensable to my existence.—S. Sarriaco, Malaga."

SICK HEADACHE! NEURALGIA.

Grimault and Co.'s GUARANA owes its curative virtues to the great quantity of Caffein which it contains. Dr. Wilks, of the Guy's Hospital, declares in the "British Medical Journal" that the GUARANA acts "like a charm."
"Guarana Powders are a certain remedy for the sick headache."—he Lancet, August 31, 1872.
Sydney: ELLIOTT, BROTHERS.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, December 31, 1864.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—Medical Times, January 12, 1866.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain cure for cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa, colic, &c.
Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution: None genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. Sole manufacturer, J. T. Davenport, 33, Great Russell-street, London. Sold in bottles at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, and 11s.
Agents: Sydney—ELLIOTT, BROTHERS.

GAMBLE'S justly celebrated Cough Lozenges, the marvellous remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis, &c. one trial convinces. Is.

GAMBLE'S SAFE HAIR VIGOR, the modern restorer of grey hair to its natural colour; perfectly harmless. 4s.

A SNIFF of Gamble's NEURODONTINE instantaneously cures neuralgia, toothache, nervous headache, or earache. 2s 6d. All chemists.

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH SAVING?
This may seem a curious question to some people, but many persons would neglect their Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and any Diseases of the Throat or Lungs, before they would invest the small sum of 6d in a sample bottle of Dr. "BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP" to try it, before buying a large bottle for 3s 6d, holding 8 small bottles. All dealers. Wholesale by ELLIOTT BROS.

THE WESTMEAD SUBDIVISION joining the PARRAMATTA PARK,
116 ALLOTMENTS, each lot having 66 FEET frontage by 170 to 200 FEET depths, being a subdivision of the original grants of Messrs. RODD, FULLAGAR, and SPARKES, bounded on the east by the WESTMEAD AVENUE, facing the PARK; on the south by a GOVERNMENT ROAD 66 feet wide, leading from the PARK GATE; on the west by a GOVERNMENT ROAD 66 feet wide, leading from the PARK, and intersected by 3 NEW WIDE STREETS running east and west, dividing the land into 4 SECTIONS, containing 28 to 30 LOTS each.

THE PROPRIETORS of the Estate, considering that the PARK is for the people, have determined to place it within the reach OF ALL to secure a share of the advantage to be derived from the enjoyment of this GRAND RECREATION RESERVE, open to all for WALKING, RIDING, or DRIVING.
The present distance from the RAILWAY STATION is about 15 minutes, but it is in contemplation to remove the PARK PLATFORM further west, and then WESTMEAD will be only 3 minutes' walk from THE RAILWAY.
Lithograph plans ready shortly.

PLANS at the Rooms,
MILLS, PILE, and GILCHRIST, 114, Pitt-street.

PARRAMATTA.

Two large newly-erected BRICK HOUSES, in fine commanding positions,
ROSE HILL-STREET, PARRAMATTA.

Sale by order of the Mortgagee.

MILLS, PILE, and GILCHRIST have been instructed by the mortgagee to sell by auction, at the Land Sale Rooms, 114, Pitt-street, on TUESDAY, 26th July, at 11.30 prompt,
All that allotment of land, being lot 40 of section 2, Parramatta Old Racecourse subdivision, having 50 feet frontage to Rose Hill-street, just off Church-street, by 150 feet depth, on which are the two semi-detached two-story houses recently built by Mr. Lucas, erected of brick, in good style, nice residences, having fine views, and containing 6 rooms each.
The entrances are under ornamental porches at the side, and the front of each house has a verandah and balcony.
The houses are erected a little distance from the street, giving a nice flower garden space, with dwarf wall and iron railing on the street line.

To persons seeking a house as an investment, this is a good opportunity to secure a sound and well-built property in an improving position; the distance is only an easy walk from either the Parramatta or Granville Railway Station, as the property lies about midway between. Parramatta has the advantage of gas now, and will have an abundant supply of pure water at a good pressure in less than three months.

Title good. Terms at sale.

TUESDAY, JULY 26.

SPLENDID ORCHARD PROPERTY.

FINE ELEVATED POSITION, between the
PROPERTY OF S. J. PEARSON, Esq., and OATLANDS, the residence of Mrs. BETTINGTON.

THE BEST ORANGE AND LEMON TREES
IN THE WHOLE DISTRICT.
ABOUT 24 ACRES OF LAND,
EIGHT OF WHICH are Orchards in full bearing, realizing £300 per ANNUM.
5 ACRES are cleared ready for planting out this season.

MILLS, PILE, and GILCHRIST have been instructed by Mr. JAMES SOUTER to sell by auction, at the Land Sale Rooms, on TUESDAY, July 26, at 11.30 o'clock,
His very choice property, having a frontage to TWO ROADS, about 1 mile from PARRAMATTA.
The area is about 24 acres.
The position occupies the CROWN OF THE HILL on the PALMER ESTATE, overlooking the whole of PARRAMATTA. The orchard comprises 8 acres, comprised of orange, lemon, and summer fruits, the best varieties. The soil is a rich loam, and intending purchasers are requested to see the property prior to sale, as there are not any trees in the whole district better than the ones in this orchard.
The orchard crop now on is estimated to be worth at least £300, which will go to the purchaser.
The summer fruit has produced £200 per annum the last two years. There is a small cottage on the property, and a good supply of water.
The whole is securely fenced, and subdivided into 3 portions.
Title good. Terms at sale.

THIS DAY, Saturday, at 3 o'clock, at the
TEMPERANCE HALL, Pitt-street.

For Positive Sale,
The Well-known Fattening Freehold Estate
RETREAT,
situated on the Wybong and Cuomoon Creeks, about 20 miles from the Muswellbrook Railway Station.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER have received instructions from Mr. J. de V. Lamb (as Executor of the late Mr. Sloper Cox) to sell by auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 20th July, at 12 o'clock,
The above very valuable freehold estate, which contains about 9400 acres of first-class fattening country,—splendidly watered by never-failing streams; all fenced and subdivided into four paddocks, and otherwise well improved, with comfortable homestead, outbuildings, stockyards, &c.
Also, at the same time and place will be sold the cattle depasturing thereon, consisting of 100 choice pure-bred Hereford cows, and about 900 well-bred fattening bullocks.
For further particulars and letters to inspect, apply to GRIFFITHS and WEAVER, Sydney.

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

MAGNIFICENT FATTENING STATION, Warrego District, N. S. W., known as
KIENGAL and WIELMORINGLE.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER are instructed by Mrs. MACKENZIE to sell by auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, at noon, WEDNESDAY, August 31,
The KIENGAL and WIELMORINGLE STATIONS, which form a compact block of about 447,000 acres of unsurpassable Saltbush Plains and lightly-timbered ridges, equally well adapted for either sheep or cattle.

The runs are intersected and permanently watered by the Culgoa, Birrie, Barbur, and Widgiegowarra creeks, and have also some fine springs.
These stations adjoin, and contain the same description of first-class sheep country as Milroy, Talawanta, Bundabulla, Gnomery, and Brenda; and, having a very large extent of frontage to the creeks which flood the country to a distance of one or two miles back after rain on the Darling Downs and the Maranoa District of Queensland, are unequalled for their capability of turning off fat stock.
These runs are situated off the line of travelling stock from and to Queensland, and are within 50 miles of Brewarrina, to which township steamers bring supplies, and where the wool can be loaded for Melbourne and Adelaide markets.
The capabilities of Kiengal and Wielmoringle may be estimated at from 200,000 to 300,000 sheep at least.
The properties will be sold with the famous herd of cattle, numbering about 10,799 head, all of which are especially well bred, and which include a large proportion of fat bullocks and cows, now ready for market, so that any one wishing to turn the property into a sheep station could easily and profitably work the cattle off.
There is an ample supply of good working horses, plant, stores, &c.
The improvements comprise two complete homesteads, stockyards, &c., &c., also about 75 miles newly erected wire fences, both sheep and cattle proof.
Capitalists in search of a remunerative investment are invited to have these properties inspected; they are for bona fide sale, and offer every advantage, being free from selection. Very first-class country, well and permanently watered, very lightly stocked, and capable of almost unlimited development.
For plans and further particulars, apply to GRIFFITHS and WEAVER, Sydney.

TOP OF WILLIAM-STREET.

Those Two first-class Family Residences, immediately opposite the top or eastern end of William-street, fronting DARLINGHURST ROAD, at present in the occupation of W. MAINPRISE, Esq., and JNO. FAIRFAX, Esq.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 22nd JULY, at 11 o'clock.
THOSE TWO FIRST-CLASS substantially-built and tastefully decorated CITY FAMILY RESIDENCES known as ELIZABETH PLACE,
fronting DARLINGHURST ROAD, opposite the top of WILLIAM-STREET EAST.
They are most massively built of brick on stone foundations, cemented, have verandahs and balconies in front, and contain (each) the following
EXTENSIVE ACCOMMODATION:—
GROUND FLOOR.—Porch entrance, wide hall, parlour, and sitting-room.
FIRST FLOOR.—Hall, drawing-room, 3 bedrooms, dressing room, and bathroom.
SECOND FLOOR.—4 bedrooms, fixed wardrobe, and bath-room.
THIRD FLOOR.—1 bedroom, promenade and platform, with elevated lookout on the roof, from which there is a fine view over the city and harbour.
THE OFFICES comprise 2 kitchens, storeroom, laundry, scullery, cellar, and other family conveniences.
At the rear of one of the residences is a building formerly used as a coach-house and stable.
The land has 47 feet 3 inches frontage to Darlinghurst Road, with a depth of 123 feet on one side and 112 feet on the other, extending to a wide lane at the rear.

☞ These Residences are most beautifully decorated, the porch, entrances, the verandahs, balconies, and halls are all paved with ornamental encaustic tiles, and laid in first-class work and pretty designs. The internal fittings are all of picked cedar, highly polished, and the principal rooms have valuable and costly marble mantelpieces. In fact, for elegance of design and quality of workmanship throughout, Elizabeth Place residences will compare favourably with any other similar properties in the city.
In front of each residence is a small garden plot, enclosed with dwarf wall and ornamental iron railing along the street frontage.
INSPECTION is particularly invited. CARDS to view can be obtained at the Rooms.

TUESDAY, 23rd August, 1881.

PRELIMINARY ADVERTISEMENT.

"GULLENDADDY"
(Melville Plains),
Liverpool Plains District, New South Wales, known as the property of Messrs. Clark, Brothers.

WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER (in conjunction with Sullivan and Simpson) have been favoured with instructions by the owners to sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the EXCHANGE ROOMS, Sydney, at NOON on TUESDAY, the 23rd August next,
THE GULLENDADDY PROPERTY, comprising about 35,000 acres of well-chosen FREEHOLD land of the richest quality, and about 100,000 acres of LEASEHOLD, having abundance of myall and salt bush; the whole very highly improved and subdivided into over 20 paddocks.

"GULLENDADDY" is very lightly stocked with about 50,000 SUPERIOR MERINO SHEEP (station bred) of large frame heavily clad with wool of a high character, of which about 19,000 are breeding ewes, now lambing or about to lamb in September. Also, a most efficient working plant.
THIS MAGNIFICENT ESTATE is about 20 miles from the present terminus of the Great North-western Railway (Gunnedah), and 10 miles from the railway station now in course of construction at Boggabri.
THE HOMESTEAD comprises every convenience necessary for the proper conduct of a large establishment.
"GULLENDADDY" is bounded by Bando, Garrawilla, Namoi Hut, and other celebrated stations.
THIS PROPERTY is now placed in the market in consequence of Mr. J. K. Clark's intention to visit Europe.
Plans of the property are being prepared, and every necessary information can be obtained from the Agents in Sydney.

Preliminary Notice.

WEDNESDAY, 24th August, 1881.

Bona Fide Sale of Grand Squatting Property,
GLENARIFF STATION,
Warrego district of New South Wales.

WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER (in conjunction with Messrs. Griffiths and Weaver, Sydney, and Messrs. R. Goldsbrough and Co., Melbourne) have received instructions from Messrs. Jones and Russell to sell by public auction, at the Exchange Rooms, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 24th August next,
at 2.30 p.m. sharp,
Their very extensive and elaborately improved station,
"GLENARIFF,"
containing about 320,000 acres of first-class wool-growing and fattening country, admitted to be at least equal in quality to any in the far-famed Riverina district.
With the station will be sold
80,000 first-class sheep.
Final delivery to be taken after shearing; AND THE CLIP OF WOOL AND THE INCREASE FROM 33,700 EWES WILL BE GIVEN IN to the purchaser.
Full particulars in future advertisement.

For letters to inspect, apply to the Agents.

☞ This is without exception one of the most extensive and valuable properties brought into the market for some time past.

PRELIMINARY ADVERTISEMENT.

Important Sale of large FIRST-CLASS SQUATTING PROPERTY on the Gwydir.
"BOGAMILDI."

THE AUSTRALASIAN MORTGAGE and AGENCY COMPANY (Limited), in conjunction with Wilkinson, Graves, and Lavender, have received instructions from the proprietors, Messrs. W. R. Scott and Co., to sell by auction, in MELBOURNE,
on TUESDAY, the 16th of AUGUST,
at 2.30 p.m. sharp,
THE BOGAMILDI STATION,
GWYDIR DISTRICT, NEW SOUTH WALES,
comprising an area of about 382,000 acres of SPLENDID SHEEP COUNTRY, of which 17,257 acres are freehold, and 8343 acres conditionally purchased, the whole being abundantly watered by large frontages to the Gwydir River and Gill Gill Creek, as well as by numerous tanks and dams.

About 252,000 acres are most substantially fenced in and subdivided into 21 paddocks.
With the station will be sold
100,000 SUPERIOR SHEEP,
a large proportion of these having been selected from first-class Riverina flocks, and of which 50,000 are lambing ewes, together with 4000 well-bred cattle, and 150 horses.
The improvements are all of the very best possible description, and are complete in every particular.
The DELIVERY will be given OFF THE SHEARS, and the clip of wool and the lambs will be given in. Further particulars in future advertisements, and the fullest information can now be had at the offices of the agents,
THE AUSTRALASIAN MORTGAGE AND AGENCY CO.,
(Limited),
Melbourne and Sydney;
or
WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER,
Sydney, Wagga Wagga, and Hay.

FRIDAY, JULY 22.
To Shipowners, Merchants, Speculators, and Others.
FOR POSITIVE SALE,
BARQUE NARDOO,
379 Tons Register,
A1 at Lloyd's.

LORD and HUGHES are instructed to sell to highest bidder, at PUBLIC AUCTION, at Melbourne Exchange, on FRIDAY, July 22, at twelve o'clock, the splendid A1 barque NARDOO,

379 tons register
131 ft. 3 in. length
27 ft. 2 in. beam
16 ft 4 in. hold.
Built under special survey in Dundee, 1869, recoppered and reclassed in 1880, when she had a complete overhaul, new sails, new rigging, extra fastened, &c., and now is in complete order for any voyage, or any cargo; recommended for seven years' certificate.
As this vessel is a handy size, and for positive sale, with prospects for high freights for the next five years for this class of vessels, it offers a splendid opportunity to shipowners, speculators, and others to obtain a fine vessel at a reasonable price. For further particulars, with inventory, apply to the auctioneers, No. 5, Mutual Provident-buildings, Melbourne.

BY DIRECTION OF THE EXECUTORS OF THE LATE
ANDREW MURRAY, ESQ.

PENNANT HILLS.

545 ACRES,
being the land comprised in THREE GRANTS and well known as MURRAY'S ORCHARD and GARDEN, situate on the HEIGHTS OF PENNANT HILLS, about 4½ miles from
PARRAMATTA RAILWAY STATION, fronting
PENNANT HILLS ROAD
on two sides,
and the GOVERNMENT ARMS ROAD, adjoining
FIELD OF MARS COMMON, and surrounded by
HIGHLY IMPROVED PROPERTIES, ORCHARDS
VINEYARDS
HOMESTEADS FARMS,
and many PRETTY COUNTRY ESTATES.

☞ ALTHOUGH the area is given as 545 ACRES BY GRANT it is believed that BY SURVEY the acreage will be found to be CONSIDERABLY in EXCESS, as is the case with most of the EARLY GRANTS.

The TIMBER on the PROPERTY is of great value, and being so near to market can easily be disposed of for building purposes.

The WATER SUPPLY is ABUNDANT in all seasons throughout the Property.

THE VIEWS ARE INCOMPARABLY GRAND, and are unsurpassed from any other property on the PENNANT HILLS or HEIGHTS of RYDE.

They embrace
THE BLUE MOUNTAINS and PRETTY SURROUNDING COUNTRY.

The greater part of the Property is fenced in.

PLAN IS ON VIEW AT THE ROOMS.

HARDIE and GORMAN, under instructions from the EXECUTORS of the late ANDREW MURRAY, Esq., will sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11.30 o'clock,

WEDNESDAY, 27th JULY,

That MAGNIFICENT COUNTRY ESTATE,
the most CHARMING SPOT on
PENNANT HILLS,
well known as the
ORCHARD and GARDEN
of the late Mr. MURRAY, embracing all that the heart can wish for in THE VIEWS,
which are grand, extensive, and beautiful.
THE SOIL,
which is of the richest description, not surpassed by any in the district.
THE ELEVATION
equal to the mountains.
THE POSITION,
at present very convenient, but on the construction of the NORTHERN RAILWAY it will be VERY HANDY to TOWN.

The SALE of the FIELD OF MARS COMMON,
by the Government,
will open up this district splendidly.

Now is the time to purchase, before
THE RAILWAYS
and
THE TRAMWAYS
are constructed.

MAGNIFICENT FARM at the CANOBLAS,
FOUR MILES from ORANGE,
119 ACRES, 3 ROODS, and 7 PERCHES of FINE AGRICULTURAL LAND, equal to anything in the FAMOUS CANOBLAS. NEVER-FAILING SPRINGS run through the property in the driest seasons.

The FARM is divided into PADDOCKS and CULTIVATION GROUND, and is bounded by the main road into Orange.

☞ The IMPROVEMENTS include HOUSE, FENCING, &c., &c. The PUBLIC SCHOOL is within half a mile, and also a Chapel and Church of England.

☞ The VIEW from the Farm is simply Grand. Standing on the hilltop and looking east, you can see BATHURST PLAINS, the BLUE MOUNTAINS, and the TOWN of ORANGE. In the north-west can be seen the MOUNTAINS of which Hill End forms a part; north and west the eye reaches over a vast extent of hill and dale as far as WELLINGTON and DUBBO (90 miles), in one unbroken sweep. On the south rises the GRAND OLD CANOBLAS MOUNTAIN, 4610 feet above sea level, with its Grand English Climate and Rich Chocolate Soil, and from which one of those most beautiful views in the colony is obtained.

The district around ORANGE is too well known for WHEAT-GROWING and Farming generally to require comment. The FARMERS, too, it is well known, enjoy a PROSPERITY unknown elsewhere.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from Mr. DAVID WHITE, to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, at 11.30 o'clock,

WEDNESDAY, 27th JULY,

His well-known FARM at the CANOBLAS, ORANGE, in area about 120 ACRES of RICH LAND.

ARRANGEMENTS can be made on application to the AUCTIONEERS, for inspecting the FARM.

A GENTLEMAN'S COUNTRY ESTATE
and
STUD FARM.

VARRAVILLE,
1000 ACRES of IMPROVED LAND,
well known as, for many years, the country estate of the late Judge Cheeke; and, since his decease, as the residence of F. W. Suttor, Esq.

VARRAVILLE
is situate within two or three miles of CAMPBELL FIELDS RAILWAY STATION, within about an hour's comfortable journey of SYDNEY by rail.

THE WHOLE of the ESTATE is WELL FENCED-IN, and the GREATER PORTION is CLEARED and DIVIDED INTO PADDOCKS. CULTIVATION AREAS, &c., &c.

The IMPROVEMENTS include a most substantial FAMILY RESIDENCE,
containing 14 rooms, pantries, cellars, &c., extensive outhouses, and stabling, HORSE-BOXES, coachhouse, barn, piggery, &c., &c.

VARRAVILLE is a MAGNIFICENT PROPERTY, convenient to SYDNEY, close to the RAILWAY LINE, and is admirably adapted for STUD purposes, or for a FIRST-CLASS GRAZING and CULTIVATION ESTATE suitable for a SQUATTER or GENTLEMAN of MEANS, combining the enjoyments and pursuits of country life with nearness to the METROPOLIS.

Cards to view must be obtained at the Rooms.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from F. W. SUTTOR, Esq., to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11.30 o'clock,

WEDNESDAY, 27th JULY

(unless previously disposed of by private contract),
HIS WELL-KNOWN and FIRST-CLASS COUNTRY ESTATE, VARRAVILLE,
within about an hour's ride by train of Sydney, and in a district noted for its pretty scenery and undulating country.

An immense sum of money must have been spent on VARRAVILLE by both its late and its present owner to bring it to its present improved condition. Everything about the property is first-class, and in good order.

The auctioneers desire to draw the attention of squatters and others in this and the other colonies to the sale of this princely property,

VARRAVILLE,
the residence of F. W. Suttor, Esq.

Preliminary Intimation.

THE CROWN-STREET PRIMITIVE METHODIST CHURCH and COTTAGE ADJOINING, situate nearly opposite to the STEAM LAUNDRY, and about midway between those arteries of city traffic, OXFORD-STREET and WILLIAM-STREET.

☞ The CHURCH BUILDING is SUBSTANTIAL and CAPACIOUS, about 22 x 50, and is admirably adapted, both from its central position and its construction, for use as a CHURCH, PUBLIC HALL, and LECTURE ROOM, or as a FACTORY.

☞ The COTTAGE is well built of brick, and contains 4 rooms and kitchen.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from the TRUSTEES of the CROWN-STREET PRIMITIVE METHODIST CHURCH to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11.30 o'clock,

WEDNESDAY, 27th JULY,

CORONA STATION.
For Delivery after Shearing.

ETTERSHANK, EAGLESTONE, and MANN have been favoured with instructions from the owners to offer by public auction, at Menzies' Hotel, Bourke-street West, Melbourne, on THURSDAY, the 4th August next, at 3 o'clock,

CORONA STATION,

Situate in the Albert district of New South Wales, near the South Australian boundary, comprising an area of over of first-class country, covered with grass, salt and cotton bush, and abundance of various other shrubs of very fattening properties.

The portion of the country now occupied is fenced and subdivided by five and six wire fencing, the posts being 12 feet apart, and is abundantly watered by eight wells, and also tanks and dams. The wells are worked with whims, and at five of them are stone cemented tanks capable of holding 25,000 or 30,000 gallons of water. All the wells are supplied with troughing, and have a horse paddock and yard at each.

The improvements include homestead of 12 rooms, detached kitchen, bachelors' quarters, store, carpenter's and blacksmith's shops, hut to accommodate 30 men, woolshed for 20 shearers, wool-room for 800 bales, and cover for about 1500 sheep. The whole of the buildings are of stone, roofed with iron; also, overseer's stone cottage of four rooms, boundary riders' huts where required, and first-class drafting-yards.

The plant is very complete, and sufficient to improve the run to its utmost capability.

The run will be offered with about 60,000 well-bred sheep, including lambs
300 head of cattle
70 horses, including a draught and blood entire.

Corona is about 450 miles from Adelaide, whence carriage for wool and stores is readily obtainable at about £7 per ton.

This valuable and extensive property is for positive sale, and should command the attention of capitalists, the whole of it being first-class country, of great carrying capacity, and the improvements being new and most substantial, having been erected within the last five years with a view to working the property when fully stocked, thus considerably lessening future outlay.

For further particulars or letters to inspect, apply to ETTERSHANK, EAGLESTONE, and MANN,
43, Queen-street, Melbourne.

MUMBLEBONE STATION,
Bligh District.

For Positive UNRESERVED SALE,
To close partnership accounts.

PITT, SON, and BADGERY have received instructions from Messrs. Kater and Davidson to sell by auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, the 20th July, at 3 o'clock, Their well-known fattening run, MUMBLEBONE, of an estimated area of 80,000 acres, together with about 40,000 sheep

1,000 cattle
5,300 acres freehold and secured land.

This splendid property, which is situate about 20 miles below Warren, has a frontage of about 16½ miles to the Macquarie River, and at out the same to both sides of the Crooked Creek.

It is substantially fenced into 9 large and 5 small paddocks, and there is a comfortable homestead, good new woolshed for 24 shearers, &c.

The country, which consists wholly of myall and saltbush plains, is quite equal to anything in the district; and during the past summer upwards of 50,000 sheep have been depasturing on it, this number having since been reduced by the sale of some 4,000 or 7000 fat wethers and 3000 cull ewes, the latter of which were sold at 9s 9d.

The sheep consist of about 12,200 lambing ewes (none over 6 years), 6000 fattening wethers, the rest from 2 to 6-tooth, and all station bred. They have always been carefully culled, and compare favourably with most Riverina flocks.

Shearing will commence early in August, so that the purchaser will have an immediate return from the clip, and will also have some 10,000 lambs given in.

The run is put into the market solely on account of the present partnership having expired, and the determination of the principal partner to take a trip to the old country.

Horses will have to be taken at a valuation, there being several valuable brood mares, entires, &c.; but stores, belongings, &c., will be given in.

The terms will be one third cash, and the balance at one, two, and three years, with interest payable at 6 per cent.

The Auctioneers deem it superfluous to say anything in praise of the property, but will be happy to show intending purchasers plans, particulars of stock, &c., on application to them.

PITT, SON, and BADGERY, Agents.

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

VALUABLE FATTENING STATION PROPERTIES,
Liverpool Plains District.

On the Namoi River.

Drildool Station, comprising the blocks or runs, Drildool, Cubbaroo, and Dead Bullock Warrambool, of an estimated area of 118,500 acres, with about 6000 fat and fattening cattle and 600 acres purchased land. This run is all fenced and otherwise highly improved.

On the Barwon River and Thalaba Creek.

Pokataroo and Oreel Stations, comprising the blocks—Pokataroo, Behind Pokataroo, North Oreel, South Oreel, Merrywinebone, Back South Oreel, and Back South Merrywinebone, of an estimated area of 330,000 acres, together with about 14,000 cattle, 5000 sheep, and 1200 acres purchased land.

PITT, SON, and BADGERY have received instructions from Thos. Cook, Esq., to sell by auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, on TUESDAY, 23rd August, at noon,

The above magnificent pastoral properties.

Drildool is situated on the Namoi River, 12 miles from Pilliga, and 30 miles below Wee Waa. It has a frontage of about 13 miles to the Namoi River, and is well watered on the back by numerous lagoons and watercourses. The country is of the richest fattening description. The frontage to the Namoi is liable to floods, but the whole of the back consists of extensive plains, with here and there belts of timber, and is admirably adapted for either sheep or cattle.

The improvements consist of boundary fence on three sides by 45 miles of fencing, viz., two sides by three wires and one side by two rails and one wire; the Namoi River forms the other boundary. The run is also subdivided by a substantial three-wire fence.

There is a dwelling-house, containing six rooms, together with men's quarters, outhouses, &c. Also, good stock-yard, capable of holding and working the herd; branding-yard, covered with galvanized iron; house, killing and milking yards, good horse, paddocks, &c.

The cattle number about 6000 head, about one-third of which are cows and the balance bullocks and nearly all over 3 years. They are a picked lot all through, and half could be turned off as fat by the end of the year. At present there are several drafts of splendid fat cattle ready for market.

Drildool Station would make a grand sheep run, and the purchaser might safely count on being able to put on 30,000 sheep by the end of the year, without interfering with the cattle then remaining on it.

POKATAROO and OREEL STATIONS are situate some 30 miles north of Drildool, and form a large compact block of most magnificent country, certainly not more than two-thirds stocked. They have about 15 miles frontage to the Barwon River, about the same to the Mehi, and about 35 miles to both sides of the Thalaba Creek, besides numerous creeks and watercourses.

The country requires but little comment, as it has always been admitted to be the best on the Barwon, and unsurpassed in New South Wales. It could be turned into sheep at once, as by putting a few overshot dams in the Thalaba Creek, there would be ample room on the east end of Oreel for 60,000 sheep, without interfering with the cattle in any way. The season also being a splendid one, and a fair proportion of the cattle being of marketable ages, a large number could be turned off as fat during the next few months.

The runs, with the exception of a few miles, are all fenced, partly sheep proof, and it would not require a large outlay to turn out the sheep mentioned above. There are good comfortable homesteads, both at Pokataroo and Oreel, with all necessary huts, yards, paddocks, &c., for the efficient working of the stations.

The cattle are a splendid lot, having been carefully and heavily culled for many years past, and the JBO brand is one of the best known in the Sydney market.

Terms:

One-third cash, the balance in one, two, three, and four years, with interest at 6 per cent.

In submitting these valuable stations for public competition, the auctioneers would strongly advise intending buyers to go and inspect for themselves, for there is no doubt of the fact that they can be converted into sheep stations very rapidly, and the cattle, or at least the greater portion of them, worked off as fat during the next 18 months, added to which the owner has determined on selling and taking a trip to the old country.

Plans, lithographs, and any further particulars can be had on application to the agents,

PITT, SON, and BADGERY, Sydney.

PRELIMINARY ADVERTISEMENT.
LILA SPRINGS and PERILLIE.
THURSDAY, 4th AUGUST, 1881.
Splendid Squatting Property, on the Warrego, in the Albert District, N. S. W.

POWERS, RUTHERFORD, and CO. are instructed by the owners, Messrs. A. and A. C. Wilson, to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, 79, Collins-street West, Melbourne, on THURSDAY, 4th August, at half-past 2 p.m.,

The Lila Springs and Perillie Runs, containing about 1050 square miles of country, having a frontage of about 46 miles to the east and 32 miles west of the Warrego River; also about 9 miles frontage to both sides of the Irrara Creek, besides having Green's Creek, which runs through the property for 32 miles; also an anabranch of the Warrego. With the station will be sold about 44,500 sheep, of which 27,000 are ewes with lambs at foot; 5000 cattle, 100 horses.

The fencing consists of 215 miles of wire and 17 miles of brush, enclosing eight sheep and eight horse paddocks, and partially enclosing cattle paddocks. There are nine dams and ten tanks completed, also three wells and two supply tanks. The other improvements consist of two homesteads, woolshed, scouring plant, huts, outbuildings, and yards. Delivery of sheep from the board, purchaser getting the wool. If this property is not disposed of in one lot, will be sold Lila Springs with the cattle, and Perillie with the sheep. For further particulars and plans apply to the auctioneers, POWERS, RUTHERFORD, and CO.

VALUBLE UNDERSTOCKED SHEEP STATION
WIRLONG,
NORTH LACHLAN DISTRICT,
NEW SOUTH WALES.
188,000 Acres
41,073 Sheep.

PECK, HUDSON, and RAYNOR (in conjunction with Wilkinson, Graves, and Lavender) have received instructions from Messrs. Booth, Oakden, and Co. to sell by public auction, at Menzies' Hotel, on THURSDAY, 11th August next, at 3 p.m.,

THE WIRLONG STATION,

comprising the well-known blocks Wirlong and Priory A, B, and C, with an area of about 188,000 acres of first-class sheep country, heavily grassed, and interspersed with salt cotton bush, and a variety of fattening shrubs.

All well fenced, with the exception of ten miles on boundary of C Block (which block, with part of the Block B, has never been used), and subdivided into six convenient sheep paddocks, besides home-stead paddocks.

The fencing principally five and six wires.

Plentifully watered by two never-failing springs, three permanent wells, fitted with M'Comas's pump and troughing, 14 main tanks and dams, up to 26ft. in depth; besides nine smaller tanks. These include two tank dams at Crowl Creek, permanent sheets of water 24ft. and 26ft. deep, which alone cost over £2000.

Total excavations, 90,510 cubic yards.

Improvements include comfortable well-built homestead and well-stocked garden with water laid on to both from a permanent spring by M'Comas pump, tank, and piping, all necessary outbuildings, and the second spring close to the hut.

New woolshed of sawn timber and iron roof, with new Wilding's patent press, accommodation for 24 shearers, and storage for 500 bales. Complete drafting-yards.

At out-station good four-roomed cottage, horse paddock, and drafting yards.

With the run will be sold the following stock (more or less):—

Wethers.		Ewes.
900	eight tooth	21,100	lambing, mixed ages
6300	four tooth	6750	two tooth
6400	two tooth
12,950		27,850

Rams, 273.
Total, 41,073 sheep.
20 horses.
Small herd of milkers.

The sheep have been bred with great care, principally from ewes purchased from Messrs. Whittingham, Bros., Willandra, and D. Cameron, Lake Meran; both flocks Fisher-bred, and by superior pure rams imported from Tasmania, from the stud flocks of Messrs. T. and G. Parramore, also by Fisher, Cobran, and Canowie rams.

The lambs from the 21,100 ewes will be given in. Last season's dropping was 85 per cent. Prospects equally good this.

If the purchasers are willing, the vendors will give £2 2s. per head for a selection of 500 ewes.

The vendors have spared no expense in the improvement of the property, and sell in consequence of having purchased a larger station.

Hence this is for bona fide sale.

TUESDAY, 23rd AUGUST, 1881.

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

That Magnificent, Pastoral, and Agricultural Freehold Property known as ORETI STATION.

MESSRS. MACDERMOTT, BROTHERS, and SCARR, in conjunction with WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER, have received instructions from the owner to sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the EXCHANGE ROOMS, SYDNEY, at noon, on TUESDAY, the 23rd August next,

DERMATOLOGY.

JAMES H. ADGER,
DERMATOLOGIST—
Office: 131, Elizabeth-street, Sydney, south of Market-street—treats successfully all Diseases of the Skin and Scalp
Loss of Hair, and Premature Blanching.

Synopsis of Mr. ADGER'S Theory and Treatment of Cutaneous Disorders which affect the Hair.

Particular attention is called to my theory of treating diseased scalps, or restoring hair; it, no doubt, will commend itself to every intelligent and reflective mind as being the only method based on physiological principles which has ever been presented to the public for the restoration of the hair.

Because persons have tried various preparations for the hair and have been deceived by them, and in some cases their difficulties made worse by their use, they should not be discouraged. The one-preparation system for all classes of diseases must necessarily prove a failure; no one compound can be available for all diseases; it may remove some, when in other cases it is useless, and in many positively injurious.

My method is in accordance with the law of cause and effect. I make a personal examination, ascertain what particular disease of the scalp has produced, or is producing, a loss of hair or premature whitening, and prescribe remedies according to its nature and requirements that will remove it. Hence my great success in treating capillary diseases.

My experience has been gained by study with the most eminent Dermatologists in the United States and in England, and by the devotion of the greater portion of my life (more than 20 years) to the investigation, theoretically and practically, of this speciality—the treatment of all diseases of the scalp, loss of hair, premature blanching, and general cultivation and growth of the hair; and as the result of this experience I may point to my flattering success during several years' practice in this city, without reference to the many special cures I have effected, as the best proof of the general efficiency of my system of treatment.

JAMES H. ADGER.

Mr. Adger can be consulted at his office, 131, Elizabeth-street, where letters and testimonials are open to inspection which must satisfy the most sceptical, signed as they are by persons of the highest position in society.

It will be obvious that no person could have obtained such names as an endorsement of his professional ability without constant proof of merit.

THE FACTS OF THE CASE.

The ONLY FIRST and SPECIAL PRIZE for Sewing-Machines at the SYDNEY INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, and similar honours, with the addition of THE GOLD MEDAL,
at MELBOURNE INTERNATIONAL, were awarded to the NEW DAVIS VERTICAL FEED, as being, in the words of the special jury of experts, "infinitely superior to all the others, and going through every test to their entire satisfaction."

IMPUDENT ASSERTIONS have been made by the agents of rival machines, claiming first prizes at Melbourne and Sydney. Such assertions are untrue, if intended to apply to either of the Exhibitions mentioned, as at neither of them were any FIRST or SPECIAL awards given to any sewing-machine but THE NEW DAVIS.

Send for catalogue and samples.
